It is understood that Harry Sinclair has practically decided not to carry an appeal to the board of directors of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana.

• • • •

There is some consolation in the reflection that when we journey down to the Shenandoah Valley to see the blossoms the apples will be ripe.

• • • •

By all means let's have the Gravelly Point airport—a small amendment to the Senate's farm relief bill, abolishing fog, can easily take care of that unimportant physical liability.

Charles Curtis spends the day at Bowie, and we certainly hope for his sake that the ponies all ran according to his ideas of precedence.

As for the modest brother-in-law in the background, we gather he is entirely content to be among the also Gann.

Their woolen undies shed;
And frisk about in B. V. D.'s
Forgetting that in May they'll freeze,
And have colds in the head.
'Tis wise to heed the voice of reason,
And not to try to rush the season.

Fare weather for Jimmy Walker—the Supreme Court gives the Mayor another term.

• • • •

Mr. Sinclair perhaps will be able to extract a few drops of consolation from the reflection that the last person who went to jail in Washington for contempt of a committee of Congress not only regained his liberty, but sued for damages and obtained them. There was also an interesting case of the kind growing out of a celebrated sugar investigation, and on second thought this probably was later than the better-known case of Hallet Kilbourn and his spectacular fight with the House of Representatives over the so-called "real estate ring."

Only two cents is involved in the Supreme Court's decision in the New York rapid transit case, but, as Col. Mulberry Sellers said, "there's millions in it."

Member of the Central High School girls' rifle team is accidentally shot in the leg, a calamity that wouldn't have befallen her if she had been attending a class in cooking and sewing. Are the young women of America getting ready to go to the front in the next war, or is this kind of target-practice nonsense just a senseless expenditure of the taxpayers' money?

On the other hand, something possibly may be said for the flapper bride whose husband realizes from the beginning that she can plug the bull's-eye at 100 yards.

WITNESSES AT HEARING PRAISE GRAVELLY SITE FOR NATIONAL AIRPORT

COMMITTEE TO VIEW OTHER LAND OFFERED

Question of Fog Raised; to Be Decided by Opinion of U. S. Experts.

$6,000,000 PROGRAM PUT ON 50-50 BASIS

MacCracken and Two Service Authorities Are Heard; Meet Again Today.

The Gravelly Point site for Washington's proposed municipal airport was by far the favorite at yesterday's hearing before the joint Congressional Airport Commission. Seven witnesses indorsed the site, while only one condemned it.

The senators and representatives on the commission, of course, will withhold judgment until they have seen all the proposed sites. They plan to view them from the cabin of a trimotored army transport.

The only controversial feature about Gravelly Point was the fog, but the majority of the experts felt that this problem was hardly serious enough to disqualify the site. Its advantages as to location and cost were conceded by all.

Senator Hiram Bingham, of Connecticut, chairman of the commission, regarded the question of fog as so important, however, that he requested Dr Charles F. Marvin, chief of the United States Weather Bureau, to make a survey and determine how the density and frequency of this element at Gravelly Point compares with the density and frequency at other sites. This survey will be completed before Congress meets for its regular session in December.

Davison Presents Program.

Through Maj. D. A. Davison, Assistant Engineer Commissioner, the District Commissioners yesterday placed before the joint commission a definite airport program, one calling for an ultimate expenditure at Gravelly Point of $6,000,000, to be paid for by the Federal and District governments on a 50-50 basis.

The Commissioners recommended that Congress authorize an initial outlay of $2,600,000. This would pay for the filling in of the shoals at Gravelly Point and provide a flying field of 348 acres.

Later on, under the plan of the Commissioners, $1,400,000 more would be appropriated for additional hangars, runways and other facilities. In fifteen or twenty years they believe that the air traffic will have developed to an extent where it will be necessary to increase the total expenditure to about $6,000,000 so as to enlarge the field to 610 acres.

Many Indorse Site.

In addition to Maj. Davison, those who appeared before the commission yesterday and indorsed the Gravelly Point site were William P. MacCracken, Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Aeronautics; Col. Harry H. Blee, chief of the airports division of the Department of Commerce; Commander John H Towers, U. S. N., representing the Secretary of the Navy; Maj. Frank M. Kennedy, Army Air Corps, representing the Secretary of War; Maj. Carey Brown, representing National Park and Planning Commission, and Maj. Brehon Somervell, representing the Engineer Corps of the Army.

The opponent of Gravelly Point was Assistant Postmaster General Irving Glover, who is in charge of his department's air mail service. Declaring that

Diplomats Ask Ruling On Seating Mrs. Gann

Designate British Envoy to Obtain Decision; Heflin Threatens Action.

(Associated Press.)

The Diplomatic Corps at a meeting at the British Embassy last night agreed that Sir Esme Howard, the British Ambassador and Dean of the corps, immediately should ask the State Department for a definite ruling on the social status of Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, sister of Vice President Curtis.

The diplomatic representatives were called together by the British Ambassador. The discussion over what action should be taken lasted nearly two hours.

The corps decided that since Vice President Curtis had protested to the State Department against a ruling by former Secretary Kellogg placing Mrs. Gann, at social functions, after the wives of the heads of foreign missions, that it would be better to have Mrs. Gann's status definitely established by Secretary of State Stimson.

It was pointed out that a large number of outstanding social functions are expected before the vacation season starts and that a ruling by Secretary

UPRISING CHIEF DESIGNATED AS MEXICO'S HEAD

Insurgents Name Escobar Provisional President of the Republic.

CABINET SELECTION IS BEING CONSIDERED

Calles Leaves for Sinaloa to Direct Operations Against Rebels.

NEW BATTLE LOOMS FOR TOWN OF NACO

U. S. Airplanes Continuing to Patrol Border; Cavalry Sent to Hachita.

Juarez, Chihuahua, April 8 (A.P.).—Gen. Jose Gonzalo Escobar has been proclaimed provisional president of the Mexican insurgents. This was announced here today.

Gen. Escobar is considering selection of a cabinet, and has appointed Alejo Bey minister of the treasury. Bey was chief steward in Chapultepec Castle under the late President Alvaro Obregon and is a former governor of Sonora.

Claim was made at rebel headquarters here today that rebel forces now have possession of Torreon, in the State of Coahuila, from which rebels retreated more than three weeks ago.

At the same time it was admitted that federal forces occupy Santa Rosalia, Boquilla and Parral, points considerably north of Torreon.

Will Hold Juarez.

Mexican revolutionary forces are planning to hold Juarez and other cities in Chihuahua and are not preparing to evacuate the state in the face of reverses at Jimenez and La Reforma, rebel chiefs said.

Gen. Escobar announced that Chihuahua City still was in the hands of his forces. He said plans were being made for another battle and indicated it might take place in the State of Chihuahua or Sonora, depending upon circumstances. He said he planned to remain in Juarez several days on business and then would return to Chihuahua City.

Nogales, Sonora, April 8 (A.P.).—Gen. Francisco Manzo, commanding the rebel army on the western coast of Mexico, has been relieved by Gen. J. G. Escobar, commander in chief of the revolutionary armies, who will arrive here tomorrow by plane from the State of Chihuahua, it was reported at rebel headquarters today. The report said Escobar would direct a drive down the coast.

U. S. Takes Precautions.

San Antonio, Tex., April 8 (A.P.).—A squadron of cavalry at Fort Bliss, El Paso, late today was ordered by Maj Gen. William Lassiter, U. S. Army Eighth Corps Area commander, to proceed immediately to Hachita, N. Mex. The movement was described as a "protective measure." The squadron will be equipped fully.

Hachita is a small railroad town in the southwestern "corner" of New Mexico about 10 miles north of the United States-Mexican border. It is some 110 miles west of El Paso.

Mexico City, April 8 (A.P.).—Headquarters of the federal armies operating against the insurgents in northern Mexico were shifted toward the Pacific Coast today as Gen. Calles, the federal commander in chief, hastened to Mazatlan with the avowed purpose of terminating the campaign in Sinaloa as rapidly as he had achieved a clean-up in Chihuahua.

Travels Rebel Country.

Gen. Calles, accompanied by his staff and a strong escort of troops, arrived at Guadalajara at midnight and planned to continue to Mazatlan late today or tomorrow morning. He is using the same train that served as his headquarters during the northern campaign. It provides comfortable living quarters and is equipped with a special radio coach which makes possible invaluable radio communications.

In order to reach Guadalajara Gen. Calles was obliged to pass through the heart of country where bands of irregular rebels, known as "cristeros," have been harassing small towns, assaulting

SINCLAIR'S CONVICTION FOR CONTEMPT UPHELD; HAS 25 DAYS TO APPEAL

Underwood & Underwood.

HARRY F. SINCLAIR.

Rehearings Are Seldom Granted, However, by Supreme Bench.

JUSTICES UNANIMOUS IN OPINION OF GUILT

Refusal to Answer Senate Queries on Oil Deal Drew Sentence.

LOWER COURT RULING ON TERM SUSTAINED

Ordered Oil Millionaire to Cell for Three Months for Silence as Witness.

(Associated Press.)

Harry F. Sinclair, under a Supreme Court decision rendered yesterday, must serve three months in jail for contempt of the Senate in refusing to answer all questions asked in the Teapot Dome oil investigation. The opinion of the court was unanimous.

The wealthy oil operator will have 25 days in which to ask for a rehearing before the mandate will be issued but rehearings are seldom granted. In addition to the jail sentence he must pay a fine of $300.

Sinclair had appeared several times before the committee as a witness at the time he was called again on March 22, 1924. The committee, through Senator Walsh (Democrat), Montana, sought to obtain information concerning a contract made on September 28, 1922, by Sinclair in behalf of the Mammoth Oil Co. with F. G. Bonfils and John Leo Stack.

Silent on $336,000 Deal.

Questioned concerning the contract which the committee had been informed called for a payment of $350,000 to Bonfils and Stack for surrendering rights they claimed on Teapot Dome, Sinclair refused to answer. He took the position that the Senate having adopted a resolution on February 8, 1924, calling upon the President to cause proceedings to be instituted to cancel the leases on naval oil reserves made by Albert B Fall as Secretary of the Interior, the inquiry had passed beyond the control of the Senate committee. He insisted that a suit having been started charging conspiracy and fraud, he could not be compelled to testify as a witness except in the courts.

When brought to trial Sinclair contended the questions he refused to answer related to his private affairs, and to matters in the control of the courts and challenged the jurisdiction of the Senate committee to continue its investigation in view of the suits which had been filed in the courts.

Justice Butler, who delivered the opinion canceling the leases on the naval oil reserves, presented the views of the court yesterday pointing out, after a careful review of the case's history, that it had been held in the case against Mal Daugherty that the two Houses of Congress "possess not only such powers as are expressly granted to them by the Constitution, but such auxiliary powers as are necessary and appropriate to make the express powers effective." This decision, he added, also held that neither house is invested with 'general' power to inquire into private affairs and compel disclosures, but only with such limited power of inquiry as is shown to exist when the rule of constitutional interpretation just stated is rightly applied."

When Power Is Limited.

"The power of inquiry is an essential and appropriate auxiliary to the legislative function," the justice said, adding that "it must be exerted with due regard for the rights of witnesses, and that a witness rightfully may refuse to answer where the bounds of the power are exceeded or where the questions asked are not pertinent to the matter under inquiry.

Few, if any, of the rights of the people are of greater importance to

CAFE MAN INDICTED IN FIGHT AT RESORT

Torres Accused of Assault With Intent to Kill in Behrens Inquiry.

2 WOMEN FREED ON BONDS

Emilio Torre, Washington restaurant proprietor, was indicted yesterday by the Prince Georges County grand jury on a charge of assault with intent to kill. The indictment charges assault on Lewis Behrens, alias John Bunny, 1632 S street northwest. Torre was arrested in connection with the fatal shooting of Charles Wesley Poutra and the wounding of Joseph Hauser at the Green Gables roadhouse near Suitland, Md. Behrens was injured in the fight.

Torre has been incarcerated in the county jail at Upper Marlboro for eight days. His wife and brother visited him yesterday and held conferences with Sheriff Charles S. Early and State's Attorney J. Frank Parran with a view to securing his freedom on bond. The Torres were accompanied by Joe Hauser, who is at liberty on bond as a witness.

Two women, who have been held as accessories after the fact to murder in connection with the shooting, were released on bond yesterday. Lucile Grisson, 27, and Evelyn Metcalf, 24, were released after Elmer Pumphrey, professional bondsman, posted $500 bond for each of them. The arrangements for the bond were made by Mrs. Effie Martin, sister of the Metcalf woman, and Lucien Mercier, attorney for the women.

The grand jury, in submitting its report, took cognizance of the roadhouse shooting and recommended closer supervision of roadhouses in the county. The report said:

"So much disorder and crime comes to our attention from the various roadhouses of the county we recommend that these places be required to pay a much higher license and that legisla-

ALLIED BLOC SPURNS NEW GERMAN OFFER

Initial Payment of $300,000,000 Is Rejected by France, Italy and Belgium.

POLITICAL TANGLE ARISES

Paris, April 8 (U.P.).—Political considerations took the attention in the reparations experts' discussions today as a result of a definite offer by Dr. Hjalmar Schacht as to the amount of annuities Germany would be willing to pay.

According to reliable sources, Dr. Schacht offered an initial annuity payment of $300,000,000 which would be increased over a 37-year period to a maximum payment of approximately $500,000,000.

This offer was flatly refused by the French and Italian delegates, the United Press was informed. The French and Italians were reported to have refused to consider anything less than $450,000,000 as a starting figure and increasing over 50 years to a sum equal to the present Dawes plan payments of $625,000,000.

As a result of the refusal the private conferences at which the negotiations were carried out were continued, the Belgian delegates joining with the French and Italian bloc. On the other side were the Germans, while the American, British and Japanese delegates were reported striving to persuade the contenders to adopt a more conciliatory attitude.

Thus, with the negotiations definitely entered into the final stage, the political considerations arose to determine future action of the delegates.

The Germans' offer, while only half the original allied demands, was, nevertheless, the long-awaited proposition which had delayed the conference. The allies have made concessions, it was pointed out, and it now remains to see whether Premier Raymond Poincare, of France, will approve the recommendations of Emile Moreau, chief French delegate, which would provide that reparations be sufficient to pay the French war debts, but not the French pensions or sums expended by France in reconstruction of the war territory.

First political reaction was distinctly unfavorable. French public and official

Prescription Error Ends 3 Boys' Lives

Misplaced Decimal Point Causes Youths to Get Drug Overdoses.

London, April 8 (A.P.).—An inquest held today into the deaths of three boys who came up to London from Sudbury recently to be treated for ringworm, brought out that a misplaced decimal point in a prescription caused the fatalities.

The testimony showed that a mistake made in the calcuation of a quantity of a drug resulted in the oldest child getting 2.5 grammes instead of .25. The others also were given proportionately ten times the desired quantity.

The boys, Charles, Leslie and John Thorpe aged 10, 7 and 5 years, respectively, died under mysterious circumstances after being given medicine from a prescription compounded at the hospital to which they applied. The jury decided that they had died from poison accidentally administered.

PRATT RULE FORBIDS ILLEGALITY IN RAIDS

New Chief Also Warns All Police Force Members Against Laxity.

IRREGULARITY IS BANNED

Illegal and unconstitutional acts by police under the guise of law enforcement will not be tolerated, Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, told his department in a general order sent to all precinct and bureau commanders yesterday.

"Every official act of a duly authorized police officer must be in accordance with 'due process of law,'" Pratt declared in his general order. "Whatever the action, it must be indorsed by public authority and sanctioned by the law of the land.

"Arrests are to be made and prosecution instituted only where the evidence is of such a character as to justify such action, and precinct and bureau commanders will in the future see that only this character of case is presented in court, and will, from time to time, caution the members of their command against extra legal activities."

The new police chief coupled with that declaration a sharp warning that every individual police private and officer will be held "directly responsible for the prompt and effective enforcement of the laws and regulations in force in the District of Columbia, and that the department looks to them to display proper initiative in assuming such responsibility."

Continued commission of law violations in any given territory with no apparent effort of the men on the beat or their officers to take proper action, Pratt said, "will be construed by the department as clearly indicative of inefficiency of command and of execution," and will be followed by investigation and "drastic disciplinary action."

The order is in line with Pratt's determination to place full responsibility for neighborhood conditions directly

STATUS OF MONROE DOCTRINE REVIEWED

ACTION IS UNDETERMINED

(United Press.)

A tentative definition and an exhaustive historical review of the Monroe Doctrine, upon which President Hoover could base a clarifying statement as to the doctrine's meaning and scope, has been prepared by the State Department, it was learned yesterday.

It has not yet been submitted to Mr. Hoover or to Secretary of State Stimson. Preparation of the document began during the closing months of the Coolidge administration, and the draft copy obtained approval of Secretary Kellogg and Chairman William E. Borah of the Senate foreign relations committee. The document's two parts are devoted to discussion of the doctrine as a policy and to a resume of constructions placed upon it since President Monroe's famous message of December 2, 1823.

Discussing the doctrine yesterday, Borah said the time had arrived when it had no practical application to several South American republics.

Two major points with respect to the doctrine as a policy are made by the tentative definition, it is understood:

1. That the Monroe Doctrine is strictly a policy of self-defense.

2. That the Caribbean policy of the United States is distinct from the Monroe Doctrine and that the doctrine could not be made to justify American actions in Haiti, Santo Domingo, Honduras, Mexico and Nicaragua.

It is believed adoption of the tentative document as a formal policy of this Government would relieve the doctrine of the so-called misconstruction applied to it over a period of years.

What action, if any, President Hoover might desire to take upon the basis of the document is not known.

The document is substantially in accord with views previously expressed by Senator Borah and by Secretary Stimson.

Helen Wills Will Curtsey Before Royalty at Court

Tennis Star to Be Received By Queen Mary at London in May.

New York, April 8 (U.P.).—When Helen Wills first met her majesty the Queen of England, the demure California miss wore her hair in long pigtails down her back and her skirts short, for "our Helen" was then the tennis prodigy of the New World, making her first appearance at Wimbledon.

Next month, at Buckingham Palace, Miss Wills, still a tennis prodigy, will again curtsey before her majesty the queen, but this time her hair will be "up," supporting three white plumes and a white veil, while her skirts will be down to her slippers and will end in a long, sweeping train.

Helen would have a lot of trouble covering court in the costume prescribed for next month's ceremony, but that will not trouble her upon this occasion, for she is to fulfill that dream

Cyril, in Capital For Day, Talks Much of Motors, Little of Marriage.

The estate of being a prince is far more pleasant than both the dignity and "business" of being a king, in the opinion of Prince Cyril of Bulgaria, heir to the throne of that country, who arrived in Washington yesterday for a 24-hour visit.

"Being a king," he explained in his suite at the Mayflower Hotel, "is a very different business."

"And being a prince?" he was prompted as he paused.

"Is very agreeable," he replied, smiling.

Prince Cyril has learned to speak English since he arrived in the United States in January, and he not only makes himself heard but also understood.

their happiness and safety, the justice continued, than the rights to be exempt from all unauthorized, arbitrary or unreasonable inquiries and disclosures in respect of their personal and private affairs.

It was clear, he said, that neither the investigation into the oil leases authorized by the Senate resolution, nor the question put to Sinclair, related merely to his private or personal affairs. Congress has plenary power, he added, to make all needful rules and regulations respecting the naval oil reserves. Nothing had been done, the opinion continued, to divest the Senate, through a committee, of its powers to continue the investigation. While Congress could not compel disclosures to aid the prosecution of pending suits, it could require pertinent disclosures, the court announced, in aid of its own constitutional power to legislate, even though the information sought might be of use in pending suits.

Question Was Legitimate.

Justice Butler declared the evidence did not sustain Sinclair's contention that the investigation was avowedly not in aid of legislation, and that he had failed to show that the committee was not proceeding with the purpose of ascertaining whether additional legislation might be advisable. Congress —after it called upon the President to institute proceedings to cancel the leases Fall had made—had authority, the court held, to further investigate the validity of the leases and to discover whether persons other than those in the suit against the Mammoth Oil Co. were involved.

"The question propounded was within the authorization of the committee," the opinion stated, "and the legitimate scope of investigation to enable the Senate to determine whether the powers granted to or assumed by the Secretary of the Interior and the Secretary of the Navy should be withdrawn, limited or allowed to remain unchanged."

The matter for determination, the court explained, "was whether the facts called for by the question were so related to the subjects covered by the Senate's resolution that such facts reasonably could be said to be 'pertinent to the question under inquiry.'" This was for the trial judge to decide, and not for a jury.

The court found no merit in contentions raised by Sinclair on rulings of the trial court about the admission and exclusion of certain evidence, and declared that the contempt judgment was proper.

Takoma Citizens Nominate Officers

John Walker Will Succeed W. A. Hooker as Chief; Brookhart Speaker.

John Walker received the nomination for president of the Takoma Park Citizens Association at a meeting of the organization last night in the Takoma Park Branch of the Public Library. He will succeed William A. Hooker. The annual elections will be held next month.

Others nominated were as follows: First vice president, Herbert W. Rutledge; second vice president, Mrs. Alcena Lamond; secretary, Daniel M. Goodacre; treasurer, Mrs. William L. White; delegates to the Federation of Citizens Associations, John Walker and Burt W. Andrews.

Senator Smith W. Brookhart, of Iowa, the principal speaker, pointed out the necessity for establishment of a disinterested body to act as a board of appeals for Government workers. Brookhart characterized as autocratic the actions of many department chiefs in the matter of giving ratings to Government workers.

Values of Capital Realty Still Rising

Assessor Predicts Increase of $60,000,000 Before End of Fiscal Year.

Washington real estate values are continuing their upward climb, which began in the war period, according to an estimate made yesterday by William P. Richards, District assessor.

The total assessment of real property for taxation purposes next year will be about 4 per cent, approximately the same rate at which the value has increased in the last ten years, Richards said.

In dollars, the assessment for the next fiscal year will be somewhere in the neighborhood of $1,200,000,000, as compared with $1,140,000,000 total assessment this year. The exact figures will not be known until after the assessor has completed hearings on the properties on which owners believe too high valuations have been placed. These will be concluded early in June. No material change is expected in the estimated total as a result of these hearings, however, Richards said.

ARREST OF OIL MAN WAITS ON MANDATE

District Authorities Unable to Arrange for Sinclair's Incarceration.

STEPS HE STILL CAN TAKE

Harry F. Sinclair, millionaire New York oil magnate, has another month of freedom, unless he chooses otherwise.

Although the United States Supreme Court ruled yesterday that Sinclair must serve three months in the District Jail for contempt of the Senate, the mandate of the highest court affirming the sentence is not scheduled to be given the District Court of Appeals until after the passage of 25 court days —May 8.

The appellate court then must pass the mandate on to the District Supreme Court and, usually in such procedure, this is done on the same day the order is received.

United States Attorney Leo A. Rover and Chief Deputy Marshal Stephen B. Callahan stated yesterday that no plans for taking the magnate in custody could be made until the mandate is received.

If Sinclair chooses, he could make arrangements to surrender himself through the district attorney's office and under such circumstances, Rover stated, the United States Supreme Court would be asked to deliver the mandate as expeditiously as possible.

On the other hand, the millionaire, if he desires to fight the case further, may appeal to the United States Supreme Court for a rehearing of the case and in the event such a petition failed, he could appeal to President Herbert Hoover for executive clemency.

Two Found Dead in Bed, Room Filled With Gas

Harrison Murray, 45 years old, and his wife, Lillian, 18 years old, both colored, were found dead in bed yesterday afternoon at their home, 770 Irving street northwest. Three gas burners on a stove in the bedroom were turned on when the bodies were discovered.

Benefits to be derived from a Sodality Union, both by the sodalists and the rural children they help to educate, were outlined by the Right Rev. The occasion was in the nature of a silver jubilee celebration in honor of the archbishop, whose ordination as a priest took place 25 years ago. It has been reported from Rome that the archbishop of Baltimore probably will be one of the eight Catholic dignitaries to be made cardinals next month.

The opening address was made by the Rev. Joseph V. Buckley, spiritual director of the union. Miss Katherine J. Fischer president of the Sodality Union of Baltimore, told of its work in that city. Rural problems were discussed by the Rev. Charles J. Hennessy, of La Plata, Md. A report of the work of the Washington union during 1928 was made by Miss Mary Mattingly, president.

FALL TRIAL IMPROBABLE

(Associated Press.)

The conviction of Harry F. Sinclair for contempt of the Senate is the only one that has been obtained in the many cases which the Senate certified to the District of Columbia courts as a result of disclosures in the celebrated oil investigations.

In all, eight cases were referred, and all have been disposed of except the criminal conspiracy charge against Albert B. Fall, former Interior Secretary, and it is regarded as doubtful that this one ever will come to trial because of the failing health of the aged defendant.

Sinclair was acquitted of the criminal conspiracy charge brought against him as a result of the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve lease, but subsequently was sentenced to six months in jail for contempt of court as a result of the employment of Burns detectives to investigate members of the jury which was to have tried him. His appeal from that sentence now is pending.

Doheny Was Acquitted.

Edward L. Doheny, together with Fall, was found not guilty by a jury which heard charges of conspiracy against him growing out of the lease of the Elk Hills, Calif., naval oil reserve, to him by the then Interior Secretary. In that case was involved a payment of $100,000 to Fall at about the time the lease was made. Doheny said it was a loan.

The charge now pending against Fall grows out of the Teapot Dome lease and rests upon the contention of the Government, set up at the Sinclair trial, that Fall received a total of $250,000 from the wealthy oil operator. Sinclair's defense was that the money was paid for a part interest in the Three Rivers (N. Mex.) ranch properties of the former Cabinet officer.

The other two cases were presented to the courts by the Senate against Robert W. Stewart, recently deposed as chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana. Stewart was acquitted on both charges, one involving contempt of the Senate and the other alleging perjury before the oil committee.

Broker Served Jail Term.

While the Supreme Court upheld the Sinclair conviction on the basis of its ruling in the Mal Daugherty case growing out of the Senate inquiry into the administration of the Department of Justice by Harry M. Daugherty, the conviction in the lower court was based upon another Senate contempt conviction in the nineties.

Elverton R. Chapman, a New York stock broker, refused to testify in the Senate sugar investigation, and was convicted of contempt by a jury. He was sentenced to one month in the District of Columbia Jail, which he served in 1896, and fined $100, which he paid in the same year after the verdict of the jury had been upheld by the Supreme Court.

Auto Reported Stolen.

Benjamin C. Harvel, of 1212 Massachusetts avenue northwest, reported to Second Precinct police last night that he parked his automobile somewhere in Washington last Friday and that he has not been able to locate it. Police broadcast a lookout to all patrolmen in the city.

Sinclair Is Ready to Do Whatever Case Requires

New York, April 8 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—"Mr. Sinclair is prepared to do whatever the circumstances require," Arthur W. Littleton, counsel for the oil magnate, announced today. Mr. Littleton was chief of Harry F. Sinclair's legal forces during the series of civil and criminal investigations growing out of the Teapot Dome scandal.

At the Sinclair offices here, it was said no comment would be made. Reporters were told that Mr. Sinclair was "out of town" and even if found "would not talk."

U. OF V. FRATERNITY DEFIES LIQUOR BAN

National Delta Tau Delta Will Investigate Attitude of Beta Iota Chapter.

AGITATION MONTHS OLD

Baltimore, April 8 (A.P.).—The Baltimore Sun, in a special dispatch from a staff correspondent, tomorrow morning will say that Beta Iota Chapter of the national fraternity, Delta Tau Delta, located at the University of Virginia, has defied the national organization over the reported use of liquor in the chapter house at Charlottesville, Va., and that an investigating body will be named from alumni of the fraternity to make an inquiry into the Virgina case preparatory to revoking the chapter's charter.

Agitation over the alleged use of liquor at the University of Virginia started some months ago, and reached its peak during a visit of President and Mrs. Coolidge to a football game there last Thanksgiving Day. After that episode, when drinking was said to have gone on openly at the game, the Rev. David Hepburn, superintendent of the Virginia Antisaloon League, asked Gov. Byrd to investigate, declaring that the situation at the university was a "State scandal."

An official ban was issued by President Alderman and administrative council January 22, prohibiting the possession of liquor by students on the school property.

The Delta fraternity house is on university property, held under a 99 year lease. The traveling secretary of the national fraternity recently visited the Virginia chapter, and reported to headquarters that liquor was openly drunk in the chapter house and that it was being made in the basement. The secretary said he was told drinking was customary in fraternity houses at Virginia.

C. E. Cuddy, president of the chapter, admitted the first charges, but denied the second categorically. Letters were then sent to all alumni of the chapter by the national headquarters, telling of the report and threatening withdrawal of the charter.

Prior to the meeting of the Arch Chapter (national governing body), the national president received a letter from the Virginia chapter telling its stand on the question:

"The dean has requested the chapters at the university to pass regulations forbidding drinking in chapter house," the letter said, and added: "Beta Iota refuses to do so."

The national president said that the investigating body would be appointed at an early date.

DIVORCE HINTED DUE TO INMAN'S MOTHER

Cross-Examination of Wife on Mrs. Duke's Influence Halted by Objection.

NIGHT CLUB PARTIES TOLD

Reno, Nev., April 8 (A.P.).—Intimations that Mrs. James B. Duke, mother of Walker P. Inman, was the indirect cause of the Inman divorce proceedings were brought out in the cross-examination of Mrs. Inman here today on the seventeenth day of the Inman case being heard in Judge Bartlett's court before a jury.

Lester Summerfield, attorney for Inman, asked Mrs. Inman if she had ever felt that Mrs. Duke was the direct cause of the divorce. Before she could reply, however, George Thatcher, Mrs. Inman's counsel, interrupted with an objection and the question went unanswered.

Summerfield then asked Mrs. Inman if she had not at some time declared that she would sue Mrs. Duke for alienation of affection. She denied that she had ever made the statement. This answer brought a sheaf of newspapers from Summerfield's file from which he attempted to read several alleged interviews with Mrs. Inman. This move was blocked, however, when Mrs. Inman denied that she had ever permitted or directed her attorney to give any interviews to the press.

The name of Paul Mendoza again was injected into the trial in the afternoon session. Mrs. Inman told how she met him and a party of Cubans at the European restaurant. She also told of the parties at the night clubs and how, when her apartment was raided, Mendoza was in the room listening to Kagey Jaeger tell of his experiences as a navigator. She said that Mendoza had come to the apartment at 5 a. m. after leaving the party.

The financial status of Walker Inman was brought up again when Mrs. Inman was asked how she knew her husband was worth five or six million dollars. She replied that she knew from income tax reports that Inman had paid $50,000 income tax.

Mrs. Inman was questioned about her connection with a Mann act case in 1914, when she was 17 years old.

Mrs. Inman was asked if she knew Emma Jentzler, a Department of Justice agent, and she was then permitted to tell her story of the affair. She said she was merely a witness in the case, which involved another girl and a man. She admitted she was detained at the Florence Crittenton Home in New York as a witness, but declared she was not involved in the case.

When Mrs. Inman resumed the stand she was asked a few questions relative to conversations she had had with her mother-in-law, Mrs. James B. Duke, widow of the tobacco magnate, and the Duke attorney, Charles Caldwell. She said Caldwell had once told her she might just as well give up. She said she told Caldwell she loved her husband, but that Caldwell told her they were temperamentally unsited to each other and that she had better accept the settlement offered in the separation agreement which she signed in 1927.

PLOT TO INTIMIDATE ROOSEVELT IS SEEN

Infernal Machine Is Linked With $100,000 Fire at Son-in-Law's Home.

BOMB PROVES TO BE 'DUD'

New York, April 8 (U.P.).—Authorities tonight were attempting to establish the connection between a "scare bomb" addressed to Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt and the burning of the $100,000 home of his son-in-law, C. B. Dall, at Mount Pleasant, as attempts to intimidate the governor.

The bomb, a crude affair in a candy box, consisted of a small quantity of black powder in an iron pipe, but no detonating cap, and it could not possibly have been exploded. It was found in a postoffice here yesterday morning by a porter, who struck his broom against a package addressed to the governor at the executive mansion in Albany. The package sputtered and began to smoke. It was rendered harmless, and on examination the makeshift bomb was found.

The Dall home burned early yesterday, and, according to officials, the fire was plainly of incendiary origin. The Dalls had not expected to occupy their new home until next Friday, when they are to return from Europe.

Gov. Roosevelt, who was in this city when the bomb was found, expressed no concern over the affair, and discounted the possibility of a plot against him.

Albany, N. Y., April 8 (A.P.).—Extra guards of State troopers were stationed at the executive mansion here today because of the discovery in the New York City Postoffice yesterday of a bomb addressed to Gov. Roosevelt.

It was understood that the precautions were taken to quell Mrs. Roosevelt's nervousness. The governor showed a tendency to treat the bomb episode as a joke, but his wife was understood to have asked for special police protection for the governor, not only here but at their homes in Hyde Park and New York.

Chamber Group Favors 3 Millions for Schools

Indorsement of an item of $3,000,000 for school buildings in the 1931 budget was given yesterday by the committee on public schools of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, with the understanding that this sum will not exceed one-third of the entire budget. The committee also urged that the budget drafted by the Board of Education should be forwarded intact to the Bureau of the Budget.

The committee expressed regret at the failure of the bill for a $5,000,000 supplementary school building program in the last session of Congress. Among the members present at the committee meeting were Charles H. LeFevre, chairman; Mrs. Ada C. Payne, Charles T Clagett, Miss Marie Von Unschuld, Edwin C. Graham, C. C. Cappel, S. Powdermaker, Mendel Behrend, Harold F. Pellegrim and George B. Fraser.

Citizens Association Favors Library Site

The placing of the recently authorized branch public library at Seventh street and Massachusetts avenue northeast, was favored last night in a resolution adopted by the Stanton Park Citizens Association. The association met in the Peabody School.

Miss Gertrude Young, principal of the school, advocated the placing of a matron in each of the elementary schools. A. J. Driscoll, president of the Midcity Association, spoke on the necessity for greater cooperation between civic organizations. W. I. Swanton, secretary of the Columbia Heights Association, also spoke.

Wife's Divorce Action Names "Other Woman"

Mrs. Lydia M. Frye, telephone operator, of 1307 F street northwest, filed suit for absolute divorce on grounds of misconduct yesterday in the District Supreme Court against Aubrey E. Frye, of 103 Second street northwest. A corespondent was named.

The wife asked the court to restrain her husband from prosecution of the annulment of marriage suit in the courts of Allegany County, Md., pending the outcome of her complaint. Mrs. Frye declared she was present when police raided the apartment of the corespondent in the early morning of April 4 and discovered her husband there. She declared that shortly after their marriage on March 30, 1928, her husband has continually associated with other women. Through her counsel, John D. Sadler, she requested the court to grant her adequate allimony for herself and their infant son and permanent custody of the child.

Customs Men Told to Use Tact in Searching Yachts

New Order Calls for More Courtesy But Contains no Reference to Stuyvesant Fish Complaint; Norwegians Incensed by Firing on Ship.

New York, April 8 (A.P.).—A new order was issued today to members of the Customs Enforcement Bureau, emphasizing the necessity for courtesy and tact in boarding pleasure craft.

The order contained no reference to the recent boarding of the yacht of Stuyvesant Fish, wealthy broker, in search of liquor. Fish complained to Washington that the customs men had displayed firearms and had used profane language in the presence of his wife and two young sons.

The new order directed that only the squad leader should go aboard the pleasure craft unless he should feel that he ought to have a witness to protect him from false charges later. Under today's order the slogan of the service will be "Strict enforcement, with courtesy and tact."

Oslo, Norway, April 8 (U.P.).—Norwegians expressed indignation today at the action of a United States Coast Guard boat in firing on the Norwegian steamer Juan, but the foreign office said no official action would be taken until the report of the consular office is received.

The press voiced the national resentment in lengthy articles and stories of the incident, the Norwegian Journal of Commerce and Shipping leading the attack.

"It is highly astonishing behavior on the part of the American cutter," the Journal remarked. It pointed out that the Juan had been in the banana trade for many years and the cutter should have recognized the vessel was employed in peaceable and legitimate traffic.

"Instead of immediately and without precedent starting to shell the Juan, with possible loss of life and material damage," the newspaper said, "the cutter should have overtaken and halted it.

"No country, however great, may permit its officials to act in such a manner as to endanger the lives of sailors legitimately employed. We hope the Norwegian government will carefully investigate the affair and then proceed energetically."

C. A. ASPINWALL, President

DAWES TO BECOME ENVOY SOON, BELIEF

President Expected to Name Him to Succeed Houghton Before April 27.

FULLER ANGLING FOR JOB

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

Announcement is expected in the next few days of appointment of Charles G. Dawes as Ambassador to Great Britain. It is known that President Hoover has determined upon Ambassador Alanson B. Houghton's successor and is prepared to make an announcement at his own convenience.

The indications are that the reports several days ago to the effect that the former Vice President would get the post will be found to have been true.

On the other hand, the reports suggesting that Gen. Pershing might be named as Ambassador to France are believed to be groundless. It will be several months before this post is filled and at present Senator Edge, of New Jersey, seems the most likely choice for the place.

Houghton to Quit April 27.

Dawes is at present in San Domingo on a financial mission, but it is believed that he will have finished his work and be ready to sail for London by the end of the month. Ambassador Houghton expects to quit London April 27. He is coming to Washington to take up his residence in the Massachusetts avenue apartment in which Secretary Mellon lives.

Aside from the London and Paris posts, no other major diplomatic changes are expected for nine or ten months. Probably in time there may be some changes in South America, but hy are so far in the future as not to be worth consideration at present.

There seems to be no action impending on the Philippine governor generalship. There are any number of active candidaets quietly at work, but there are no indications that any of those whose names are most frequently heard are under consideration.

Fuller Angling for Post.

The statement in Boston of former Gov. Alvin T. Fuller, of Massachusetts, virtually tantamount to the announcement of his candidacy for the Republican senatorial nomination against Senator Gillette in 1930, touched up the diplomatic discussion here. It was interpreted as having some bearing on the diplomatic situation despite the fact Fuller said he was gunning for the senatorial nomination and added that he was not in line for a diplomatic appointment.

Fuller was in Washington a few days ago en route home from Florida and there is reason to believe that he has suddenly come to the conclusion that he "wants something" and is entitled to it. There was reason to believe when he was here that the something he wanted and felt he was entitled to was in the diplomatic line.

There were published reports that he might be considered for the Paris post, but the unofficial ambassador makers threw up their hands in horror and said that because of his Sacco-Vanzetti prominence he could not possibly go to Paris. It is not believed that Fuller considered this is as a bar, but if it was, then, perhaps, there was some other place he could go.

Possesses Large Fortune.

He has plenty of money and would not mind spending it on a diplomatic career.

Just what Fuller found to be the diplomatic situation while he was here is not known, but there is reason to believe that Mr. Hoover feels that the governor is entitled to something. In Massachusetts, Fuller has one of those popular followings which makes it impossible for the organization to do anything with him.

He threw his popularity to the support of Mr. Hoover in the preconvention campaign, when the organization was still holding on to a draft-Coolidge movement, and it was then and there that the last vestiges of the draft-Coolidge movement began to be erased.

In local political circles it was thought strange that Fuller should get into the senatorial fight so soon. His action caused Senator Gillette a heartache that could have been easily postponed.

May Seek to Sidetrack Coolidge.

It is a long time before the fall of 1930, when the senatorial fight comes up, and to put Gillette in a stew this early seems rather brutal.

It is true that there has been talk of former President Coolidge running and Senator Gillette said that if Mr. Coolidge did want to run he would step aside, but added rather hopefully that he did not think he wanted to do it. It may be that Fuller decided he had better not let this Coolidge movement get too far.

But there was a suspicion here that what he was really doing was putting the organization on notice that it had better get him out of the way or there will be a merry time in 1930. There would be, too, if he were to run. Whether this was the governor's motive or not, it is a safe prediction that Massachusetts leaders will be coming down here now urging Fuller for this post or that, any post that will get him away from the State.

Incidentally, John T. Richardson, of Boston, close personal and political friend of Mr. Hoover, was a White House guest Sunday night.

Town Refuses to Pay For Return of Fugitive

New York, April 8 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—A prisoner who escaped from jail in Rockingham, N. C., and who surrendered voluntarily to police in the Butler street station Sunday learned today that the authorities in Rockingham chose to let him remain here at liberty rather than to spend the money necessary to bring him back.

Steve Morgan, 20, told the police he had served only ten days of a one-year sentence, but the Rockingham jail said he had only 60 days to serve.

Not only was the jail sentence lifted from his head, but Magistrate Rudick, in Adams Street Court, Brooklyn, gave him $5. The only cloud was a suspended sentence for vagrancy.

LaGuardia Welcomes De Priest in Next Office

New York, April 8 (A.P.).—Representative F. H. LaGuardia today sent to Speaker Nicholas Longworth of the House of Representatives a telegram in which he offered to have the office of Representative A. De Priest, recently-elected negro member from Illinois, placed next to his own.

"Have noticed in press agitation among some members against allotment of office to our colleague from Illinois, Mr. De Priest," the telegram read. "I will be glad to have him next to my office. It is manifestly unfair to embarrass a new member. I believe it is our duty to assist new members, rather than humiliate them."

tion to this effect be passed at the next session of the Legislature."

It is not considered probable that trials of any of the persons connected with the shooting will be held at this term of the circuit court. These trials, if they are held, will come before the September term of the court. With several of the most important defendants still unarrested and the evidence in the case still more or less indefinite, it is not deemed probable that State's Attorney J. Frank Parran will risk taking the cases to court at this term.

The two women released on bond are not charged with any specific crime in the bond papers, but are placed under bond to appear in the Circuit Court upon call to answer such charges as shall be placed against them in connection with the shooting of Charles Wesley Poutra. Some difficulty was experienced in arranging their bond, Justice of the Peace H. W. Gore, who has been caring for the legal papers of the case, was at the Bowie Race Track, where he has an official position. Thomas R. Hencult, clerk of the county police court, was in Hyattsville at the police court session there and the officials of the Circuit Court had no jurisdiction, as the case had not reached that body as yet.

The difficulty finally was overcome when Justice of the Peace George Phillips, of Berwyn, was discovered at the courthouse, where he was a witness in a civil case. The bond was then arranged. Judge Phillips lectured the women on the seriousness of responding when their bond was called in by the court.

Bond of $5,000 has been asked for the release of Torre, and he may be released today.

Canada to Present Note on I'm Alone

Formal Representation on Case May Be Sent Today.

Ottawa, April 8 (A.P.).—Formal representations to the United States Government with respect to the I'm Alone incident will be made by Vincent Massey, Canadian Minister at Washington, probably tomorrow, it was stated in the House of Commons today by Premier Mackenzie King.

Mr. King said that a number of communications had been sent from Ottawa to Mr. Massey with regard to the I'm Alone, the last of which went today. The prime minister made his brief statement in answer to a question by R. R. Bennett, leader of the opposition.

New Orleans, La., April 8 (A.P.).—Counsel for Capt. John Thomas Randall, skipper of the ill-fated British rum schooner I'm Alone, will insist upon preliminary hearing tomorrow for himself and his crew of seven, Edwin H. Grace, the captain's attorney said today. The hearing was continued a week ago.

Norway May Protest Coast Guard Shooting

(United Press.)

The Coast Guard's method of signaling the Norwegian banana boat Juan by firing in her general direction as she moved up Chesapeake Bay Friday, promises to become the subject of diplomatic exchanges between this country and Norway as soon as a complete report of the incident is received by Norwegian Minister Bachke here.

The minister yesterday instructed the Norwegian Consul General in New York to send him at once the report of the incident made by the master and pilot of the Juan to the vice consul in Baltimore Saturday. On its receipt he will request an official report from the State Department, he told the United Press today. Any further action he may take will depend, he said, upon instructions from his government.

Gillett to See Coolidge On Senatorship Contest

Senator Gillett, of Massachusetts, left Washington yesterday after a conference with President Hoover, and it is believed here he will confer with former President Coolidge at Northampton before announcing his decision whether to run again for the senatorship next year.

Authentic information reaching Washington is to the effect that former Gov. Alvan T. Fuller has decided to become a candidate and expects to realize on the positive support he gave President Hoover in the last campaign.

WOMAN LIQUOR SPY GETS DEATH THREAT

Kitty Costello Appeals for Police Protection When She Quits Jail.

FATHER WILL GUARD HER

Her life threatened in anonymous letters reaching the Baltimore City Jail, Esther Holden, known as Kitty Costello, former undercover woman for the prohibition unit operating in Baltimore, has appealed for police protection when she leaves the institution at 12:05 Thursday morning.

Miss Holden was sentenced to 30 days in jail on March 12 by Judge William C. Coleman in the United States District Court on a charge of contempt of court. Her term will expire Wednesday midnight. She was arrested in Washington, where it was understood she also was doing undercover work for the enforcement unit.

Authorities at the jail and the police have attempted to keep Miss Holden's release a strict secret because of the threatening letters, but unknown persons, obviously her enemies or persons on whom she informed when operating with the prohibition unit, have kept track of her incarceration. One of the letters informed her that it would be useless for friends or relatives to meet her at the jail when she leaves, since "we will take care of that and see that she reaches home in a wooden box."

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Holden, parents of the woman, also have received a number of threatening telephone calls from anonymous sources.

"Whoever is calling," said Mr. Holden, who is a special sheriff for Baltimore County, "seems to think my family and I are responsible for what my daughter did. Only last Saturday I received a telephone call from a man who said he would get her and get me. Today there was a telephone call but the speaker hung up quickly without giving a message."

Mr. Holden said he would meet his daughter when she left the jail. It was understood that in his official capacity as a deputy sheriff he will be armed. He declined to discuss any arrangements he has made. Friends of Miss Holden also are expected to be at the jail gates Wednesday midnight and it is understood the police department has arranged a special escort for her.

Miss Holden's sentence grew out of her ignoring a summons to appear here in the case of Clarence J. Morseberger and William Cecil, who were convicted by a jury for violating the Volstead act and sentenced to sixteen and fourteen months, respectively.

A deputy United States marshal testified at her trial that he summoned Miss Holden but he denied a report given to John Philip Hill, attorney for the men, during the progress of their trial that she tore up the summons and threatened to kick the officer down the stairs at her apartment.

Aged Garage Man, Hit With Stick, Dies

Posse, With Bloodhounds, Seeks Men Who Assaulted J. H. Bryant, 64.

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., April 8.—J. H. Bryant, 64, owner of a service station and garage near Dinwiddie County Court House, who was assaulted at his place of business by a colored man last Thursday night, died of his injuries at the Petersburg Hospital yesterday.

Bryant, with the exception of one brief lucid interval, in which he was able to give a description of his assailant, remained unconscious up to the time of his death.

The fatal blow was inflicted back of the head with a heavy hickory stick.

Bryant was a native of South Side, W. Va. Two years ago he came from Florida to Dinwiddie County and opened a garage.

A large posse of officers and citizens, headed by Sheriff Boisseau, with bloodhounds has been scouring the woods near DeWitt, on the Seaboard Air Line Railway, where a man answering the description of Bryant's assailant is reported to have been seen early this morning. The body of Bryant will be sent to his former home in West Virginia for interment.

Black, Back in London, Plans Flight to Japan

London, April 8 A.P.).—Van Lear Black, Baltimore publisher and aviation enthusiast, who completed a round trip to Cape Town, South Africa, today, plans to leave London at the end of April on a flight to Japan and to be back here for dinner on the Fourth of July. The first lap of his African flight was made today from LeBourget, France, to Croydon in a commercial plane. His private airplane now is undergoing motor repairs at Ventemiglia, Northern Italy, where it was forced down on the narrow beach. It will be towed within a few days to Saint Raphael from where it will be flown here.

Mr. Black will use the same crew on his Asiatic flight that manned the ship on the African air voyage. He believes that the Soviet authorities will grant premission for his return flight from Japan, to be made by way of Siberia and Russia.

Blood Leads to Capture Of Two Alleged Robbers

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., April 8.—A slender trail of drops of blood led today to the arrest of William Farmer and Roy Sandidge, Greensboro, N. C., charged with the robbery of Jones drug store, from which $200 in money and merchandise was taken. One of the youths cut his hand in breaking the window and he was trailed to a boarding house and from there to a filling station, where they were attempting to secure gasoline for their car.

The loot was later identified and officers said both youths confessed. They are in jail. A check is being made of the sedan they were driving.

Mother of Aimee Sued for $50,000

Seattle Clergyman Says She Promised to Buy Him Tabernacle.

Seattle, Wash., April 8 (A.P.).—Asking $50,000 heart balm, Rev. H. H. Clark, middle-aged Seattle clergyman of the Disciples denomination, entered suit for breach of promise against Mrs. Minnie E. Kennedy, mother of Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, of Angeles Temple, Los Angeles, here today.

In the suit, filed by Attorney Gordon McGauvran, the Rev. Clark charges that Mrs. Kennedy promised to provide him with a tabernacle in Seattle and a gospel ship to be used in missionary work in Alaska and on the Pacific Coast.

The minister said that he first became acquainted with Mrs. Kennedy in Seattle on December 14, 1928, and that some days later she telephoned him often and arranged with the plaintiff to take the defendant to luncheon, dinner and to theater.

The basement is now used for storage purposes. Severin & Co. will do the work for $15,225. Six others submitted bids for the work.

Permittees to Fight Hoover Oil Policy

Wyoming Men Retain Lawyers to Bring Test Case in Federal Court.

Rock Springs, Wyo., April 8 (A.P.).—Court action to test the legality of the Government's oil conservation policy is contemplated by permit holders, it was learned here today with the announcement that plans are being formulated for an alliance of permittees in fifteen States.

H. J. Boice, of Rock Springs, who represented this section of Wyoming at the recent governors' oil conference in Denver, is directing the organization work in southwestern Wyoming.

The first action of the organization came through attorneys, temporarily retained, who advised all those who recently filed on Government oil and gas lands to refuse to indorse checks received on canceled permits which are being mailed out by subland offices by the hundreds. Legal advisors of the proposed alliance said that by so doing the permit holders will be in a position to carry their fight against the conservation edict to the Federal courts.

opinion has favored the continuance of the Dawes plan of reparation payments which provides for payment of allied war debts and for reparations.

The preponderance of sympathy among the experts, however, is for accepting the German offer, it was understood. It was obvious that the French would be forced to relinquish even more than their traditional claims against Germany if the experts' conference is to come to a successful conclusion within the next week.

All observers were agreed that the next few days would disclose whether the experts are to succeed or fail in their labors.

EVANGELIST READY FOR TRIAL OF JUDGE

Aimee McPherson to Be Witness at Impeachment in State Senate.

FEE ACCEPTING CHARGE

Sacramento, Calif., April 8 (A.P.).—With Aimee Semple MaPherson, Los Angeles evangelist, and a score or more witnesses waiting to testify, the impeachment trial of Superior Judge Carlos S. Hardy, of Los Angeles, began here today before the bar of the State Senate. Hardy is charged with misdemeanors in office, the principal allegation being that he received a fee of $2,500 for aiding and advising Mrs. McPherson at the time her kidnaping story was being investigated by the Los Angeles grand jury several years ago. The evangelist and her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, were held on charges of conspiracy to obstruct justice, but never were brought to trial. The State had charged that Mrs. McPherson, instead of being in the hands of abductors in Mexico, as she declared, in reality was on a visit to the artists' colony at Carmel, Calif., with Kenneth Ormiston, her Angelus Temple radio operator.

The Hardy defense lost the opening skirmish soon after the opening of the hearing today. The prosecution had called Charles J. Haggerty, deputy secretary of State, to show that evidence it expects to present will bear on Hardy's activities during his occupancy of the superior bench. The defense attempted to have excluded all evidence of Hardy's activities in behalf of Mrs. McPherson during a previous court term. The Senate overruled the defense objection.

Judge Hardy, at the opening of the trial, announced that he, his son, Rex Hardy; Ray Nimmo and Frank M. Carr would constitute the defense counsel. The assembly board of prosecutors consist of Melvin I. Cronin, William Hornblower, Clare Woolwine, Harry F. Sewell and Pembroke Cochnauer.

Lieut. Gov. H. L. Carnahan consented, over the objection of the defense, to the calling of former District Attorney Asa Keyes, of Los Angeles, as a witness. Keyes, now in jail awaiting action on his appeal from a conviction of bribery, was the official who brought the McPherson kidnaping story before the grand jury. The impeachment prosecution stated it might not be necessary to call Keyes, but it wished him to be present to testify if necessary.

Mrs. McPherson, fashionably attired and smiling happily, arrived in Sacramento early in the morning and reported to the sergeant at arms. She posed for newspaper photographers before going to the Senate chamber.

Doctor Is Sought As Killer of Girl

Expert Dismemberment of Body Seen Clew in Coast Mystery.

Los Angeles, April 8 (A.P.).—Search for two medical men for questioning in connection with the finding of a woman's torso in the Los Angeles River last Thursday night was made by sheriff's officers here tonight.

Investigation was turned to medical men because the head and limbs had been removed with evident expertness from the body. A doctor who previously had been under investigation because of complaints from women that they had been maltreated and tortured by him, was one sought. The other was a young man who had displayed a medical certificate during the time he called upon Miss Minnis Nordhook, 21. Mrs. C. Nordhook reported her daughter had been missing since last August.

W. F. Baird, a mechanic, failed to identify the torso as that of his wife, who had been missing three weeks. He said she had been in the company of medical students.

Al Smith and Tammany Heads Meet Thursday

New York, April 8 (A.P.).—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith will meet the committee of seven, appointed by the executive committee of Tammany Hall to consult with the "big four" on the selection of a new leader, in his office next Thursday afternoon, it was announced today. Other members of the big four are Mayor James J. Walker, Surrogate James Foley and Senator Robert F. Wagner.

Outstanding candidates for the leadership recently relinquished by Judge George W. Olvany are Martin G. McCue, John F. Curry and Edward J. Ahearn, all district leaders.

Huge Gold Vein Found By Workers at Manila

Manila, April 8 (A.P.).—A rich gold strike was made today by workers on a tunnel of an aqueduct to bring water to Manila from the Angat River, 25 miles east of this city. A vein 9,000 feet long assayed as high as $2,500 to the ton and it was estimated that at least $20,000,000 worth of ore was in the ground.

Officials and employes of the Atlantic, Gulf & Pacific Co., contractors, halted a possible gold rush by staking claims over a wide area. They said they were preparing to develop the project.

Retired Pastor Accused Of Killing Wife With Ax

Terrell, Tex., April 8 (A.P.).—The Rev J. P. Roberts, retired Baptist minister, was held here today on charges of killing his wife.

Mrs. Roberts, 71, was found dead at the Roberts home with her head crushed by an axe. Neighbors said the minister had acted in a peculiar manner recently.

Girls Fly to Annapolis Ball But Miss All Dances Save 2

Plane and Automobile Are Pressed Into Service to Transports Hagerstown Guests to Easter Function But With Only Partial Success.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., April 8.—Eager to get to Annapolis in time to attend the annual Easter ball given by the regiment of midshipmen Saturday, two young women adopted the modern means of transportation by taking to the air, it was learned today. Even then an obstacle was encountered that delayed arrival so they were only able to indulge in the last two dances. But they were none the less elated over the success and novelty of their experiment. They did not fly direct to Annapolis, part of the trip being made by automobile.

The young women are Miss Aris Funkhausen, of Hagerstown, and Miss Katherine Huss, of New York, who has been Miss Funkhausen's house guest. They were guests at the dance of Lieut. J. P. Moncure, of the Navy. Getting aboard a passenger plane in the Western Maryland city late in the afternoon they flew down from the mountain country. A landing at Lipin's Corner on the Annapolis-Baltimore Boulevard about midway between the two cities had been planned, but darkness overtook them and the pilot headed the machine to Logan field where a successful landing was made.

Meanwhile, Miss Funkhausen's automobile, driven by a "mechanic" said to be a young naval officer friend, had been waiting at Lipin's Corner, anticipating the landing there. Upon learning of the enforced change of plans the motorist "made a hurried drive to Logan Field." There the young women entered the auto and were whisked off to Annapolis. Thus delayed, however, they did not reach Dahlgren Hall where the ball was in progress until next to the last dance was about to start. Hence they had 10 minutes of actual dancing time, after their 60-mile air trip and subsequent auto ride. But they were happy just the same.

U. S. THREATS BRING BORDER FIGHT LULL

Rebel Attack on Naco Stops, But May Be Renewed by Irate Leader in Revolt.

STERN MEASURES UPHELD

By ALBERT W. FOX.

American warnings, backed by readiness to use armed force, have brought a temporary lull in the crisis on the Mexican border. Both the State Department and the War Department were relieved at learning hat the rebels had discontinued their attack on Naco and officials yesterday breathed easier.

The prompt action of Maj. Gen. Lassiter, in command of the Eighth Corps Area, in dispatching eighteen planes to Naco and in holding troops in readiness for immediate action has been favorably commented on and Secretary of State Stimson and Secretary of War Good indicated yesterday that Gen. Lassiter has practically a free hand to take whatever reasonable measures he regards as necessary in any emergency.

Combat Depends on Attack.

Secretary Good explained, however, that a misunderstanding had arisen here over orders given to the war-plane squadron patrolling the Naco area. These American planes have not been ordered to shoot down any rebel plane which crosses the line, it was yesterday explained. The Americans will not fire upon the Mexican planes unless the latter drop bombs on American territory.

Whether the rebels intend to renew the attack on the federals at Naco near the American border, or whether the next border crisis is to be expected at some other point remained in doubt last night. Secretary Stimson was advised of reports from Mexico City that Gen. Escobar, commanding the rebel forces, had left Ciudad Juarez about noon Sunday with troop trains in the direction of Casas Grandes, supposedly with the intention of crossing to join the rebels in the state of Sonora via Pulpito Pass, Sinaloa.

Naco May Be Attacked Again.

This may mean that Escobar will turn north after getting through the pass and throw the added force of his troops into the rebel attacks at Naco. Under such circumstances, there might be insufficient federal force to check him, but the stern warnings of the United States might have the effect of compelling the rebel commander to desist, especially if the carrying out of his plan would endanger Americans on the United States side of the line.

Escobar is understood to be so aroused over the effective assistance which the United States has rendered to the Mexican federals that he will not permit his movements to be restricted by American commands. He has issued public statements to the effect that the United States is practically joining with the federals in conducting the war against the revolutionists. In this connection, press reports were noted here that two American citizens, fighting with the federals, forced the rebel garrison at Palomas, Chihuahua, to evacuate the city Sunday night.

May Seek to Involve U. S.

The hope here is that Escobar keeps away from the border after getting through Pulpito Pass. No particular military object would be attained by Escobar in coming north to Naco, it is stated, unless the rebels are working out a deliberate plan to involve the United States in the last stage of their warfare against the federals. The rebels already hold practically all of the border between Sonora and the United States.

In view of the continued federal military successes, the United States regards the situation as more favorable now than it has been at any time since the revolution began. The success of the federals in driving the rebels northward and confining the rebel activities to the provinces of Sonora and Chihuahua and a portion of Sinoloa has brought marked satisfaction to officials here, who are counting upon swift and decisive federal victory to end the present outbreak. From the standpoint of the United States, it is explained, a complete federal victory will at least leave a foundation upon which attempts to restore stability in Mexico may be undertaken. There will be something definite to work on, it is added, whereas a rebel victory would promise uncertainty and chaotic conditions detrimental to the interests of the United States.

Morrow Reports Evacuation.

Dwight W. Morrow, American Ambassador at Mexico City, has reported that on the night of April 7 he was informed that federal troops occupied Camargo and Parral in Chihuahua and that airplane reconaissance shows the city of Chihuahua to have bene completely evacuated by rebel troops. Ambassador Morrow also reports that federal troops have occupied Culiacan in the State of Sinoloa.

The State Department yesterday received information that the rebel army in the State of Sinoloa retreated from Culiacan to San Blas on Friday last. The district through which the retreat passed was being looted and forced loans were levied irrespective of nationality. The citizens of Los Mochis were compelled to pay 100,000 pesos. Gen. Rabatte is reported to have deserted the rebels with a small body of soldiers, and Col. Nunez, who was discharged as Gen. Manzo's chief of staff, is alleged to have deserted with 40,000 pesos and to have been arrested at Navajoa.

CALLES TO COMMAND TROOPS AT MAZATLAN

trains and carrying on guerrilla warfare for more than two years.

At Lagos, in Jalisco, where the Cristero activity has been most intense, Gen. Calles stopped to confer with Gen. Saturnino Cedillo, who arrived a few days ago from Torreon with a column of federal troops sent to put an end once for all to the guerrilla warfare.

Guerrillas Flee to Hills.

Cedillo informed his chief that in most instances the mere appearance of troops had been sufficient to drive the guerrilla bands back to their mountain lairs. There has been little fighting so far, but the railway line has been cleared of marauders and the campaign henceforth is likely to be in the nature of a man hunt, with the federals seeking to rout the rebels out of their hiding places and oblige them to fight in the open.

Cedillo has several thousand troops, his force considerably outnumbering the Cristero bands operating in the territory in which his campaign lies, namely, part of the States of Jalisco, Guanajuato, Aguscallentes and Zacatecas.

Furthermore the Cristero bands are imperfectly organized and are uncoordinated.

The federal task, however, is difficult, since the mountainous nature of the country gives the rebels an abundance of hiding places which have proved secure retreats during the past two years and more.

No such thorough campaign as the present one has ever been waged against them, though, and it is Gen. Calles' hope and "firm purpose," as he puts it, to rid the country definitely of what has been described as a thorn in its side.

On the Pacific coast, where Gen. Carenas is directing the federal advance against the rebels through the State of Sinaloa there has been no fighting of any consequence for some time. The rebels have continually fallen back before the pressure of the federal march and air scouts reported to Cardenas today that they were concentrated at San Blas, just south of the Sonora border.

The federals are hurrying their advance to the maximum speed possible and rushing back repairs to permit movement of their infantry and supply trains. Thirteen bridges were repaired on one line alone yesterday according to reports to Mexico City by Gen. Cardenas.

U. S. Consul Asks Medicine.

A special dispatch to El Universal Grafico from Monterey, Nuevo Leon, says that United States Consul Henry H. Balch has telegraphed the Washington State Department requesting urgent dispatch of medicines for the treatment of 450 wounded soldiers from the battles of Jimenez and La Reforma, who are now in Monterey.

Among the supplies sought are 1,000 pounds of absorbent cotton, injections and X-ray apparatus to locate bullets and shell fragments in the bodies of the soldiers. The wounded, ten of whom have died since their arrival in Monterey, have been distributed in various hospitals, regular and emergency. Maj. Rafael Grajeda, of the presidential guards, was one of those who died from their wounds.

Naco, Sonora, Mexico, April 8 (U.P.).—The presence of rebel cavalry and the troop train of Gen. Fausto Topete at Oromina, 6 miles south of here, today made uncertain the earlier belief that insurrectionists had abandoned hope of capturing Naco.

U. S. Planes Patrol Border.

When Gen. Topete withdrew his force from the immediate vicinity of Naco, after two unsuccessful attacks on the town, federals believed that he intended to move southwest to join rebels retreating from Mazatlan, Sinaloa.

Eighteen United States Army planes were on patrol duty today as a result of a rebel plane dropping bombs on the American side of the international boundary line.

Gen. Frank S. Cocheu, commanding the western sector of the Eighth Corps Area, denied he had instructed the pilots of the American planes to attack Mexican ships flying over the border.

Gen. Topete sent a consular representative to Naco, Ariz., today to investigate damage done on American soil by his bombing planes.

Lethal Gas May Aid Rebels.

Naco, Ariz., April 8 (U.P.).—Unconfirmed reports were brought here from Cananea today by Americans that rebel forces plan an attack on Naco, Sonora, with the aid of lethal gas.

The arrivals said that Gen. Fausto Topete, insurgent commander, had obtained more than a score of drums to be dropped from planes in a third assault on the federal garrison. The authenticity of the report could not be established.

United States Army planes based at Huachuca will demonstrate their strength Tuesday when the squadron of eighteen ships flies over Bisbee, Douglas, Naco, Tucson and other American border towns.

COMMITTEE HEARS CAPITAL'S AIRPORT NEEDS

William Forsythe, Post Staff Photographer.

DISTRICT COMMISSIONERS OFFER PORT PLAN AT GRAVELLY POINT fog was the air mail pilot's greatest enemy, Glover expressed the hope that the municipal airport would be located away from the Potomac River.

MacCracken Belittles Fog.

Assistant Secretary of Commerce MacCracken took direct issue with Mr. Glover on the fog question.

"No doubt there is more fog at Gravelly Point," he said. "But fog is going to be whipped by the development of instruments. It is not going to interfere with schduled flying.

"Fog may bother the itinerant fliers, but, as a matter of fact, they don't fly in fog anyway. The itinerant flier is usually out to view the scenery and isn't in any hurry.

Washington, the aviation chief said, will ultimately need a municipal airport of from 500 to 1,000 acres. Last year, he said, 100,000 persons flew over the city and the number will steadily increase in the future. Eventually, he said, everybody who comes here will want to see the city from the air.

MacCracken said he could even foresee the day when air transport companies coming into Washington will be doing a greater business than the railroads, and he declared that many railroad executives already realize this.

To Hear Witnesses Today.

The members of the joint commission who were present at yesterday's hearing were Senator Bingham, Senator Jones (Republican), Washington; Representative Zihlman (Republican), Maryland; Representative Underhill (Republican), Massachusetts, and Representative Nelson (Republican), Maine.

The principal witnesses at today's hearing will be Maj. Jack Berry, manager of the Cleveland municipal airport, and Lieut. Nathaniel Duffy, director of the municipal airport at Buffalo. The commission also will hear President W. W. Everett, of the Board of Trade; Lawrence E. Williams, chairman of the aviation committee of the Board of Trade, and Robert J. Cottrell, executive secretary of the board.

The first witness at yesterday's hearing was Porter Adams, of the National Aeronautic Association, who, while he did not advocate any particular site, declared that Washington was badly in need of a real airport. In years to come, he said, there will be a tremendous amount of sight-seeing from the air here, and also a considerable transport traffic.

Dangers Pointed Out.

Commander Towers, who was in charge of the first transatlantic flight, and Maj. Kennedy, one of the Army's pioneer airmen, agreed that it would be unwise to have commercial planes operating from an Army or Navy field. Kennedy pointed out that in time Army squadrons will be landing in groups of 25, and he said it would be dangerous to have any commercial planes around at such a time. Both men indorsed the Gravelly Point site.

Col. Blee, chief of the airports division of the Department of Commerce, strongly indorsed the Gravelly Point site, and pointed out that San Francisco, Newark and other cities had filled in somewhat similar shoal land. He agreed with other witnesses that this would be an important air center, and declared that the airport should be second to none.

Maj. Carey Brown told the commission that he had inspected a number of potential airport sites, including those at Chillum, Md., due north of Mount Rainier; Camp Springs, near Clinton, Md., and the field at Hybla Valley, near Fort Humphreys. He said that the National Park and Planning Commission regarded the Gravelly Point site as the best from every standpoint.

Filling Comparatively Simple.

H. W. Canfield, of Landover, Md., suggested to the commission that it look over a site in his neighborhood, which is about a third of a mile from the Beaver Dam Country Club.

Maj. Somervell, who is the War Department Engineer for the District, said the filling in of Gravelly Point would be a comparatively simple engineering task. The field, he said, would be ready for service in about three years. In answer to a questoin by Senator Bingham, he said that the danger from flood would be extremely remote.

The commission will resume the hearings at 10 o'clock this morning in the office of the committee on Territories and insular possessions, on the Senate side of the Capitol.

American Capital Airport Seen Vital Need by Young

Europe Expects Field in Washington, Official Says After Tour.

MAJ. CLARENCE M. YOUNG.

Europe expects the United States to establish its model airport in the National Capital, Maj. Clarence M. Young, director of the aeronautics branch, Department of Commerce, said yesterday immediately after his return from a two months' inspection of European airdromes.

Maj. Young, who flew a Stearman biplane, which he took across with him, over the important air lanes of Europe, was emphatic in his declaration that Washington without an airport is falling far short of its true national position.

"It is a foregone conclusion," he said, "that there should be a first-class airdrome at the Nation's Capital.

"First of all, foreign countries look to the United States to have an established airdrome at its Capital City. In Europe, the model airdrome of every nation is at its capital—Croyden at London, Le Bourget at Paris, Tempelhofer at Berlin, and the great airports at Brussels in Belgium and Amsterdam in Holland.

"Second, the Capital owes it to the country at large to be properly equipped with an airdrome about which there can be no question as to its rank with those of other national capitals.

"Third—I doubt if the District of Columbia appreciates the amount of air traffic which would find its way here if afforded adequate facilities. This is more or less the fountainhead of aviation activity throughout the country at large, and much air travel which is going to other cities would come here if accommodations were provided."

In the past two years, Maj. Young pointed out, the United States has made enormous strides in commercial aviation. Our air mail, he said, is admired universally in Europe for its 24-hour continuous service and its astonishing record of accomplishment and safety.

With 40,000 miles a day now being flown by commercial air lines in this country, he said, the fundamental groundwork for a great national air system has been laid. We have the flying equipment, trained pilots who know their airways, trained ground personnel and the lighting and marking which has been accomplished by the Department of Commerce.

But we can learn much, he declared, about the finer details of airway operation from Europe. In those countries, he said, transportation from field to city and back has been solved and the matters of ticket purchases, handling of baggage, airdrome buildings and equipment have been brought to a high point of efficiency in the last seven or eight years.

Within the next few weeks Maj. Jones will compile the results of his experiences in a report which will be made available by the Department of Commerce to airway operators. He is leaving today for Detroit to attend the all-American aircraft show.

LEVIATHAN PASSES TO PRIVATE OWNER

Taken Over by Chapman Firm on 7th Anniversary of Her Last Transport Trip.

SADNESS AT CEREMONY

New York, April 8 (A.P.).—On the seventh anniversary of her last sailing as a military transport, the steamship Leviathan, which carried many thousands of American doughboys safely to France in 1917 and 1918, passed today out of control of the United States Government.

At a formal ceremony aboard the giant liner as she lay in her dock in North River, a deed and a check for $4,000,000 were exchanged, whereby the flagship and ten other vessels of the United States Shipping Board and the American Merchant Lines became the property of the U. S. Lines, Inc., of which Paul W. Chapman is head.

There was a touch of sadness about the ceremony. T. V. O'Connor, chairman of the Shipping Board, expressed it.

"The Leviathan has always been our flagship," he said as he received the check from Mr. Chapman. "She goes to you with the full confidence of the Shipping Board that you will keep her up to the best standards of American shipping."

Commodore Harold A. Cunningham, the Leviathan's captain, then led Miss Joanna Chapman, Mr. Chapman's 15-year-old daughter, to the taffrail, where she raised the new flag—white, with a five-pointed red star in the upper left corner, and the commodore's blue insignia in the center—in the place of the Shipping Board's old blue pennant.

Just seven years today, on April 8, 1922, the Leviathan set out from Hoboken on her last trip as a transport. She sailed that day for Newport News, where she was overhauled to become the flagship of the Shipping Board's passenger fleet. Her last trip across the Atlantic as a transport was when she brought Gen. Pershing and the last 12,000 American troops home. Previously she had carried nearly 200,000 American soldiers on her trips to and from France.

As the Vaterland she was launched in Hamburg in 1914. She became the Leviathan in 1918, when the Navy Department turned her into a troop ship.

Since the war newer and faster steamers, lavishly decorated and equipped, have been launched to compete with her for the North Atlantic trade.

Capt. Kurtz Assigned To Command Cruiser

Capt. Thomas R. Kurtz assistant chief of the Bureau of Navigation of the Navy Department, will command the U. S. S. Salt Lake City when the light cruiser is commissioned, it was announced yesterday.

The ship will be the first of the new light cruisers authorized by Congress in 1924 to be completed and commissioned this fall. After June 10 Capt. Kurtz will be detached from the bureau and will have charge of fitting out the new ship.

NEW YORK'S 7-CENT FARE HELD ILLEGAL

U. S. Supreme Court Declares Interborough Company Exceeded Rights.

THREE JUSTICES DISSENT

(Associated Press.)

The Supreme Court ruled yesterday that the Interborough Rapid Transit Co. was without authority to raise from 5 to 7 cents the fare on New York City's subway and elevated trains, and held that the question properly was for the consideration of the State courts.

In a 6 to 3 decision, the view of the highest court, expressed by Justice McReynolds, was that the Federal court which prohibited the State transit commission from interfering with the 7-cent fare schedule had acted beyond its "proper discretion."

Justices Van Devanter, Sutherland and Butler noted dissents from the majority view. The courtroom was jammed to capacity as the Tennesseean, fourth in point of service on the bench, slowly read the opinion just before the afternoon recess at 2 o'clock.

Intended to Test Point.

The majority decision said that "the transit commission has long held the view that it lacks the power to change the 5-cent rate established by contract, and it intended to test this point of law by an immediate orderly appeal to the courts of the State."

"This purpose," it was added, "should not be thwarted by an injunction."

The right of the city to enter into the contracts for the operation of the subways, which it owns, was upheld, and cases were cited on this point. These cases, it was said, "point out that the subject of those contracts was to secure the operation of railways properly declared by statute to be parts of the public streets and highways and the absolute property of the city."

The assertion by Charles Evans Hughes, chief counsel for the company, during argument of the case several months ago, that the 5-cent fare was "confiscatory," was disputed by the court, which found that the company had not justified this declaration nor the statement that the higher fare requested was reasonable.

Claim Is Unprecedented.

"The claim for an 8 per cent return upon the value of the subways, which are the property of the city and distinctly declared by statute to be public streets, is unprecedented," the opinion said, "and ought not to be accepted without more cogent support than the present record discloses."

New York, April 8 (A.P.).—Stocks of the New York traction companies were thrown overboard on the New York Stock Exchange today, on the announcement that the Interborough Rapid Transit Co. had lost its case for a 7-cent fare before the United States Supreme Court. The adverse decision took Wall street by surprise, and the break in traction stocks depressed stock prices generally.

I. R. T. had risen $5 a share to $55, but quickly dropped to $31. Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit rose $3.50 to $78.50, and reacted to $66. Third Avenue Railway Co. stock rose $4.75 to $38, and tumbled to $24. Manhattan Elevated Railway modified guaranteed stock sold up $2 to $54, then broke to $37.

Army Fliers Begin Cuban Hop Sunday

Kraus and Quesada Will Inspect Work of Air Commission.

Capt. Walter F. Kraus, of the chief of Air Corps' office, and Lieut. Elwood R. Quesada, of Question Mark fame, will hop off from Bolling Field Sunday morning on a one-stop flight to Havana, Cuba, according to plans announced yesterday.

The flight is for the purpose of enabling the officers to inspect the work of the Cuban Air Commission at Havana. This commission consists of a detail of three officers and two sergeants from the United States Army Air Corps sent to Cuba to assist in organizing and training the Cuban air force.

If weather conditions are favorable, only one stop will be made for refueling at Jacksonville, Fla. In case of unfavorable weather or adverse winds, the fliers may stop at Fort Bragg, N. C.; Jacksonville and Miami. They will fly a Curtiss 01-B standard observation plane, the type Col. Lindbergh bought for his personal use.

A. F. L. TARIFF VIEW PUT BEFORE HOOVER

Consideration of Foreign Wage Scale Asked in Revision of Duty Schedules.

WOLL MADE SPOKESMAN

(Associated Press.)

The tariff needs of the working man as interpreted by the American Federation of Labor were laid before President Hoover yesterday in the form of a specific program sponsored by that organization.

Led by Matthew Woll, vice president of the federation, a delegation called upon the Chief Executive and outlined its views in detail, recommending the seating of a representative of organized labor on the tariff commission, changes in the laws to give labor a hearing in valuation cases, and consideration of the cost of foreign labor in the determination of duties on imports.

Earlier in the day former Gov. Ralph O. Brewster of Maine called at the White House to discuss another subject close to the working man, that of unemployment. He urged particularly that the task of keeping unemployment statistics be delegated to the individual States. He considered the States better equipped for gathering such data than the Federal Government.

After talking with the President, Mr. Woll said the delegation had been received with sympathy and understanding. Mr. Hoover, he declared, although not committing himself to any of the recommendations made, seemed deeply interested and revealed a minute knowledge of the problems presented.

The group urged adoption of the American valuation plan in determining the amount of duty to be levied against foreign-made commodities, telling the President it met the requirements of labor much more equitably than the method now used. At present duties are fixed upon a basis of cost of material abroad, Woll said, and do not take into consideration the low wage scale of the foreign laborer. The American plan, by making the cost of foreign products in domestic markets the first basis of consideration, the delegation said, automatically would include the differential in labor costs abroad and in the United States.

Enactment of legislation prohibiting the importation of articles made by foreign child labor also was advocated by the group as an extension of the principle under which existing laws bar from this country the products of foreign prison labor. America, it was pointed out, has placed restrictions upon the employment of children in industry, while the foreign manufacturer is free to use juvenile employes and thereby effect a considerable saving as compared with his American competitor.

ELEMENTS of HEALTH

MILK

The Best and Least Expensive Food

MILK is one of the best and least expensive articles of diet. It contains all of the elements the body needs. To get the same energy you get from a quart of milk you would have to buy 11.3 ounces of sirloin steak, 14.9 ounces of round steak, 9 eggs or 14.5 ounces of fowl. To get the same proteins furnished in a quart of milk you would have to buy 7 ounces of sirloin, 6 ounces of round steak, 4.3 eggs or 8.6 ounces of fowl. Considering its economy and high food value, milk should be much more extensively used than it is. The children in your home should drink a quart daily and the adults as much of wholesome Chestnut Farms Milk.

NATIONALLY KNOWN STORE

AMERICAN EXPRESS ABSORBED BY BANK

Chase National Will Become Giant in Money World Through Deal.

PLAN OF REORGANIZATION

New York, April 8 (A.P.).—The American Express Co., which has been left primarily as a foreign banking organization by the recent deals between the express companies, is to be acquired by the Chase National Bank, forming one of the largest and most far-flung banking organizations in the world, under a plan of merger announced by directors today.

The Chase National Bank and the Chase Securities Corporation propose to increase their capital stock from 610,000 shares to 800,000 each and reduce the par value from $100 a share to $20 by splitting up the shares five-for-one, resulting in a capitalization of 4,000,000 shares each for the bank and the corporation

American Express stockholders are offered five shares of bank and five shares of corporation stock for each three shares of express stock. Stockholders of the bank and the corporation will meet on May 16 to approve the capital increase. American Express stockholders will have until April 30 to deposit their shares under the plan.

Abandoned Express Business.

The American Express Co., which is more than three-quarters of a century old, went out of the railway express business in 1918, when the American Railway Express Co. was formed to take over the operations of the country's express businesses. It received an interest of about 40 per cent in the new company and retained its travelers' check, foreign banking, forwarding and travel service businesses. Last week it sold its interest in the American Railway Express, which became an investment trust by the sale of its business to Railway Express Agency, Inc., to the Adams Express Co. for a sum understood to be in the neighborhood of $18,000,000.

Acquisition of American Express by the Chase National, it was explained, will involve no change in name or management. The company has 35 branches in the United States and 60 foreign branches. It transacts business in some 20 countries through its own offices, and through the financial and foreign travel services, it operates in practically every country in the world.

The Chase National Bank, with resources totaling more than $1,300,000,000 is surpassed in the United States only by the National City Bank and the Guaranty Trust Co. The affiliation with American Express will create an institution unique in American financial history. The Chase Bank already has offices in several foreign cities, and the Chase Securities Corporation, the bank's investment banking affiliate, also is almost world-wide in scope.

Express Stock Rises.

Of the additional new shares resulting from the Chase recapitalization plan, it is proposed to sell to stockholders 762,500 shares of bank and corporation stock at $110 a share on the basis of five new shares for each four old shares held. A unit consisting of a share of bank and a share of corporation old stock was quoted over the counter today at $1,228 bid, $1,236 asked. American Express stock rose $14 a share to a record price at $409, and closed at $400.

Of the $87,000,000 received by the bank from the sale of new stock, $19,000,000 will be allocated to capital and the remainder to surplus. The proceeds of the sale of the new corporation stock will be allocated to the securities corporation. The Chase Securities Corporation will have a book value on consummation of the plan of approximately $85,800,000. The combined institutions will have capital, surplus and reserves of more than $283,000,000.

The American Express Co. was organized as a voluntary association in the State of New York in 1850. It has paid dividends continuously for about 47 years. Capitalization consists of 180,000 shares of common stock of no par value, and the company has no funded debt. Net earnings in 1928 amounted to $2,109,000, equal to $11.72 per share, compared with $1,028,000 in 1927.

Officers Are Elected By Brookland Citizens

President Marvin M. McLean was re-elected president of the Brookland Citizens Association at its regular meeting last night in the Masonic Hall, Twelfth and Monroe streets northeast. Other officers elected are Dr. George R. Ellis, vice president; R. N. Ashmun, secretary, and Elwood E. Remsberg, treasurer. W. V. Lewis and M. M. McLean were named representatives to the Federation of Citizens Associations.

Considerable discussion developed over one-man street car service to Brookland, and the association adopted a resolution authorizing the secretary to file a formal protest with the Public Utilities Commission.

Roswell Page in Race For Virginia Governor

Richmond, Va., April 8 (A.P.).—Roswell Page, former second auditor for Virginia and for many years prominent in legislative circles, today announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Governor of Virginia. He is the third candidate in the race, the others being John Garland Pollard, of Williamsburg, and G. Walter Mapp, of Accomac.

HOWARD NAMED BY DIPLOMATS TO SEEK RULING ON MRS. GANN inviting other diplomats to functions to which the Vice President and his sister were asked.

Several members of the corps contended, however, that since both the Chief Justice and the Speaker of the House of Representatives long have claimed positions at social functions equal to that of foreign diplomats, that to establish a rule not to invite the Vice President and Mrs. Gann at the same time foreign diplomats of high rank were invited would only complicate an already tangled social situation.

Several of the diplomats argued that the dinner to be held the latter part of this week at the Pan-American Union, to which the Vice President and some high diplomats are invited, necessitates some definite action by the State Department.

There has been no question on the part of the diplomats as to Vice President Curtis' social position at official functions or other affairs at which diplomats are present. The Diplomatic Corps merely wants, it is said, the status of Mrs. Gann established definitely by Secretary Stimson in view of the Vice President's protest.

Cite Government Objections.

Numerous suggestions made during the past week that the diplomats might solve the situation by momentarily giving up their precedence right if a delicate situation arose were pushed into the background as several high-ranking members of the corps let it be known that they were not in a position to voluntarily relinquish their positions in the precedence scale.

They pointed out that their governments might seriously object and might possibly feel offended if they, as representatives here, were to take places inferior to those which social and diplomatic usage gives them.

The meeting at the British Embassy was the largest of the corps since Sir Esme Howard summoned the heads of the mission to consider the diplomatic liquor situation, after the Washington police seized 60 cases of immune liquor consigned to the Siamese Legation.

Most of the diplomats remained until the end of the meeting, despite the fact that it lasted almost until the time they had dinner engagements.

Congressional action to assure Mrs. Gann the rank demanded by her brother in seating at official dinners was proposed yesterday by Senator Heflin (Democrat), Alabama.

Senator Heflin announced he would introduce a resolution if Secretary Stimson did not act this week on the Curtis protest, proposing that the Senate and House declare that the President and his wife and the Vice President and his wife, or his next of kin and official hostess, shall rank accordingly at official dinners.

While threat of seeking congressional intervention was heard at the Capitol, there were rumors going the rounds that an understanding was in prospect. One mention in that connection was the dinner to be given Thursday night by Ambassador Davilla, of Chile, to which the Vice President and Mrs. Gann have been invited. Some reports had it that the seating at this function would illustrate just how the matter is to be settled, but whether this would be a vindication of Mr. Curtis, or otherwise, could not be ascertained.

Desires No Embarrassment.

The Vice President still is saying nothing about the storm he raised with his declaration last week against the Kellogg ruling. He is understood, however, to have sent word to the Diplomatic Corps that he does not wish to cause it any embarrassment whatever in the controversy between himself and the State Department. Consequently, it was reported that overtures for some kind of understanding on the dinner Thursday night had been initiated.

Despite his desire to avoid any further publicity or to be the cause of any embarrassment to his hosts, there is no doubt of the determination of the Vice President to stand by his demand for a reversal of the ruling of Secretary Kellogg.

Unless that ruling is reversed, or some understanding is reached, friends of the Vice President have no doubt that he intends to stand by his sister and abandon any social engagements which would necessitate an enforcement of the State Department edict.

PRATT'S ORDER FORBIDS RAIDS OF ILLEGAL NATURE BY POLICE on the men charged with the enforcement of law in that spot, and embraces every one in the department.

Precinct commanders were reminded that it is their responsibility to keep in "intimate touch" with conditions throughout their territories, and told that they must initiate charges of inefficiency against any of their men or officers who do not measure up.

"The department," Pratt concluded in capital letters, "will not countenance any designed attempt on the part of any member of the force to shift or evade his proper responsibility."

Although the order applied to all law violations, it had "particular reference to the existence of gambling establishments, illicit liquor establishments, disorderly houses and other places of ill repute, knowledge of the establishment or existence of which should be known to the intelligent, efficient, conscientious officer displaying a proper interest in the execution of his sworn duty."

Chief Against Illegal Raids.

Pratt's warning that law enforcement activities must be carried out in accordance with law is in line with the new police chief's belief that more harm is done to the standing of the Police Department and the problem of law enforcement in general by illegal and improper action by officers than can possibly be gained through the arrest of a few small bootleggers or gamblers taken in illegal raids.

Despite the fact that every individual in the department was warned to be on his toes in looking after his particular job, there is no intention to abolish the special roving squads headed by Sergt. O. J. Letterman or Sergt. Little, it was said.

Furthermore, Pratt said, whenever it is necessary for outside forces to go into a precinct to clean up a neighborhood then the department heads are going to want to know why the precinct did not do its own work and disciplinary action will follow.

BISHOP CORRIGAN'S BODY LIES IN STATE

Baltimore Prelate Dies in Hospital After Illness of Several Years.

PRIESTS WILL HONOR HIM

Baltimore, April 8.—The body of Bishop Owen B. Corrigan, who died early today in St. Agnes' Hospital, where he had been a patient for several years, will first lie in state in the rectory of his church and then in the church itself until Thursday morning. It will then be removed to the Cathedral, where Archbishop Michael J. Curley will solemnize a solemn mass of requiem.

Burial will be in the Corrigan family lot in the New Cathedral Cemetery Thursday morning.

The body will lie in the parlor of the rectory of St. Gregory's, where Bishop Corrigan served so long as pastor, until tomorrow morning. A group of members of the Holy Name Society of the parish will act as guard of honor through the night. Friends and former parishoners will pay their respects there.

Guard of Honor to Attend.

Tomorrow at 8 a. m. the body will be placed in the center aisle of the church. The Rev. Peter L. Ireton, now pastor of St. Ann's, for nineteen years assistant pastor at St. Gregory's, will conduct a mass of requiem.

Children of the parish will attend this mass.

A guard of honor composed of members of the Holy Name Society and of the Sodality of the Virgin Mary will stand guard beside the body throughout the day and the night.

On Wednesday morning the Rev. Charles F. Morrissey, administrator of St. Gregory's Parish, will officiate at the mass, which will be attended by the adult members of the parish. The guard of honor will be continued through the day and the night, on this day being composed of members of the Holy Name Society throughout the city, members of the Knights of Columbus and of the Catholic Benevolent Legion.

The body will be taken from St. Gregory's Church to the cathedral on Thursday in time for the mass at 10:30 a. m.

Father Ireton to Speak.

Father Ireton will deliver the funeral eulogy there.

The Rev. John M. McNamara, auxiliary Bishop of Baltimore, will conduct the services at the grave.

It is expected that some of the suffragan bishops of the province of Baltimore will attend these services. All have been informed of the death of Bishop Corrigan, but it is impossible to say now, says Father Ireton, who has charge of arrangement of the services, how many will attend.

These suffragan bishops include Bishops Andrew James Brennan, of Richmond; Emmet Michael Walsh, of Charleston, S. C.; Patrick Barry, of St Augustine, Fla.; John J. Swint, of Wheeling, W. Va.; Edmond John Fitzmaurice, of Wilmington, Del.

THREE MEN SEIZED IN ICE PLANT BLAZE

Attorney and Two Owners Accused of Insurance Fraud Attempt.

ELKTON FACTORY RAZED

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., April 8.—The mysterious destruction by fire of the unused Elkton ice plant early Saturday morning resulted in the arrest of two more persons today and the rearrest of Roy Wheeler, young Waynesboro attorney, who previously was charged with setting fire to the plant.

J. C. McClung, Waynesboro business man and owner of the ice plant, and Arthur Ross, Waynesboro real estate man, whose automobile was found parked a half mile from the scene after the fire Saturday morning, were arrested on charges of attempting to defraud the insurance companies. Young Wheeler was arrested on the same charge.

McClung and Wheeler each were released on $5,000 bond while Ross' bail was fixed at $2,000.

The new warrants were issued by L. H. Kemp, deputy State fire marshal, who was called here to investigate. The plant was insured for $25,000 and was purchased last December by J. C. McClung for $20,000. There are $15,000 in bonds outstanding against the plant, officers here say.

Mr. McClung denies that he had any knowledge of Wheeler being at the plant at the time of the fire Saturday morning. Wheeler contends that he was at the plant making it ready for workmen who, he said, had been engaged to overhaul the machinery and resume the manufacture of ice. The plant has been unused for three years.

Wheeler, who was seen by two Elkton fishermen to run from the plant just as the flames were noticed Saturday morning, says that he was cooking his breakfast on a small stove when the stove exploded and set fire to the plant, which was enveloped in flames within a few minutes. Wheeler was captured by Deputy Sheriff Lucas 4 miles from the scene. Wheeler had to cross the Shenandoah River to get back to the Ross automobile, parked on the other side of the stream, but was unable to do so, officers said, because of the fishermen seeing him.

Wheeler maintains that he will lose money in the destruction of the plant, none of the insurance being payable to him, but that he stood a chance of realizing some profit from the plant had it resumed operation. He is a son of B. E. Wheeler, prominent Charlottesville real estate man and former mayor of that city, and is a graduate of the University of Virginia. He has been practicing in Waynesboro only a short time.

BULGARIAN PRINCE, VISITING CITY, SAYS HE LIKES HIS JOB

their language. I decided to come to America to learn the English language because I thought it would be much easier to do so in this country. You are so democratic, like our own people."

Prince Cyril is an automobile enthusiast. One of the reasons he came to America was to see the great automobile manufacturing plants, and he has seen them all. It is probable that when he returns to Bulgaria in May he will take along one of the fastest and biggest and shiniest automobiles made in the United States.

All he knows, he said, of the rumored engagement of his brother, King Boris, to Princess Giovanna of Italy is what he has read in the papers. And, again all he knows of the reports that he is in this country on the lookout for a bride is what he has read in the papers He laughs at both reports.

It is far more probable, judging from a conversation with the prince, that he is in this country looking for something entirely new in automobiles.

Aside from automobiles, Prince Cyril's pet likes are Lindbergh, aviation, American women and trunks that arrive on time. The prince had an important dinner to attend at the Mayflower last night. He reached the hotel early in the afternoon but his trunks had not arrived. In consequence, all yesterday afternoon his highness dashed frantically about seeking his delayed luggage.

"One can't go to dinner," the prince said somewhat helplessly, "in these." He grinned and dolefully regarded his gray flannels, which he was wearing with a double breasted blue coat, a blue striped shirt and a black striped tie. The trunks arrived at 6:45 and relieved his mind. He was due at dinner at 6:40.

The dinner was given by Mrs. Hamilton Fish, of New York. The prince will be guest of honor at a tea at the Bulgarian Legation this afternoon. To night he returns to New York. Before sailing for Bulgaria May 1, he has a few more engagements, a visit to a few more cities. His tour has taken him to all but a few American cities.

Two Cracked Safes Net Yeggmen $715

Cash Register Robbery and Home Jewelry Theft Also Reported.

Two safes were broken into yesterday, netting yeggmen $715 in cash. By the robbery of a cash register and the theft of jewelry from a home also thieves acquired property valued at $550 and $5 in change.

A safe in the gasoline station at Fifteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue southeast early yesterday morning was looted of $595. The safe in the Sanitary Grocery Store at Fourteenth and T streets northwest also was broken into and $90 in bills and $30 in change stolen.

Mrs. Henry Riggs Rathbone yesterday reported the theft of jewelry valued at $550 from her home at 3215 Newark street northwest. Abraham Katzen, proprietor of a store at 1315 V street northwest, told police some one entered his store early yesterday morning and took $5 in change from the cash register.

Citizens' Group Favors Present Budget Plan

The Piney Branch Citizens Association, at a meeting last night at Hamline Methodist Episcopal Church, went on record as favoring the present system of having all departments in the District Government clear their estimates through the District Commissioners.

Ballots were collected to nominate a Public Utilities Commission member. Result of the vote will be announced today. The association requested the Rapid Transit Co. to reroute one of its bus lines to provide service on Farragut street, Arkansas avenue and Thirteenth street northwest.

Arlington Chapel Plan Is Discarded

F. H. Prince, Boston Banker, Not to Erect $500,000 Memorial to Son.

Frederick H. Prince, Boston banker, has dropped his plans for erecting a $500,000 chapel in memory of his son, killed during the World War, at the Fort Myer entrance to Arlington National Cemetery, it was made known yesterday.

The War Department granted Mr. Prince a plot of ground on which to build the Gothic structure. Members of the Fine Arts Commission later suggested that Mr. Prince erect the structure on more simple lines across from Arlington Memorial Bridge, instead of at the Fort Myer entrance.

Shortly after the members of the Fine Arts Commission made these overtures the banker sailed for Europe and has not been heard from since, although the commission wrote him asking about his plans.

Civic Association To Honor Teacher

Testimonial to Be Given Woman Who Served for 48 Years.

At a meeting of the Hillsdale Civic Association held last night in the Birney School, committees were appointed to engage interest of the entire Anacostia community in a testimonial to Miss E. V. Smith, retired school teacher, who served in the Birney building for 48 years. The testimonial will be held on April 19.

Col. U. S. Grant 3d, superintendent of public buildings and public parks, was thanked in a series of resolutions for improvement to Section C of Anacostia Park, permitting its use for purposes of recreation. An appropriation of $35,000, it was reported, is now available for improvement of Stickfoot Branch.

The committee chairmen for the Smith testimonial were named to include Louise Fry, reception; Ulysses Black, program; Marcus Dale, finance; Etta Hawkins, invitation; Fannie Shipley, testimonial; Julia Costin, resolutions; Robert Mason, publicity; James Watson, guest; John Strong, decoration, and Montrella Swann, seating.

The Rev. R. B. Cotton Gets Call.

Danville, Va., April 8 (Special).—Members of Burton Memorial Presbyterian Church have tendered a call to the Rev. R. B. Cotton, of Fort Smith, Ark., to become pastor. He preached here Easter. It is believed he will accept the call. He is a graduate of Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, and held a charge in Washington before going to Arkansas.

They got behind the wheel . . got the facts . . and bought BUICKS!

Among the scores of thousands of men and women who purchase Buicks year after year . . . who know Buick through and through and therefore never think of buying any other automobile . . . there is every bit as much enthusiasm over the performance of this newest Buick as among the thousands who are buying Buicks for the first time!

For instance, the owner quoted here goes on to say: "The way the new Buick climbs the steepest hills and passes other cars is simply marvelous." And this owner of fifteen Buicks adds significantly, "We have not had a minute's trouble with the car, which is typical of Buick!"

"I have owned fifteen Buicks since 1910 . . . . but have never driven any Buick or any other car that compared with this new Buick in power, smoothness and reliability."

One fact is clear—one fact is as plain as noonday: This masterly Buick provides a revolutionary order of performance—embodies elements of power, getaway, swiftness, smoothness and reliability infinitely superior to anything that has gone before.

Prove this to your own satisfaction! Drive a Buick! See for yourself why more than twice as many people purchase Buicks as any other automobile priced above $1200. Then you'll know that you should have a Buick, too!

SALE OF THE MERCHANT FLEET.

There occurred yesterday in New York an event that marks a new era in the history of the American merchant marine. This was the formal delivery to her new owners of the world-famous Leviathan, flagship of the Shipping Board's North Atlantic passenger fleet and the first of the eleven Government-owned passenger vessels in this service to be transferred to private American interests. The occasion was fittingly observed aboard the giant craft by some of the country's leading shipping authorities, Chairman T. V. O'Connor, of the Shipping Board, making the principal address. Telegrams commenting on the significance of the event were received from a number of prominent persons, including the Postmaster General.

The occasion was sufficiently important to call for a comprehensive statement relating to the merchant marine. This was furnished by Chairman O'Connor, when he showed that of 2,543 vessels acquired as a result of the war, the board has already sold 1,700, totaling 8,750,000 deadweight tons, for which the Government has received in cash approximately $400,000,000.

These figures will be noted with interest by all friends of the merchant marine, and at the same time should silence those critics of the Shipping Board who have claimed that there has been unnecessary delay in getting the Government out of the shipping business. When account is taken of vessels disposed of otherwise than by sale it may be noted that there are but 600 ships still left in the Shipping Board's possession, and that there are excellent chances of selling many of these in the near future. In short, far from being dilatory in transferring the ships to private American interests, it must appear that the Shipping Board, under the able leadership of Chairman O'Connor, has, in the face of almost insuperable obstacles, accomplished remarkable results in already disposing of the greater part of the fleet.

The significance of this achievement will appear more fully if it is borne in mind that in all sales of vessel property it has been necessary for the Shipping Board to consider most carefully the best interests of private American shipowners and shipbuilders, in order to avoid making any sales that would adversely affect existing conditions. In other words, it has been a case not merely of selling ships, but of selling them in such a way that the American merchant marine as a whole would be benefited by the various sales negotiated. Constant observance of this requirement has enormously increased the Shipping Board's difficulties.

Many of the vessels disposed of have gone to build up American coastwise and intercoastal lines. These splendid services far outrank any similar steamship services in the world. Other ships and ship lines sold by the board are upholding American commercial prestige in the foreign trades. Chairman O'Connor, in his New York address, showed that out of 38 foreign-trade lines established by the board, in a network of services extending to all parts of the world, 20 have been sold to American citizens for guaranteed operation over a fixed period of years. The Nation-wide commercial benefits resulting from the operation of these foreign services are incalculable.

Because of the value of the ships and the importance of American North Atlantic passenger traffic, the sale of the Leviathan and her sister ships to private American interests constitutes the outstanding event in the Shipping Board's sales program. Every American must wish success for the new undertaking, which seems destined to furnish another fine example of American commercial acumen and initiative working in a public-spirited way. Friends of the merchant marine should remember, however, that the success of the new venture will by no means depend entirely on the business sagacity and enterprise of the owners, but will be contingent in large measure upon the patronage of American travelers and shippers. Use American ships!

NATURALIZED CANADIANS BARRED.

The United States Supreme Court has closed a dangerous gap in the immigration laws by holding that naturalized Canadians are prohibited from coming across the border unless they possess unexpired consular visas. Identification cards, such as are given to native Canadians, are not sufficient to enable naturalized Canadians to cross the border to work or in search of work.

Native Canadians are entitled by law to cross the border freely, as are Mexicans. The quota law does not apply to either Canada or Mexico. Taking advantage of this situation, many Europeans have entered Canada and become naturalized for the sole purpose of entering the United States. Aliens who could not hope to come directly, because of the exhaustion of the quota for their countries, or because they could not obtain a consular visa, were thus enabled to defeat the law. The Supreme Court now holds that they must present unexpired visas or be excluded.

It is not to be supposed that the Canadian government will make a point of this exclusion of its naturalized citizens, in view of the extremely generous treatment of its native citizens. The United States is not seeking to bar out Canadians, but it does object to the indirect entry of Europeans through Canada.

BOOSTING LOCAL TAXES.

William P. Richards, District tax assessor, estimates that the total assessed value of real estate for the coming fiscal year will be increased by about $40,000,000. The exact amount of the increase will not be known until early in June, when the assessment books will be closed to appeal and review. It is not believed, however, that the estimate will be altered materially. A total assessment approaching the $1,200,000,000 mark is indicated as compared with the present total of $1,140,000,000.

Washington is growing, and the value of its real estate and property is increasing. As recently as ten years ago the total assessment came to but $414,610,000. At that time the assessment was made at two-thirds full value. In 1923 the full-valuation rule was adopted. Since the World War the annual rate of increase has been approximately 4 per cent, distributed fairly evenly between residential and business properties.

A steadily increasing total assessment must provide an ever-enlarging operating fund for the District, unless and until Congress sees fit to raise the lump sum contribution or substitute in its stead a more equitable proportionate contribution. The present tax rate can be raised only with attendant financial hardship to District business and individuals. So long as the value of his property has actually increased, the owner has no right to object to an increased valuation. It seems likely that Washington has reached a period of development in which the cost of maintaining and operating the Government will increase proportionately faster than the total assessment. Washington is becoming increasingly metropolitan. There is no reason to believe that an increasing total assessment can be invoked into perpetuity to raise the increasing funds that will be needed. It will be imperatively necessary for Congress to increase the Federal contribution to the financial needs of the District.

FARMERS ORGANIZING.

With the attention of Congress centered on agricultural relief, it is encouraging to find that farm organizations, aided by the Department of Agriculture, are in no way leaving the problem for Congress to solve. A statement issued by the division of cooperative marketing reports that a definite movement to create a national chamber of agricultural cooperation has been launched. The new organization is to function as a service and trade association for the 12,000 farmers' business associations in the United States.

The cooperative plan of marketing products of the farm has been growing rapidly in this country. A recent report of the Department of Agriculture shows that more than 2,000,000 farmers are members of one or more cooperatives. This is a third of the farmers in the country. Their business, including marketing and purchasing carried on by the associations, amounted to more than $2,300,000,000 in 1928. The department found that "the cooperatives of 1928 were incomparably better managed business organizations than those of ten years ago, and the farmers of 1928 had a better comprehension of marketing problems, the aims and possibilities of cooperation, than they had in 1918."

It is the aim of the present movement to have each of the commodity groups, or the individual associations, select a representative for the national organization. This central body would coordinate the work of the cooperatives on a national scale in both marketing and purchasing farm supplies. It would work out policies of common concern, seek to promote better understanding between the various groups, and "in general further the cooperative commerce of agriculture."

As the time for the special session of Congress draws near, it becomes more evident that the principal relief measure will be based on a plan by which the Government can help the farmers through their own organizations. The agricultural interests are showing good judgment in promoting a plan which will place their industry on a sounder economical basis under any circumstances, and which will place them in the best possible position to utilize the aid which will be offered by the Government.

FOR BETTER CRIME DETECTION.

Newton D. Baker, chairman of the National Crime Commission, has announced appointment of a committee to study the problem of detecting and apprehending criminals in the United States. The commission has investigated nearly every angle of lawlessness in this country, and it is difficult to understand why the problem of crime detection has not been looked into before. The apprehension of criminals is the first and most vital element in law enforcement. Now that the commission has seen fit to launch such an investigation, its report will be awaited with interest throughout the United States.

In announcing the new committee Mr. Baker says "there is an undoubted feeling throughout the country that our whole system of detecting and apprehending criminals falls far short of that efficiency which is required to meet modern crime conditions." Law enforcement in America falls down because desperate characters can murder, rob, kidnap and commit a hundred other offenses and "get away with it." Statistics show that no arrests are made for a large percentage of the crimes committed. In those cases where arrests are made many of the defendants are released because of lack of evidence.

Mr. Baker's statement indicates an especial need for more efficient rural police. Many of the States have felt keenly the deficiencies of their rural officers. A movement was started by Gov. Roosevelt of New York to establish a central State crime detection bureau which would make expert assistance available in solving any rural crime. It is well that the commission is to give special attention to this phase of the problem. The country will look forward to some definite recommendations for rural constabularies in its report.

The committee is made up of experts, including Inspector T. W. S. Parsons, second in command of the British Columbia mounted police. This suggests that its study will not be confined to the United States. Study of the detective methods of other countries should prove highly beneficial, since a number of the European nations are far ahead of the United States in this respect. England credits the "certainty of detection and punishment" for the excellence of its law enforcement system. Austria is reported to have reduced crime detection to a science. In the United States this scientific approach is largely lacking. This country, which is applying science to almost every phase of life with much success, should no longer lag behind in the science of detecting crime.

HOOVER'S LEADERSHIP

By TOM KING,
In the Manitoba Free Press.

It is only a month since Mr. Hoover was inaugurated. To pass any judgment upon him or his administration after so brief a term of service would be premature, to say the least. Ordinarily the new President must spend the first few months of his administration getting on to the job. Mr. Coolidge admits that it required three months of intensive study before he was sufficiently familiar with the far-flung activities of the Federal Government to make his first report to Congress "upon the state of the Union." But Mr. Hoover has been in Washington almost constantly during the past twelve years and in close touch with the machinery of government. He took an active part in framing the Fordney-McCumber tariff act, and, as secretary of commerce, was in close touch for eight years with the currents of domestic and foreign trade. Maintaining that all farm products entered into commerce as soon as they passed through the farm gate, he addressed himself for years to the problems of marketing, which are, after all, the principal problems underlying the agricultural situation. He is exceedingly familiar with all the administrative details of the Government, and probably feels himself as confident at the present moment, to be President, as he ever expects to be.

This gives Mr. Hoover a cocksureness on nearly every subject presented to him. It has enabled him to make sweeping gestures and announce far-flung policies without taking counsel and without giving the subject in hand prolonged consideration. Evidently he made up his mind upon these subjects before he entered the White House. His rapid-fire decision to aid the Mexican government in subduing the present revolution, his sweeping order against the government making any more oil leases, his reversal of the Coolidge-Mellon policy respecting publicity as to tax refunds and abatements, must all have been resolved upon long before he was inaugurated President. Scarcely a day passes without some White House announcement of news value and popular interest, whether it is beacning the Mayflower, or turning adrift the horses which have been eating their heads off in the White House stables, or rejecting the summer home which Congress provided for the President, the Hoover ukases are designed to please the people and increase the popularity of the President. Up to date, Mr. Hoover has done nothing that is likely to make him unpopular.

It is easy to do the right thing when the right thing is popular. There has been a wasteful exploitation of oil, as there has been of timber and coal, and it was time for the Government to adopt a policy of conservation. The easy and popular thing was to say that no more oil leases would be granted. That is the way the ordinary citizen disposes of many problems in his own mind and to his own satisfaction. If there be trouble about immigration he announces loudly that all immigration be prohibited. If foreign products be competing with domestic products he announces himself in favor of an embargo. However, long experience has shown that many problems can not be got rid of by these short-cut solutions. The science of government is not so exact as the science of engineering, and it is often better to go round a mountain than to tunnel through. The weakness of Mr. Hoover may be his desire to find for every problem a short-cut solution.

Bold as the President seems to be in so many other respects, he shows a strange timidity in dealing with the farm situation. Having summoned Congress to Washington to pass farm relief legislation, Congress might naturally look to Mr. Hoover for leadership. An unwieldy body like the House of Representatives can scarcely be expected to formulate a comprehensive plan of farm relief. To provide stilts for the farmer which will place agriculture on a parity with industry is all sorts of a job. No wonder Mr. Hoover fears to tackle it, and desires the responsibility for failure to fall upon Congress and not upon himself. Had he a short-cut solution he would undoubtedly propose it; having none he seems, up to date, disposed to leave Congress to flounder about and muddle through without committing himself.

Mr. Hoover is an executive. He has never served in any legislative body, and has never had to decide questions of policy upon which the people were bitterly divided. It will be in the legislative field that Mr. Hoover is likely to disclose his limitations. He is technically correct when he says that it is the duty of Congress to legislate and that the President is not called upon to consider a bill until it has passed both houses and comes to him for signature or veto. But that is not leadership. The President, as the head of a great party in possession of the Government, has responsibilities analogous to those which devolve on our prime minister. The record of Congress must be largely the record of his own administration.

Memorial Bridge Designs.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: At the eastern entrance to the new Memorial bridge there has been erected a very ugly and badly designed female figure (perhaps a model). This was bad enough, but recently there has been placed on the other side of the parapet a small "tombstone" about one third as high as the lady on the opposite side. The writer has studied these things carefully in the hope of finding some assurance that they were temporary, but the "tombstone" looks very permanent. Was ever anything so awful conceived outside of a lunatic asylum?

FLORENCE AUGUSTE.

Sinking Rum Runners.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It is unfortunate for the antiprohibitionists that their leaders have to resort to specious argument and misleading phrase to justify their attacks upon the fundamental law of the land. How strangely right it is that whenever an incident arises that the wets attempt to make controversial, a voice invariably arises, clarion clear, to echo the sentiments of all true Americans. Take the case of the sinking of the I'm Alone, of which Deets Picket, research secretary of the board of prohibition, temperance and public morals of the Methodist Episcopal Church, speaks as follows:

"When the men of the Coast Guard, after due and repeated warning, sent their shells into the hull of the I'm Alone, a thrill of appreciation ran through my veins. It was American. It was right and despite the efforts of the international wets to stir up feeling between the United States and Great Britain in regard to this incident, I have never had one moment of uneasiness. For, after all, Great Britain and Canada are Christian countries and if their governments were to attempt to make an issue with the United States on behalf of such a loathsome business, the churches would settle it overnight.

"We need to awake to the fact that at this stage of civilization it is the duty of every government to support actively and vigorously the peace and order of other countries. Great Britain should not permit companies to exist for the sole purpose of attempting to run liquor into the United States. It should not permit the British flag to fly at the masthead of vessels in the service of a criminal. It should demand that vessels show the delivery of cargoes to the ports for which they have been cleared."

Contrast these temperate words with the ravings of those who would permit foreigners to smuggle liquor into the United States. It was high time that Uncle Sam should put a stop to rum piracy. E PLURIBUS UNUM.

Courtesy in Washington.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Washington people are distinguished for their kindness to strangers, and today I have had notable proof of it.

When I reached the railway station I found I had lost the last section of a ticket that had brought me from Gridley, Calif.

I could think of nothing to do but to buy a new one to New York. This I did, telling the agent who sold it to me of my loss. He at once asked me to describe it and said if it should be brought in he would return to me the price of the new one. This decided me to return to the Grace Dodge Hotel where I had been a guest to look for the ticket. There I had most sympathetic help in my search, but it proved vain. But the management was so kind as to cash a check which would enable me to exist in New York until banking hours on Monday.

Meanwhile, it occurred to me that possibly I had dropped the ticket into the mail box at the hotel between two letters I deposited there. I waited till the carrier came on his next rouhd, but it was not among the letters. When I told him the hour I had placed my letters in the box he told me they must have been taken at a previous delivery to the postoffice.

So I went to that office and was so fortunate as to get the attention of a man whom I would like to see Postmaster General sometime. I told him my story, described my ticket and he went to look for it. When he returned he told me that if it was among 75 masses of mail that had been brought in, search should be made, and if found it would be returned to me.

Of course it would be valueless unless I had it today, and it was important that I take a train to New York by 12 o'clock—two hours later than I had planned to come.

I returned to the station heavy-hearted. Within fifteen minutes that postoffice official stood before me with my lost ticket.

I took it to the ticket office and though the man who had sold me the new one, was not there, the agent who was heard my story, had me sign a brief statement of it and returned me the price I had paid for my fare. I caught the 12 o'clock train. Please let me make recognition of my gratitude for all this service through your columns. ALICE DINSMOOR.

QUICKSANDS.

Popular ideas about quicksands are a good example of what happens to a dog that gets a bad name, observes the New York Herald Tribune. True, quicksands exist. Perhaps a dozen examples have been described in geological literature. They occur in stream beds or elsewhere where currents of water rising through sandy soil keep that material stirred and almost liquid, so that there is little difference between such sand that is "quick"—that is, "live"—and so much water. There exists, we believe, no authentic record of any one caught or drowned in such material. When people are drowned in the soft bottoms of water courses, sands, quick or otherwise, rarely have anything to do with it. A far more dangerous material is mud, especially if it contains decaying organic matter. That was the material which occasioned the near-tragedy this week on the Hackensack River, when two boys were saved only with grave difficulty from the clutch of the river-bottom mud. Yet, as usual, the culprit mentioned in the newspapers is the conventional quicksand.

One drowns in mud precisely as one drowns in water. The mud is of virtually the same density as water; it may even be of lesser density, for the decaying organic matter so often present in such muddy marshes usually supplies many small gas bubbles. The mud is really aerated into a kind of froth which has small supporting power for any heavy thing. When one falls into such material the natural course is to struggle, move about and try to get out. This merely sinks the unfortunate victim farther into the mire. In clear water the average human body will float with the tip of the nose emerging. It will do the same thing in mud, if the mud is not aerated. When aerated, mud will not even support the body as much as this. Simple hydrostatics, not some mysterious sucking power of quicksands, is responsible for these all too frequent tragedies.

Curiously enough, the people who know most about these treacherous muds are probably the travelers in deserts, for the lack of flowing water in the occasional desert oases makes these depressions sinkholes for wet but stagnant mud. Experienced desert men have a standard technique for use when, by accident, one of these mud holes traps them. They do not struggle. Instead, they throw themselves on the back, arms and coat spread out flat on the mud beneath. Thus, the clothing acts, for a time at least, as a kind of boat to keep the body afloat until aid can come, or the situation can be considered. One trapped traveler that we know of saved himself by rolling ashore over the soft muddy surface like a plump woman exercising on the floor.

When Genius Grows Fat, It Writes No More Great Poetry.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

"THE stars can not shine," the Chinese say, "until the sky is dark." If man knew no other philosophy, these few words would teach him the secret of success and reconcile him to his burdens.

A youth with soft hands and a white face stands behind a counter in days of peace and feels no capacity for adventure. He is afraid of losing his job; afraid of the corner policeman; afraid of life. But war comes and in the midst of its carnage he learns contempt for danger and wins decorations for valor.

A girl made selfish by the folly of wealthy parents and the flattery of admiring friends marries a youth of her own class and approaches middle age with no more character than a sponge. Then disaster comes, and in the bitterness of poverty and hardship her dormant nobility awakens and she makes glad sacrifices for those she loves.

It is nature's way and is repeated times without number.

A soft and prosperous race produces no great men because it has no need of them. Comfort and security spawn mediocrity. But when dark days come and destruction threatens, a great man comes out of the crowd to save the nation.

Nature is prodigal, but she develops no more energy than is needed for the task in hand.

In the tropics, where life is simple and easily maintained, men remain almost as primitive as the cattle. They have no obstacles to overcome—no burdens to bear—and their indolent, uneventful existence offers no incentive to make progress.

In northern Europe nature apparently did her utmost to discourage men, and here, inevitably, hard circumstances has developed the world's most thrifty and most efficient farmers.

Americans are wasteful because their land is rich; they are content with a smattering of knowledge because a little is sufficient to get their living; they grow soft and do little thinking because they are well fed and secure among their cushions.

Hardship is required to develop hardy plants; strife is essential to the building of character.

Surely the truth is so obvious that the dullest mind can comprehend it.

Why, then, does an able man plan the immediate decay and ultimate destruction of his house by making life soft for his children?

Is it nature's scheme to check the advance of superior families?

Philadelphia Inquirer: New York is going to spend $186,000,000 on public improvement, and just off-hand we would say that it will take every bit of it to improve the public of New York, and still leave something to be desired, probably.

4 HELD FOR PERJURY IN POLLS RIOT TRIAL

Alleged Aids of Collector in Chicago Accused of False Testimony.

KIDNAP TALE PROVES TRAP

Chicago, April 8 (A.P.).—A third State witness was arrested for perjury after testifying today in the trial of thirteen alleged henchmen of City Collector Morris Eller for election-day terrorism.

Sam "Texas" Bennett, who told the jury at the Eller conspiracy trial last fall of the kidnaping of his brother, Paumpey Cornelius, and identified three defendants, was asked to point the men out again today. He repeated his story of the kidnaping and once more named the three, but failed to identify them in the row of defendants.

Judge Frank Comerford ordered Bennett taken into custody for perjury. Two other prosecution witnesses were held to the grand jury Friday for perjury after they had reversed the testimony given at the conspiracy trial.

Morris Eller and his son, Judge Emanuel Eller, who were granted a separate trial, made a fourth demand today for trial on the conspiracy indictment under which they and their followers were convicted last autumn. A defendant is entitled to discharge under the statutes if four demands for trial go unanswered by the State, but Judge Francis Wilson allowed another continuance because the prosecutors are engaged in the trial of the Eller henchmen.

A fourth prosecution witness was sent to the county jail later in the day to join the trio held for perjury. Bob Cornelius, brother of Paumpy and of Bennett, last year identified both Joe Breclav and Sam Bardin as the abductors of Paumpy on election day, 1928. Today, declaring he was unable to identify either, he was accused of perjury and placed under $5,000 bond.

Bramwell Booth's Condition Alarms

Son Says He Worries Over Reorganization of Salvation Army.

London, April 8 (A.P.).—The health of Gen. Bramwell Booth, former head of the Salvation Army, continues to cause his family considerable anxiety, his son and secretary, Capt. Wycliffe Booth declared today.

"The doctors warned us that my father's progress was conditional upon perfect rest, quiet, and freedom from worry," said Capt. Booth. "But at the time that the high council of the Salvation Army met, he was subjected to the very opposite state of mind.

"He has been worried constantly ever since, with the result that he has failed to make progress during the past four or five weeks. Following a series of ups and downs, his condition is now stationary. We are extremely anxious but doctors assure us that there is no immediate reason to expect a fatality."

Gen. Booth is attended by his wife and one daughter in his house in Hadley Wood. Capt. Booth visits him several times every day.

Insane Slayer Saved By Last Minute Writ

Chicago, April 8 (A.P.).—David Shanks, colored, thrice saved from the electric chair by last-minute stays of execution, was committed to the Chester Asylum for the Criminal Insane today by Judge Robert E. Gentzel. He was under sentence of death for the murder last summer of Jennie Meta Constance of Peoria, graduate student at Northwestern University, whom he clubbed to death in Evanston.

He was to have died in the electric chair at midnight tonight, the State Supreme Court having refused a review of his case last week. Counsel for the negro slayer said he had become insane since the trial. In event Shanks regains his sanity he will be subject to the death sentence.

Thirteen Hurt as Bus Strikes Safety Post

Michigan City, Ind., April 8 (A.P.).—Thirteen persons were injured when a motor coach loaded with passengers crashed into a safety post early today and turned over. The concrete base of the post was knocked out of the ground by the impact. J. E. Lackey, 70, of Medarville, Ind., was the most seriously injured, his head being pierced. Powell Roberts, Chicago, driver of the bus, was unhurt.

Among the injured were: Harriet Mahaney, 2622 South Grande avenue, Los Angeles, back injured; Lloyd Winters, 28, 1714 Concord avenue, Detroit, cut on back and leg; William Murray, 26, Iron Mountain, Mich., back cut; C. T. Courtney, 38, Knoxville, Tenn., cut; Antonia Garcia, Pedro Moreno, Angel Lora and Santiago Soto.

Servant Girl's Poem Given To Crowd by Rockefeller

Lakewood, N. J., April 8 (A.P.).—John D. Rockefeller, who has been known in recent years as a distributor of new dimes, has turned to poetry.

Several dozen cards bearing a twelve line poem said by the aged millionaire to have been written "by an English servant girl," were in the hands of Lakewood residents today.

Mr. Rockefeller appeared on the steps of the First Baptist Church with the cards in his hands yesterday after services. He handed one to a newspaper man and asked him to read it to the gathering. Mr. Rockefeller broke in with an occasional "Isn't that wonderful," or "Isn't that beautiful?"

When the reporter had finished reading the poem, he received a ten cent piece for himself, one for his wife and one for his child. Distribution of the cards followed.

This is the poem:

I do it unto Thee
Lord of all pots and pans and things, since I've no time to be A Saint by doing lovely things or watching late with Thee,
Or dreaming in the twilight or storming Heaven's gates,
Make me a Saint by getting meals or washing up the place.
Although I must have Martha's hands,
I have a Mary mind;
And when I black the boots and shoes,
Thy sandals, Lord, I find,
I think of how they trod the earth,
what time I scrub the floor;
Accept this meditation, Lord, I haven't time for more;
Warm all the kitchen with Thy love,
and light it with Thy peace;
Forgive me all my worrying and make all grumbling cease.
Thou who didst love to give men food,
in room or by the sea,
Accept this service that I do—I do it unto Thee."

Third Recaptured After Jail Break

One of Four Who Broke Louisiana Prison Is Still at Liberty.

Baton Rouge, La., April 8 (A.P.).—Three of four convicts, who overpowered guards and escaped from the receiving station of the State penitentiary yesterday, had been recaptured tonight, and officers' posses believed they had the fourth surrounded in a swamp near Magnolia, Miss.

Capt. C. R. Mixon, in charge of the penitentiary station, was notified tonight that Fred Wilson, escaped purse snatcher, had been recaptured by officers at Hazelhurst, Miss. Steve J. Beck, bank robber, surrendered today to a posse near Magnolia, Miss., without fight, and Adam Webster, serving a sentence for breaking and entering, was recaptured yesterday. The fourth man still at liberty is Jim Heard, convicted burglar, who was facing trial today with Beck for the murder of a trusty in the bloody Angola prison break last September.

Wilson was captured by officers without resistance in the woods a half mile from Hazlehurst and was taken to Magnolia and placed in jail with the other two recaptured. He had picked up two young hobes near McComb, Miss., in his stolen automobile, parked it in the woods 3 miles from Hazlehurst and sent one of his companions for food. Instead the youth went for the sheriff.

Commander of Paris Bombardment Is Dead

Berlin, April 8 (A.P.).—The death of Gen. Ludwig von Lauter at the age of 74 was announced today.

Gen. von Lauter commanded the German heavy artillery during the great war, including the guns which bombarded Paris.

Adopted Son Gets $2,000,000 in Suit

Judge Awards Boy, 9, Two Thirds of Estate Left by Foster Mother.

Detroit, April 8 (A.P.).—James Frederick Smith, 9-year-old adopted son of the late Mrs. Hattie B. Smith, became heir to $2,000,000 through a decision handed down today by Judge Arthur Webster of circuit court.

Mrs. Smith's will left her estate of $3,000,000 to the adopted boy, but it was contested by relatives, including Mrs. Sarah E. Smith, aged mother of the late James W. Smith, pioneer truck body operator and husband of Hattie B. Smith.

Judge Webster in his decision did not set aside the will, but demanded specific performance of an agreement between Smith and his wife before Smith's death under which one-third of the estate was to be divided between his mother, his three sisters, two sisters of his wife and a niece. The adopted son, therefore, will receive two-thirds of the estate.

Reserve Commission Issued.

George Kerrick Perkins, 518 Union Trust Building, has accepted an appointment as a captain in the specialist reserves of the United States Army, it was announced yesterday at the War Department.

Tax Appraisal Fixes Value of Various Interests Left by Publisher.

TRUST FIRM IS INCLUDED

New York, April 8 (A.P.).—A tax appraisal of the estate of Frank A. Munsey, publisher, who died December 22, 1925, was filed today showing a gross estate of $23,434,634.29 and a net of $19,747,687.58. Deductions from the gross were $2,371,382.97 for funeral and administration expenses and $1,315,-563.74 for debts.

The will provided for specific legacies totaling $2,442,093.05, the residue of $17,305,594.53 going to the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

The largest single item in the assets of the estate is securities, with an aggregate value of $15,726,082.39. Real estate was appraised at $3,205,583.33; cash amounted to $39,645.58; personal effects, $51,144.90; mortgages, notes and accounts, $4,409,744.59; and other property $2,433.50.

100,000 Shares of Stock.

In the list of stocks were 100,000 shares of the common stock of the Frank A. Munsey Co. valued at $15,-996,053.59, and 100 shares of the common stock of the Mohican Co., $6,466.37.

A detailed account of the holdings of the Frank A. Munsey Co. lists its assets at $28,483,934.17 and liabilities at $12,932,200.58, including a Frank A. Munsey loan amounting to $4,408,-167.41.

The assets of the company include investment in affiliated companies totaling $20,452,309.81. Under this heading comes 350 share of the common stock of the Sun Printing & Publishing Association and 1,000 shares of the common stock of the New York Herald Co. valued together at $9,817,-198.36.

Capital Building Listed.

Other assets of the Munsey company are listed as 18,040 shares of the common stock of the Munsey Trust Co., valued at $2,850,000, including the Munsey Building in Washington, D. C., appraised at $2,000,000; 20 shares of the common stock of the News Publishing Co. of Baltimore, valued at $4,598,815.62 and including the Munsey Building in Baltimore worth $2,036,508.50, and 29,-900 shares of the common stock of the Mohican Co., appraised at $1,933,444.15. No value was placed on 1,000 shares of the Red Star News Co. common stock.

A value of $57,000 is given property at Elizabethtown, N. Y., known as "Garondah."

Christopher H. Pope, vice president of the Munsey Trust Co., and Mrs. Jean Rushmore Patterson, the latter a daughter of the former counsel for the late Frank A. Munsey, New York publisher, each received $25,000 of the Munsey estate, which was appraised yesterday in New York.

Mrs. Patterson lives at 2144 Wyoming avenue northwest.

Germany Will Expel Borah Forgery Figure

Berlin, April 8 (A.P.).—Alexander Gumanski, who was arrested March 15 in connection with the Orloff forgery case, was released today on his counsel's application, but proceedings will be taken to expel him from the country.

Gumanski is a Russian and was implicated with Vladimir Orloff in forgeries purporting to show that American Senators Borah and Norris had received payments of money from the Soviet government.

IN THE PLAY HOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY

S. E. Cochran offers the National Theater Players in "The Bad Man," a play in three acts by Porter Emerson Brown. Staged by Addison Pitt. Scenery by Charles Squires.

THE CAST.

Gilbert Jones.....Wilfred Lytell
Henry Smith, his uncle, Charles Hampden
Morgan Pell.....George V. Dill
Lucia Pell, his wife....Mary Newton
Red Giddings, Jones' foreman, Freddie Sherman
Jasper Hardy.....Maurice Jarvis
Angela Hardy, his daughter..Betty Kent
Pancho Lopez, a bandit...Robert Brister
Pedro, his lieutenant....Arthur Rhodes
Venustrano, his henchman, James C. Tate
Alverada, Mexican cook, J. Martin Scranage
Bradley, a Texas Ranger..Harry Westcott
Blake, a Texas Ranger..Frank S. Peck

In the tradition that has grown up around the theater the names of various actors have become associated with specific plays and performances what though each in long careers played more than one part; thus, Joseph Jefferson will always be remembered as Rip Van Winkle; Maud Adams as Peter Pan; Frank Bacon as Lightnin', and so on, up and down the line.

Local repertoire has fashioned its favorites in special roles, and Mrs. Adelaide Hibbard, with the National Theater Players, will always be known as "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch;" Charles Hampden as the Stranger in the "Passing of the Third Floor Back," and now Robert Brister as Pancho Lopez in "The Bad Man."

It is always a pleasant occurrence in the theater when a new portrait is placed in the gallery of stage pictures. Last night, in the National Theater, Mr. Brister took down the old role of the late Holbrook Blinn, dusted off the sombrero, and turned in a performance as distinctively his own as if Porter Emerson Browne had written it for him in the beginning. Those who have followed the fortunes of the National Theater Players these many years need not be told that Robert Brister had with him all the time the making of a splendid character actor. It told even in his minor portraits. In "The Bad Man," it just naturally comes to the fore.

The idea of making a hero of a bad man was good strategy on the part of a playwright. Porter Emerson Brown, in fashioning this play, must have had a lot of fun in the writing. It is doubtful, however, if he enjoyed himself half as much as did Mr. Brishter last night, strutting round the stage in his alkali dusted chaps and wide sombrebo; nor one-half again the fun of an audience that rocked with laughter at the amusing situations created in this care-free, happy-go-lucky bit of drama.

Charles Squires, responsible for all the scenery painted in the studios of the National Theater Players, has brought the Mexican border intact to Washington for the presentation of this play, the action of which takes place in a ranch house. For three full acts dialogue flies fast and furiously. A short play, it is out all too soon; for there are dire doings down there on the banks of the Rio Grande, where Wall street magnates and Arizona ranchers and Mexican bandits get together in as fine a party as may be seen in any man's decade.

Porter Emerson Browne had his tongue in his cheek when he wrote "The Bad Man," so that whatever the ethics of all these evil doings, in the way of hold-up and stealing and nefarious deeds of all sorts, including a bank robbery to requite a mortgage, it makes no nevermind. If all bad men were as good as Pancho Lopez every American on the border ought to have one as friend and benefactor.

While Robert Brister runs away with most of the glory in the piece, there are splendid performances by other members of the cast; by Wilfred Lytell, leading man; by Miss Mary Newton, leading woman; by Charles Hampden, as a crazy old uncle of the American on whose ranch the deeds are done, and by a newcomer to the roster of players, Mr. George V. Dill, an old-time trouper who does handsomely by a villainous part.

Indeed, for rare entertainment, "The Bad Man," with Robert Brister in the title role, is one of the revivals the National Theater Players will be hard put to equal in days yet born. It is entertainment good for the soul.

U. S. Opens Inquiry Over Lost Skipper

Kin of Nomad's Captain Doubt He Was Washed Overboard at Sea.

Philadelphia, April 8 (A.P.).—The United States Government today reopened the investigation into the cause of death of Capt. John D. Schofield, lost skipper of the yacht Nomad. The new investigation, it was said, is made at the request of relatives of Schofield, who are dissatisfied with the story that the captain was washed overboard in a storm at sea and drowned. The Department of Justice is conducting the investigation.

The Nomad is owned by Leland H. Ross, New York sportsman. He and his crew were towed here last week by a Coast Guard boat after the little craft had drifted about helplessly for eleven days.

Coast Guardsmen reported they found several bottles of liquor on board the Nomad, but Ross was cleared of charges of smuggling at a hearing before United States Commissioner Patterson.

Ross' attorney contended that a physician's prescription, which his client had, entitled him to nine quarts of spirituous liquor or their equivalent.

3 Are Sent to Atlanta In Copper Stock Fraud

New York, April 8 (A.P.).—John T. Locke and Herbert C. Locke, brothers, were sentenced today to three years each in Atlanta Penitentiary and George F. Shurtleff was sentenced to four years for using the mails to defraud in the sale of Canario Copper stock.

Sentence was suspended upon Harry C. Carragher, confidential assistant to the Lockes, and upon John C. Anderson, mining engineer. Anderson was convicted for conspiracy to defraud, while the others were found guilty of conspiracy to defraud and using the mails to defraud.

Lindbergh to Fly To Herrick Burial

Plans to Quit Mexico This Morning; Will Go First to New York.

Mexico City, April 8 (A.P.).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh will leave here at 6 a. m. tomorrow for the United States. Although he will go first to New York, he plans to attend in Cleveland the funeral of Ambassador Myron T. Herrick, who had been his friend and fatherly adviser since he landed in Paris two years ago after his transatlantic flight.

The aviator went to Valbuena Air Field alone this morning, after his return from a week-end with Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow and his family at Cuernavaca. The colonel did stunt flying in a government plane, held "unmanageable," for 20 minutes, and tuned up his private plane, in which he will fly tomorrow. He did not take his plane out of the hangar.

The present visit of Lindbergh to his fiancee, Miss Anne S. Morrow, will have lasted a week tomorrow. It was expected that he would return here for at least one more short visit before their marriage in June.

UNION CHIEFS PRESS KIDNAPING CHARGES

Engage Counsel in Tennessee; Mill Strikes Spreading in North Carolina.

EFFICIENCY SYSTEM HIT

Elizabethton, Tenn., April 8 (A.P.).—Labor leaders today retained a firm of Nashville lawyers to advise in the prosecution of men under arrest in connection with the reported kidnaping of two American Federation of Labor representatives following the settling of a strike of workers in a rayon plant here.

Serving of warrants on men believed implicated in the kidnaping was delayed today pending further conferences with law enforcement officers and attorneys. Six men are under arrest and the names of sixteen or twenty others have been given to labor leaders as suspects.

Two More Mills Affected.

Charlotte, N. C., April 8 (A.P.).—Walk-outs of employes of two more cotton mills and announcement by a third that the so-called efficiency system had been abolished on vote of the employes were the developments today in the textile strike situation in the Carolinas.

The two new strikes—one at Pineville, N. C., and the other at Lexington—were orderly, and there were no disturbances at any of the other mills where strikes have been on for a week or more.

The American Spinning Co., Greenville, owned by Catlin & Co., a New England concern, announced today that the efficiency system had been abandoned there. It was announced that the 900 employes of the plant had voted to return to the old method of operation and the old wage scale. D. Little, of Spartanburg, is general manager for the mill.

Called by Textile Union.

The walkout at Pineville was the second to be called by the National Textile Union, which one week ago called a strike of employes of the Loray mill of the Nanville-Jenckes Co. at Gastonia. The Pineville walkout was at Watt No. 5, of the Chadwick Hoskins chain. About 100 operatives were reported involved. The mill management claimed that most of the operatives had returned to the mill before noon.

The strike of from 60 to 100 operatives at the Wennemah cotton mill at Lexington was due to a wage cut. The company had scheduled a wage reduction for today and leaders of the operatives said 100 had remained away from work. Executives of the mill placed the number at 60.

Negotiations looking to possible ending of the strikes at Greenville, Anderson, Spartanburg and Union, in South Carolina, where employes are protesting introduction of an efficiency system, were continued with United States Labor Department conciliators taking the lead.

Walkout Threats Fail.

Statements credited to Fred Erwin Beal, organizer for the National Textile Union, and leaders in the Loray and Pineville mill strikes that operatives at the High Shoals plant of the Manville-Jenckes Co. and some Charlotte mills would walk out today, failed to materialize.

A new development in the situation was a statement by T. A. Wilson, of Winston-Salem, president of the State Federation of Labor, that the executive committee of the federation would study the strike situation at Gastonia at a called meeting in Greensboro Sunday.

In a statement published in Winston-Salem, Mr. Wilson is credited with having intimated that an officer of the United Textile Workers Union might attend the Greensboro meeting.

Byrd Skipper to Testify In Divorce Via Wireless

Philadelphia, April 8 (A.P.).—Testimony in a divorce suit filed here by a member of the Byrd South Pole expedition will be taken by wireless from New Zealand, a distance of more than 10,000 miles, it was learned today.

The plaintiff is Gustav L. Brown, master of Commander Byrd's supply ship, Eleanor Bolling, whose home is in this city. His wife is Mrs. Vesta Jenny Brown. Suit was filed last June and subsequently Capt. Brown sailed with the Byrd expedition.

Harry T. Bauerle, appointed master to take testimony and report his findings to the court, was unable to proceed without Brown's testimony. He consulted Judge Finletter today and asked permission to question Brown via wireless, since that was the only way to reach him.

Hair Tonic Drunk By Mrs. Pinchot

Governor's Wife Treated as Mistake Causes Poison Fear.

Savannah, Ga., April 8 (A.P.).—Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, wife of the former governor of Pennsylvania, was treated at a private hospital here today for possible poisoning resulting from taking a dose of hair tonic by mistake for medicine, and continued on her way to Key West to join her husband on a scientific cruise through the South Seas.

Mrs. Pinchot said she took the dose aboard the train and discovered her mistake almost immediately. She wired the makers of the hair tonic in New York for information on whether it contained any poisonous matter. The answering tlegram said it contained a small quantity, but probably not enough to have ill effects.

She alighted from the train here as a precaution and went to a hospital operated by Dr. T. P. Waring, a college classmate of her husband's. Dr. Waring examined her and found no complications.

Mrs. Pinchot was delayed only about six hours on her southward trip.

Young Rum Raider Cleared in Slaying

Coroner's Jury Decides 19-Year-Old Youth Shot in Self-Defense.

Lexington, Mo., April 8 (A.P.).—A coroner's jury at Dover, Md., today exonerated a constable and his 19-year-old assistant of criminal liability in the slaying Saturday night of Fred Hearrington, 40, alleged bootlegger, in a liquor raid there.

Finding that Hearrington came to his death from a gunshot wound inflicted by Eugene Seitz, 19, the jury's verdict declared Seitz was justified in defending his person and that of Clarence Potts, 35, a constable. Ike Shelton, Lafayette County prosecutor, said tonight that no further steps would be taken unless developments warranted. Shelton asserted he had made a thorough investigation and was convinced Seitz and Potts acted in the line of duty.

Testimony at the inquest was to the effect that Seitz shot Hearrington after the alleged bootlegger had fired at both raiders.

"When fingers "Play" the keys instead of Punching them

What a difference it makes! That maddening office din has suddenly vanished. Work flows faster, easier. And along comes closing-time . . . and you're through on time . . . and fresh!

There is only one typewriter your fingers can "play" as they play a piano . . . the Remington Noiseless. You don't have to "punch" its keys because it is built on a new principle, with a touch that is caressingly gentle.

That principle makes the Remington Noiseless not only noiseless but easier and faster to operate. Standard 4-row keyboard . . . and does anything any hammer-blow machine will do . . . only faster and better.

Renew Your HEALTH
By Purification

If the reading of this article teaches you only this one lesson about your own body it may be worth more than millions of dollars to you; for of what use is money without health, or after you are dead?

The lesson is this:—"Keep your system pure and you will have health and strength to gain and enjoy happiness, success and length of years."

But you may ask:—

How Can I Keep My System Pure?

That is not a hard question to answer, for physiology plainly teaches you that your liver, which is larger than all of the other glands of the body combined, has the special work of purifying your blood and thereby your entire system and of keeping it pure and healthy.

How Does the Liver Purify?

Physicians tell us that the liver has several functions, one of which is to manufacture a greenish-yellow, bitter fluid called bile, which, between meals, is stored up in the gall-bladder, but after each meal is poured out into the intestines. The bile is purgative and antiseptic or prophylactic. In health it is your bile that makes your bowels act regularly and freely every day—it is Nature's purgative. It is your bile that keeps your bowels pure, clean and free from fermentation (gas) putrefaction and decay. Remember that germs do not thrive where there is fresh bile and there can therefore be no fermentation to cause gas, nor putrefaction to produce poisons or toxines. Also, as bile is Nature's purgative, there can be no constipation if the bile is flowing naturally and freely from the gall-bladder into the bowels after each meal.

But when the bile becomes stagnant your bowels stop acting regularly and the contents become a breeding bed for the germs of fermentation (gas) decay and disease. These poisons, (called toxines) are gradually absorbed into your blood and circulate all over your body, poisoning, irritating or inflaming your brain and nerves, your muscles and joints, your heart, lungs, skin, kidneys, and every vital organ of your body. Your doctor calls this "intestinal toxaemia," and tells you that your system is "toxic."

Functions of Gall-Bladder

In 24 hours your liver secretes about 25 to 30 ounces (5 to 6 teacupfuls) of bile, which flows through millions of minute canals, or ducts, uniting to make a large tube which empties into the gall-bladder, as creeks and rivulets unite to form a river that flows into a lake. Your gall-bladder is a hollow muscle that serves the double purpose of a reservoir and a pump. Its functions are similar to those of the urinary bladder. About three hours after eating, when the food is passing from the stomach into the intestine, your gall-bladder should begin its peristaltic contractions, thus pumping the bile into the small intestine where it is mixed with your food. (Bile is also a very important digestive fluid, aiding in the digestion and absorption of fats and oils. But that is too long a story to relate here.)

Nature's Danger Signals

When your car gets out of order you can tell it. It is the same way with your bile. Nature gives you warning—not by words, but by signals or symptoms. Your doctor recognizes these danger signals and you should also know them and instantly heed them. It may save you much pain, serious illness and perhaps big repair bills.

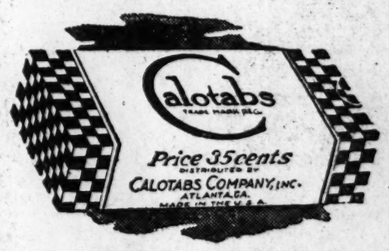
When the bile becomes stagnant in your gall-bladder and is dammed back into your liver instead of flowing freely into your bowels you, sooner or later, begin to feel some of the following symptoms:—Your breath may become unpleasant, your tongue coated, a bad taste in your mouth, your food (and tobacco) lose their natural flavor, your food does not agree with you; you may have heartburn, gas, or fluttering around the heart, dizziness or blind spell; you may be troubled with belching or frequent passages of gas from the bowels: the gas "balloons" your bowels and presses so hard on the kidneys that it gives you pain, soreness, stiffness in the small of your back over your kidneys, making you think you have kidney trouble; at night the gas in your bowels presses upon your bladder making you get up frequently, thus breaking into your sleep. In the morning you are tired instead of refreshed. Gradually your health is injured. Your complexion becomes sallow, muddy or yellow—your skin may be disfigured with liver spots or pimples; dark rings may appear under your eyes, you may become sleepless, restless and irritable or blue and melancholic. You may have frequent colds or dull headache; your bowels stop their free, full and natural action; you have constipation, gas, putrefaction and self-poisoning or "intestinal toxaemia," as the doctors call it. High blood pressure, with headache and swooning spells, may result from continued neglect.

How to Make the Bile Flow

But when the bile stops flowing freely, how can we start it up again? The answer is: Take Calotabs at bedtime and drink water freely the next day. This formula represents the best thought and experience of the best physicians. No other purgative will do. If you take oils, salts, cascara, or the many other simple laxative syrups, powders and candy laxatives you are merely wasting valuable time. They only make you feel better for a day or two. They do not remove the cause, for they do not promote the expulsion of the bile which is Nature's purgative and intestinal antiseptic. When you take Calotabs you know that you have taken a real doctor's medicine. It cleans you out thoroughly. Every inch of your 25-foot canal, including your stomach, small intestine and large intestine, is thoroughly cleared and washed clean and pure and your bile is flowing freely. Next morning your system feels purified and refreshed and you are feeling fine, with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you please and go about your work—there is no danger, for Calotabs are perfectly safe and create no habit, except the habit of healthy bowel actions.

What Are Calotabs—How Do They Act?

Calotabs are sugar coated tablets, containing the minimum effective dose of a thoroughly purified and refined calomel combined with assistants and correctives. The calomel facilitates the expulsion of the bile from the gall-bladder into the intestines and also serves as a mild intestinal antiseptic. Every physician knows that no other medicine can take its place; there is no such thing as a substitute for calomel. The assistants act like salts, washing the calomel out of the system and preventing its accumulation and any possibility of danger. The correctives settle the stomach and bowels, preventing nausea, sickening and griping effects. Calotabs (and water), therefore, give you the combined effects of calomel and salts in a perfectly safe and delightful form.



The medicine chest of every home should be supplied with Calotabs, one of the most important of all family medicines. It is needed in many cases of sickness, and, if used occasionally as needed, may assist Nature to correct conditions which, if neglected, may lead to serious illness.

Avoid disappointment by refusing imitations. Your druggist can supply you with genuine Calotabs or will order them for you. For your protection, Calotabs are marketed in original packages only, bearing the copyrighted trademark. Family package, containing full directions, only 35 cents.

6 LEGISLATORS HURT IN INDIA BOMB BLAST

2 Explosions Throw Many Into Panic; 2 Reds Seized, Confess.

RADICAL LEAFLET FOUND

Delhi, India, April 8 (A.P.).—Two bombs exploded in the Indian Legislative Assembly today, sharp on the heels of a parliamentary crisis, injured several persons and caused a panic among the assemblymen.

Among the injured was Sir George Schuster, finance member of the governor general's executive council. He and the others injured were taken to a hospital. Sir John Simon, head of the crown committee for constitutional reform in India, was standing with the president of the assembly when the explosion occurred, but was not hurt.

Others injured were: Sir D. Raghvendra, Mr. Shanker, Rao Dao, Mr. Dalal (seriously), I. N. Roy, deputy secretary of the Indian central committee, who was sitting in the officers' gallery.

Benches Torn to Bits.

Three government benches were torn to bits by the bombs.

Two men were arrested and were reported to have confessed after other bombs and pistols were found on their persons. They gave their names as Butukeswara Dutt, from Bengal, domiciled at Cawnpore, and Bagagat Singh, from Punjab.

Thrown into the crowded assembly room with the two bombs was a red pamphlet entitled "Hindustan Socialist Republican Army," and signed by "Balrajn, honorary chief." The effect of the bombs on the legislators was to drive them instantly into a panic. Police, who locked the doors to prevent the escape of the perpetrators, had difficulty in restraining the crowd containing both assemblymen and those in the galleries.

V. G. Patel, president of the assembly, had just risen to give a ruling when the first of the bombs was thrown. The ruling had to do with whether discussion should be allowed on the public safety bill. The president ruled it should not be considered until Saturday, when the trial of alleged communistic conspirators recently arrested at Meerut should be concluded. The government contested Patel's view and his power to bar discussion and several members suggested that the occasion required the viceroy's intervention.

The presence of Sir John Simon in the assembly room was given significance because he and his colleagues have just completed a semester of investigation of facts and opinion which British authorities regard as the most important undertaking of its kind. The commission was expected to embark April 13 from Bombay for England with certain tentative proposals which might pave the way for a kind of autonomy for India.

The pamphlet dropped into the legislative assembly at the same time as the two bombs was a lengthy document and apparently of anarchist, rather than communist inspiration.

"It takes a loud voice to make the deaf hear," it began. "With these immortal words uttered on a similar occasion by a valiant French anarchist martyr, do we strongly justify this act of ours."

Expected Crumbs of Reform.

The pamphlet pointed out that while the people were expecting some crumbs of reform from the Simon commission and quarreling over the distribution of them, "the government is thrusting upon us fresh repressive measures like those of the public safety and trades dispute bills."

Expressing sorrow at being forced to shed human blood but declaring the sacrifice of individuals necessary on the altar of the cause, the pamphlet concluded "long live the revolution."

HELEN WILLS TO MAKE CURTSEY BEFORE ROYALTY AT MAY COURT of every girl and is to be formally presented at court.

Mincing steps, an elaborate curtsey and an exit walking backward will replace the bold strides with which Miss Wills darted over the center court at Wimbledon when Queen Mary first watched her from the royal box. Long elbow length gloves will cover the brown arms of the national champion, and a fan or a bouquet of flowers must be carried, according to court ritual, instead of a tennis racket.

Miss Wills probably won't be as comfortable as she was on the courts several summers ago, but she will find compensation in the "thrill that comes once in a lifetime" to a young girl. She will be seen by every one who "counts," and she will see for herself the gorgeous ceremony of a court presentation, if she gets there early.

Most of the afternoon of May 9, Helen and "mother" will sit in a limousine, drawn up in a long, slow-moving line, along the Mall and Bird Cage walk leading to Buckingham Palace.

Other girls, with the freedom of the proletariat, will come up boldly and press their noses against the window glass of the car. For such is the preliminary ritual of a court presentation. The long line of cars huncnes forward slowly toward the palace gates. Each automobile is equipped with a chauffeur and footman.

Arriving at the palace, it will be a case of "first come, first served." After the diplomatic presentations, the favored girls who are permitted to curtsey their majesties (it is not certain that King George will be sufficiently recovered to take part this spring) go forward as their names are called, curtsey and back away, holding up their trains to avoid an undignified exit. After a quick sandwich and a glass of champagne—one to a person, by order of the queen—the first to be presented take up the choice seats in the throne room and view the ceremony as their sisters are presented.

It is all very elaborate and formal and breath-taking for a girl.

That Miss Wills was to be so honored this year first was made known through United Press dispatches from Amsterdam, where the United Press correspondent was tipped off by the local newspaper, Die Telegraaf.

Officials of the United States Lawn Tennis Association were quoted as canceling Miss Wills' engagements to play tennis in Holland on May 11 and 12, because of the engagement at the palace.

Those same officials in New York denied having advised the Dutch to that effect, but admitted that Miss Wills was to be presented at court on April 9 and that this would necessarily cancel her playing dates in Holland.

Apparently in the case of this interesting and important piece of news to the feminine world, nobody beat the Dutch.

Miss Wills will sail for England the latter part of this month.

Burned Steamer Europa Pumped Out and Floated

Hamburg, Germany, April 8 (A.P.).—The North German Lloyd liner Europa, which was burned and partially destroyed with a loss of $5,000,000 on March 26, before she had been completed, was afloat again today after having been pumped out.

Three decks will probably have to be taken out for two-thirds of the length of the ship in order to refit her. The Europa will be docked in the course of the next few days and the exact extent of the damage will then be ascertained.

Hospital Patient Dies in Shaft Fall

Nurse Unable to Keep Hold on Woman's Wheel Chair as Elevator Rises.

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, April 8 (A.P.).—Plunging five stories down an elevator shaft in the wheel chair in which she was being taken from the X-ray room to her own room in a hospital, Mrs. Jennie Seiger, 60 years old, a patient, was almost instantly killed today. The woman was being wheeled to her room by a student nurse, who had started to place the wheel chair on the elevator when the lift suddenly shot upward. The nurse threw her weight on the handles of the chair in an effort to halt its precipitation into the shaft, but was unable to hold it.

The patient was taken to the operating room of the hospital, but died without regaining consciousness.

Coroner J. S. H. Potter returned a verdict of accidental death. Hospital authorities started an immediate investigation of the accident.

Labor Secretary Ends Air Journey

Davis, Back After Hop, Would Own Plane if He Could Afford It.

Secretary of Labor James J. Davis would own an airplane if he could afford one, he said yesterday on his return from a week-end flight on Government business to Pittsburgh and back.

In reply to a report that he had bought a plane for his private use, he issued a smiling denial, but with an air more of regret than of positiveness.

"I'm sorry the report isn't true," he said. "I'm an aviation enthusiast, and I'd own a plane in a minute if I could afford it, but I can't. Mrs. Davis and all of my children are flying devotees. She and my son Jim went up with Lindbergh when he was carrying passengers at Bolling Field."

Secretary Davis was one of the first of the Cabinet officers to avail himself of Army Air Corps planes in pursuance of his official duties. He was piloted on his week-end trip by Lieut. Louis H. Merrick, operations officer at Bolling Field.

An Open Letter to the Women of The District of Columbia . . . Nearby Virginia and Maryland

The N. Auth Provision Company is a Washington institution, owned and operated by native Washingtonians and loyal Americans.

Over a period of more than half a century, executives of the company (past and present) have pridefully watched the development of our "city of magnificent distances" assisting in every possible way toward the upbuilding and beautifying of the Capital which we all love so well.

The company's present plant facing 6th, 7th, Virginia avenue and D streets S.W., is one of the largest and most modern packing houses in America, and in addition to rigid institutional requirements, is under constant supervision of the United States Government.

Indeed, Auth's exceptionally high plant standards have frequently been commended by officials, physicians and sanitary experts—one of whom, after a recent exhaustive inspection, pointed out in a letter that "the residents of this community had yet to find the first cause of complaint."

Washington is today, one of the most rapidly growing cities in the world and an industry of such importance to Washington homes as Auths must naturally expand with it. As a means of adequately serving this increasing population, plans for a new packing house and abattoir have long been considered by this company.

Such a plant would, of course, give employment to many people, and invitations from responsible business interests in nearby communities were received, pointing out the advantages of their respective localities for such an industry.

Due to strategic location, Arlington County, Virginia, was favorably considered for this new plant.

But notwithstanding the infinite care and consideration given our project and its approval by the officials consulted, there have been many earnest men and women interested in "Beautiful Washington" who did not think our plan a wise one.

These well grounded objections have, accordingly, received the careful consideration they deserve. And at a recent meeting of the board of directors a resolution was unanimously adopted, definitely abandoning the entire plan. Interesting excerpts from this resolution are published herewith:

RESOLVED, that in deference to the request of the residents of Arlington County, Virginia, Civic Associations and other citizens of the District of Columbia, the National Park Planning Commission, the Fine Arts Commission, and other public officials, this company has concluded to withdraw its application to the Board of Supervisors of Arlington County, Virginia, for a permit for the erection of an abattoir upon its property located in Arlington County, Virginia.

AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the attorneys having in charge the presentation of such application to the Board of Supervisors, with the request that they withdraw such application.

"You will, therefore, be kind enough to advise the Supervisors of Arlington County, Virginia, that the application of this company for the permit is withdrawn."

The officials of N. Auth Provision Company also take this means of publicly expressing their thanks to the many gracious women, officials and heads of civic organizations who have so generously cooperated in making this decision.

Harbord Hits Commission Government

Encroach on States Rights, Private and Business Life, He Says, Citing the Last, the Radio Board. Police Power Invaded.

The Federal Government is encroaching upon the rights of individual States, private life and business to an extent "not only not contemplated but actually forbidden by the Constitution," Gen. James G. Harbord, president of the Radio Corporation of America, told members of the Chamber of Commerce of Springfield, Mass., at their annual dinner last night.

More than 30 so-called "commissions" and other extra-constitutional bodies costing in excess of $550,000,000 annually, and supporting a small army of job holders, bureaucrats and minor politicians are the chief agencies of "official meddling," Gen. Harbord said.

"These commissions, either by default of proper supervision run wild with uncontroled power, or they become the tool of an irresponsible and somewhat unscrupulous fraction of our national legislature. Three dozen Federal commissions finding duties of executive, legislative and judicial character outside the broad fields of those properly charged under the Constitution with those functions, leisurely but expensively seek activity which will justify their existence and secure extension and prolongation of power and life.

"No greater opportunity for official mischief through idle brains or pernicious activity has existed since Lucifer left Heaven."

In connection with the increase of Federal commissions and their growing power, Gen. Harbord called attention to another tendency in Government—the surrender of State prerogatives for Federal aid.

"As the States have developed unequally, due to difference of climate and natural resources, and sometimes to the character of their population, some have become rich and others have remained poor. Meantime the nation has grown wealthy. States have sought Federal aid and have surrendered prerogatives for appropriations. Rivers and harbors, the extension of the Departments of Commerce, Agriculture, great reclamation projects, have been the pottage for which many States have sold their birthright."

The regulation of interstate commerce, Gen. Harbord said, was the vehicle which brought the Federal Government into our lives to an extent not only not contemplated, but actually forbidden by the Constitution.

"It is invading almost every phase of the police power reserved to the several States. Our daily conduct from the cradle to the grave, including what we eat and drink, what we buy and sell, what we read, what we may see at the theaters, how our wives shall divorce us, and what we shall hunt and fish, whether we shall see prize fights and go into physical training; how our mothers shall be advised in case we are not wanted in the world, or how our arrival shall be expedited if we are desired, are still matters which now receive statutory treatment by Congress."

"The favorite instrument for such official meddling is the commission. The Interstate Commerce Commission, in its power over railway affairs is today almost absolute in its unrestricted inquisition. No railroad may issue stock or bonds, merge with another railroad, or acquire other facilities . . . or take any other important step without first obtaining the authority of the Interstate Commerce Commission. It dips as far into petty detail as deciding whether an automobile tourist may take a meal in a railroad eating house.

"It has grown like Frankenstein. . . . Its bureaucratic and self-perpetuating tendencies are represented by thirteen different bureaus, and for their support for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1930, the commission has asked and Congress has appropriated the sum of $7,548,825. Its powers, for long almost unrestrained but recently received a check worse, perhaps, in the remedy than the exercise of the powers themselves. The Senate refused to confirm an apparently able and conscientious commissioner when his name came up for reappointment because his actions as a public official were not in accord with the views of certain senators.

"Following the creation of the Interstate Commerce Commission, Congress, seldom unwilling to increase the office-holding class, established others. . . . By 1923 there were 33 of these unnatural children born outside of the terms of the original marriage contract sealed by the Constitution between the States and the Federal Government, and their cost amounted to $550,000,000 per year.

"In 1927 a notable thirty-fourth was born, the Federal Radio Commission, doomed by the officiating obstetrician to a life limit of one year, unless extended by the act of the surgeon himself, the United States Congress. It deals with a subject interesting to every member of the Congress because of its demonstrated political potentialities, a subject difficult, highly technical and constantly in the public eye. Its every action has had to be taken with an eye over its shoulder at a body which, within one year was to decide on the further extension of its life. Senators and representatives have thought it not unworthy of their high place to try to influence its action in favor of special interests."

Charleston Council Selects Airport Site

Special to The Washington Post.

Charleston W. Va., April 8.—The city council has selected an airport site and has directed the city solicitor to open negotiations for its purchase. If prices asked are too high, condemnation proceedings are to be instituted under authority of a recent act of the Legislature giving municipalities the right of eminent domain over land within their borders and adjacent thereto for use as airports.

The site selected is a tract of land on the Midland trail near St. Albans known as the West Virginia Rubber Co tract.

Joan Lowell To Tell Story Over WRC

Girl Sea Rover in Wide Hook-up at 9 P. M. Accordionist Will Celebrate Anniversary at 8:30—Navy Band, 8:15.

Joan Lowell, descendant on one side of Boston blue stockings, and on the other of bewhiskered Levantine sea rovers, became nationally known over night through the publication recently of her adventures, most happily called "The Cradle of the Deep.' A total of 30 stations, including WRC, will be hooked in with WEAF at 9 o'clock tonight to broadcast Joan Lowell's story of herself during the Eveready Hour.

Joan Lowell's father carried her aboard his schooner, a copra trader in the South Pacific, when she was only 11 months old. For seventeen years the only ground under her feet was about 60 fathoms of water. Giant icebergs, water spouts, dances on lovely South Sea stolls and man-eating sharks that followed the ship like wraiths—all these Joan Lowell learned about and wove into her fantastic saga of the sea. Her broadcast is expected to be a radio event.

Sophie Tucker, Ted Lewis and his band and Nick Lucas are expected to headline the Radio-Keith-Orpheum Hour from WRC at 11 o'clock. These entertainers were scheduled to be heard last Tuesday night from the Pacific Coast in the first section of the all-star presentation, but because of wire trouble due to a storm were unable to keep the engagement. In addition, the program tonight will probably present Gilda Gray, Waring's Pennsylvanians, the Happiness Boys—Billy Jones and Ernie Hare—and Kate Smith.

"The Party System and Legislative Bodies" will be discussed in the Voters' Service at 7 o'clock by Prof. Lindsay Rogers, of Columbia University, and S. K. Ratcliffe, special correspondent of the Manchester Guardian.

Pietro, accordionist, in celebration of the anniversary of his coming to America 22 years ago as an Italian immigrant lad, will play a pioneer ragtime tune, which helped him on his way to fame, at 8:30 o'clock tonight. As guest soloist of the Prophylactic program he will be heard also in his own particular version of "St. Louis Blues," with medley amplifications.

"Wipin' the Pan," a fox-trot by Nat Shilkret, will be heard in the weekly broadcast of dance tunes by the Eskimos at 10 o'clock, which also includes "It Ain't No Fault of Mine," "Broadway Melody" and "I'm Wild About Horns on Automobiles."

The new and old in the field of popular music will rub elbows when Paul Whiteman lifts his baton to start the next Old Gold Hour from WMAL at 9 o'clock. The complete program follows:

1. Rhapsody in Blue, signature. "Song of the Volga Boatman." "High Up on a Hilltop." 2. "Pretty, Petite and Sweet," "Angela Mia." "Indian Love Call" and "Roses of Yesterday." 3. "Let's Do It—Paris" and "I Heard You Singing." 4. Waltz medley. "Gypsy Love Song." "Valse Bluette." "Mighty Lak' a Rose" and "Roses of Picardy." 5. "Rough and Ready" and "Good Little Bad Little You." 6. "I Must Have That Man" and "Hay Straw." 7. Medley. "Tea for Two." "Allah's Holiday," "I'm Always Chasing Rainbows," "Dardanella." 8. "Breezin' Along," "Some of These Days" and "Valencia."

Helen Jepson, young soprano and artist pupil of the Curtis Institute of Music, will be featured at 10 o'clock in the program heard each Tuesday at the same hour. Herman Gatter, tenor and pupil of Emilio Di Gogorza, who was scheduled to appear last week, but had to withdraw due to illness, will be heard this week with Miss Jepson. The instrumental portions of the program will be contributed by the Swastika and Casimer Quartets.

A concert by the U. S. Navy Band will be broadcast from WMAL at 8:15 o'clock. Guy Lombardo and his Royal Canadians are listed for 11 o'clock.

The advent of the United States into the World War twelve years ago will be celebrated by the Silver String Revelers from WJSV at 10:30 o'clock. All of the four members of this organization went over with the Second Division and were in many of the major battles participated in by the American forces in France. During the war these boys entertained their comrades with songs and music.

The program has been arranged to picture the adventures of the doughboys from the time of sailing for France until their return and the entire program is dedicated to the boys in Walter Reed Hospital and other Government hospitals throughout the country. The program follows:

"Goodby Broadway, Hello France," "Over There," "Pack All Your Troubles in the Old Kit Bag," "Smiles," "Beautiful Katy," "Long, Long Trail," "Hinky, Dinky, Parlez Vous," "Till We Meet Again," "Rose of No Man's Land" and "Memories of France."

Members of the Silver String Revelers are Harvey Ewers, Romeo Devers, William Cheney and Joe Mundell.

Colonial Dance Music is the feature offered by WOL at 10 o'clock. Several short periods make up the early evening entertainment, including Andy Claus, a talk, and "Amos 'n' Andy."

Dare INTERPRETS the MODE

A gorgeous negligee developed in chiffon, in shades of, top to bottom, yellow, light green, purple, dark mauve, mauve and pink. The sleeves are yellow and green, and the silhouette of the garment is as simple as such an extraordinary color combination suggests. (Courtesy Marynowitsky, Paris.)

THESE days, when the weather is likely to turn unexpectedly cool during the afternoon, we know of nothing smarter and more practical for an indoor and outdoor afternoon costume than one composed of a plain dark skirt and a blouse of wool lame (lah-may).

Our Paris office says that quite a number of these have been seen recently worn by smart women, and that the effect of elegance is ont of all proportion to the cost involved. And it is strictly in the spirit of the mode, for many of the leading couturiers are using various lames in just this way.

• • • •

Sometimes the blouse is complete in itself. Sometimes it is to be worn with a light-colored filet. And in still other cases it takes the form of a jacquette to be worn over a plain dress.

But whatever form it takes, it adds a lovely touch to the wardrobe!

When these wool lames were first made, some years ago, they were not at all satisfactory—but don't let that prejudice you against their use now, for the makers have successfully eliminated all defects.

"Ye Art Shoppes" thrive on Milady's lack of imagination and cleverness with her fingers. For had she them, she would make all the pretty things that cost so much in these shops!

We just finished making some lovely, truly artistic, too, book covers and boxes. And it was such FUN, and so easy to do—WHEN you know how—that we straightaway made you an illustrated leaflet telling you how to do it!

Better send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet telling you how—it will keep the children amused for many a long vacation day if you don't want to putter around with paints 'an' things yourself.

• • • •

Honestly, it's a shame that we can't illustrate the Marynowitsky garments in color! In black and white they are only interesting—in colors, as they are, they are gorgeous. No other couturier in the world dares as much with colors as she does, and as successfully.

The negligee I have illustrated for you today is so simple—just incrustations of colored chiffons, but what colors! From top to hem, they go like this: Yellow, green, very light—then purple, dark mauve, mauve and pink. The sleeves go from the light yellow at the shoulders into one darker yellow, and then into green. Now, can you make it?

For Tennis Devotees.

Pique silk is the newest wrinkle for tennis frocks—or nonwrinkle, rather. It is especially nice for warmer climates and does NOT wrinkle like its cotton sister. Tennis frocks are, of course, sleeveless and show the accented monogram. However, accessories are smartest in color, and a jacket of the color, with sleeves, makes a chic enough sports outfit of one's practical tennis frock to take one to and fro from the courts.

By the way, can one go "fro from?" Ho hum! The Caribbean Sea makes one get that way! (Not to mention THE Japanese exercises.)

Visits in South America.

VI. ECUADOR

ITALY has been compared in shape to a boot, with the island of Sicily as a football being kicked. South America has a country which may be compared to a piece of pie.

School Girls of Ecuador.

As you may guess, I am speaking of Ecuador. The broad side of the "slice" lies along the Pacific coast, while the point passes through the Andes Mountains.

Ecuador is not quite so large as California. It lies along the equator, and in fact "ecuador" is the Spanish way of writing "equator."

You might expect a country lying on both sides of the equator to be hot, and much of Ecuador is certainly hot enough. Yet there are some parts which are very cold. I am thinking of the high peaks of the Andes. In certain places on those mountains there are snowfields. Think of going down to the equator and being able to make snowballs! It is the height which does it—the higher the mountains, the thinner and colder the air.

The capital city of Ecuador is Quito. It is named after a tribe of Indians, and those Indians used to worship the sun on a lofty hill which lies nearby.

Of the 80.00 persons living in Quito, more than half are Indians. There are likewise many halfbreeds. The people of purely Spanish decent number scarcely one in seven.

Many of the houses are formed from adobe—sun dried mud—with plaster on the fronts. Nearly all the roofs are made from red tiles.

On the streets of Quito you may see people wearing clothes of many colors—red, blue, green, purple, yellow. The women wear shawls, while the men wear "ponchos." Gray hats made from felt are worn by men, women and children.

Bull-fighting is one of the pastimes of the people of Quito. Boys sometimes take part in a sport where a young bull is let loose in a ring. The boys try to put paper "stickers" on the bull's head

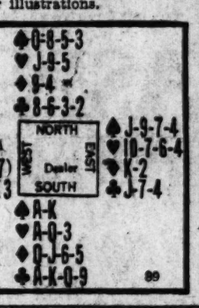
WORK ON BRIDGE

Mr. Work has prepared a booklet giving detailed information concerning the correct way to play Progressive Auction Bridge. This booklet will be sent to all readers without charge. Mr. Work will also answer without charge any Bridge questions. Requests must be accompanied by an addressed, stamped, return envelope, and addressed to Mr. Milton C. Work care of this newspaper.

CONTINUING our series of "Misplayed Hands I Have Met" I am giving today one in which the correct play is harder to find than in most of our illustrations.



South was the Declarer, contract No Trump. West led the Seven of Diamonds, East played the King. South played small. East returned his partner's Diamond; South played the Queen so as to force West to play his Ace instead of his Ten. West won with the Ace and then led his Ten of Diamonds and South took the trick with the Jack.

South then led and won four rounds of Clubs, giving him a total of five tricks; next he cashed his Ace and King of Spades, giving him a total of seven. His Ace of Hearts was his eighth trick, and he then led the Queen of Hearts, hoping that East held the King and would win the trick. If that happened, East would have to lead a Spade or a Heart and enable Dummy to take two more tricks. If South won the eleventh trick, Declarer, of course, would have nine tricks and his game.

As it happened, West had the King, won the trick and saved game by cashing his two long Diamonds for a total of five tricks for East and West.

How could Declarer have made his game?

THE CORRECT PLAY.

Lay out the cards and see what would happen if Declarer led his small Diamond at trick 10 instead of his Ace of Hearts. Of course, West would win and would cash a thirteenth Diamond; but this would make a total of only four tricks for East and West and it would not matter whether West led a Heart or a Spade to trick 12; Declarer would take the remaining tricks and go game.

What Today Means to You

APRIL 9
By MARY BLAKE.

"ARIES."

IF April 9th is your birthday, the best hours for you today are from 10.30 a. m. to noon, and from 3 p. m. to 6 p. m. The danger periods are from 1 p. m. to 2:15 p. m., and from 7:30 p. m. to 9:15 p. m.

Something of a very unexpected nature is liable to happen to you today although it is hard to say from the signs, whether it will be to your advantage or otherwise. Great progress will be made by you in the work on hand.

Children born today will have alert, up and coming natures and proper channels should be created through which their mental and physical energies may be worked off. They will dislike pampering and will enjoy being thrown upon their own resources.

You have a very great deal of curiosity, not the morbid, prying kind, but a natural desire to know and to see. You cannot take a superficial interest in things and your mind is very probing. You have an extremely clever eye for details and a memory that does not play tricks.

You have a correct eye for color and a true sense of distance and location. You see more things of interest in a block than most people see in a mile. Your trips are truly sightseeing. No place is drab or without interest to you. These qualifications should be guide posts to you in selection of your work, as they are all essential in many lines of endeavor.

As an informant you are both accurate and concise. You are not only able to see things in their entirety, but you have good powers of discrimination. You have faith in your own ability and judgment and greatly resent interference from others, neither seeking or giving advice. Whilst taking a kindly interest in others' affairs, you are never a trouble maker and have the happy faculty of tending to your own business and letting others do the same.

You are too proud to complain about the things in life which you do not like; you take pride in meeting things as they are and overcoming them.

Successful people born April 9.

Samuel A. King, aeronaut.
Samuel W. Pennypacker, jurist.
Olin Levi Warner, sculptor.
Robert Garret, railroad official.

TODAY'S WOMEN

By EARL MINDERMAN.

APRIL 9.

CARMEL MYERS, one of the favorite stars of the silent drama, was born this day, 1901, in San Francisco, Calif. She rose to fame in the motion picture profession under the direction of David Wark Griffith. After her debut in moving pictures, Miss Myers appeared with success on the stage.

Maria Susanna Cummins, one of the outstanding novelists of the nineteenth century, was born this day, 1827. Her memorable novel, "The Lamplighter," in 1853, was highly successful and was translated into many foreign languages. The first few chapters take exceptionally high rank in literature for their idyllic charm and tenderness.

Guiditta Pasta, the famous Italian opera singer, was born this day, 1798. Bellini wrote his operas, "Sonambula" and "Norma" especially for her. Donizetti wrote his opera, "Anna Bollina," for her.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

THE PADRE.

The kindly padre in his gown
Goes daily walking up and down.
The little boys with whom he chats
With reverence remove their hats,
And also reverence to show
The little girl all curtsy low.
While grown-up folks like you and me
Wish more like his our lives could be.

"Aha," says he, with twinkling eye,
"I would not change you, though I try.
You should be good, and oft I pray
The Lord to take your sins away.
But Oh I love you, good and bad,
I love the mischief in the lad;
I love the merry hearts of you
In spite of all the wrong you do

"Oh, were it not that I am bound
To sing the mass in vestments gowned,
And held by solemn orders here
To walk the narrow paths severe,
The boy in me on many a day
Would break the laws he should obey.
But I am what I am, you see,
Because it is my job to be

"'Tis very cold, this life I lead,
And heavy are the books I read,
And many, many are the woes
Which people unto me disclose.
But still I think that most of them
The Lord above will not condemn
And I believe He'll love them, too,
In spite of all the bad they do."

DE KING ATTORNEYS TO AID PROSECUTOR

Court Empowers Them to Help Present Evidence in Fatal Rum Raid Inquiry.

ALLEGED SPY RELEASED

Geneva, Ill., April 8 (U.P.).—Climaxing a two-weeks' fight to assure a "fair investigation," attorneys representing the family of Mrs. Lillian De King, who was slain in a liquor raid on her home, were assigned today to aid the State in presenting evidence before the Kane County grand jury.

Circuit Judge John K. Newhall made the appointments after State's Attorney George D. Carbary had expressed his willingness to have the assistance of Robert A. Milroy and Albert J. Kelley, Aurora attorneys, who have represented Joseph De King since the raid was conducted at the Aurora home.

The De King attorneys had announced previously they would present a petition to Judge Newhall today asking the removal of the county prosecutor, contending Carbary admittedly was prejudiced and had disqualified himself to conduct the case.

Alleged Spy Is Bailed.

Evidence against Deputy Sheriff Roy Smith, who shot Mrs. De King, will be presented to the grand jury which convenes April 23.

The deputy, wounded by a shot fired by Gerald De King, 12, when the boy saw his mother fall to the floor, was held to the action of the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter in the verdict of a coroner's jury here last Tuesday.

Judge Newhall said the State's attorney would be in charge of the grand jury evidence but that the De King attorneys would cooperate with the State "to clear the case up."

Eugene Boyd Fairchild, who testified at the inquest that he signed the false affidavit on which the warrant for the De King raid was issued, was released on $1,500 bond at Aurora today by Police Magistrate Charles P. Dickerson on a perjury charge. The dry informer's hearing was continued to April 18 because of the illness of attaches of the State's attorney's office.

Called De King Victory.

Although the appointment of the De King attorneys as assistant to the prosecutor was made with Carbary's consent, the action was regarded as a victory for those who have criticized the manner in which the investigation has been conducted.

The State's attorney had been charged openly with "covering up" evidence in the case to protect officials under his charge who ordered the raid on the De King home. Carbary offered to withdraw and asked Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom to assume charge of the investigation.

The attorney general sent an assistant from his office as an observer at the inquest last week, and upon his report, Carlstrom declined to take charge, saying he believed the investigation was being conducted fairly.

PNEUMONIA IS FATAL TO MRS. ELVERSON

Publisher's Widow, of Philadelphia, Stricken After Yacht Cruise.

HE DIED ON JANUARY 21

Philadelphia, April 8.—Eleanore Mayo Elverson, widow of Col. James Elverson, jr., publisher of the Philadelphia Inquirer, died today in her apartments in the tower of the Elverson Building. She was 57 years old.

Although her death was caused by pneumonia, complicated by a serious heart condition, sorrow over the death of her husband on January 21 had so weakened her that she could not resist the onslaught of her grave illness.

In accordance with her husband's wish, following his death she took the yacht cruise on the Allegro which they had planned together and which they had intended starting less than a week after the day on which the publisher was fatally stricken.

The cruise was through the Caribbean waters. Following its conclusion Mrs. Elverson remained a few days in Miami and arrived at her home here on March 24, suffering from a slight bronchial cold. Her physicians, Dr. Alfred Stengel and Dr. Herbert B. Carpenter, ordered her to bed immediately, but her condition became more critical, and on March 30 she developed pneumonia.

Eleanore Mayo's first appearance on the stage was as a concert vocalist with the symphony orchestra directed by Walter Damrosch. Her greatest starring vehicle, however, was "Princess Bonnie." In 1895 she met James Elverson, jr., who only a few years before had become an advertising solicitor on his father's paper, the Philadelphia Inquirer. They were married in 1896.

Former Treasurer Of U. S. Dies at 93

James Gilfillan Entered Federal Service in 1861 as Clerk.

Colchester, Conn., April 8 (A.P.).—James Gilfillan, Treasurer of the United States under Presidents Hayes and Garfield, died at his home here today. He was 93 years old.

Born in Belchertown, Mass., Mr. Gilfillan was a schoolmate of President Garfield at Williams College. He first entered the Treasury Department in 1861, when Lincoln was President, and served as a clerk through the administration of President Johnson and part of that of President Grant, who appointed him cashier of the United States. He held this post under Treasurer John C. New, father of Harry S. New, Postmaster General under President Harding.

President Hayes appointed Mr. Gilfillan as Treasurer, and he served in this post from 1878 to 1883, resigning shortly after President Garfield had been assassinated. During this same period Treasurer Gilfillan was also sinking fund commissioner for the District of Columbia. For his work as Treasurer Mr. Gilfillan never was paid until Congress, in 1926, passing a bill of Senator McLean, of Connecticut, voted him $4,750.

RITES FOR G. O. CARPINTER.

Former Agent of Randall Steamboat Co. to Be Buried Tomorrow.

Funeral services for George O. Carpinter, 77 years old, formerly general agent of the E. S. Randall Steamship Lines, who died Sunday, will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the residence, 805 C street southwest. Burial will be in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Mr. Carpinter had been an invalid for several years. He was born in Charles County, Md., March 1, 1852. He came to Washington about 40 years ago and was appointed agent of the Randall Steamboat Co., operated by the late Capt. E. S. Randall. The company at one time operated a large number of steamers on the Potomac River. Mr. Carpinter continued as general agent until the retirement of Capt. Randall. He then was engaged in real estate business in Washington.

He is survived by a son, Paul Carpinter, of Tulsa, Okla., and a brother, M. S. Carpinter, of Washington.

ASHBAUGH RITES TODAY.

Chief Clerk in Adjutant General's Office Dies Here Sunday.

Funeral rites for Dr. Frederick M. Ashbaugh, chief clerk of the estimate and supply division of the adjutant general's office, War Department, who died Sunday at the War Department Convalescent Home, will be held this afternoon at 5:30 o'clock from Lee's Chapel, 332 Pennsylvania avenue. The body will be taken to Hamilton, Ontario, Canada, for burial.

Dr. Ashbaugh was born January 26, 1874. He was appointed to the adjutant general's office in 1901. He was a graduate of the Veterinary College here. He is survived by a brother, Edwin Ashbaugh, who lives at 14 Adams street.

RITES FOR MRS. STIRLING.

Widow of Naval Officer to Be Buried Tomorrow.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at Arlington National Cemetery for Mrs. Ellen Salisbury Stirling, widow of Rear Admiral Yates Stirling and mother of Rear Admiral Yates Stirling, jr., who died yesterday at her home, 11 East Chase street, Baltimore.

She is survived by three daughters and two sons, Miss Helen Stirling, Baltimore; Mrs. J. Lee Tailer, New York City; Mrs. J. Pembrooke Thom, Baltimore; Rear Admiral Yates Stirling, jr., U. S. N., and Commander Archibald G. Stirling, U. S. N.

Woman, Hit on Head By Brick, Blames Son

Mrs. Minnie O'Connor, 42 years old, of 1207 Thirty-fifth street northwest, was treated at Georgetown Hospital yesterday afternoon for an injury to her head.

Policeman W. T. G. Mills, of the Seventh Precinct, who investigated, reported that the woman stated she was struck on the head with a brick hurled by her son, Walter O'Connor, during a back-yard argument. Policeman Mills also quoted the woman as saying she would prosecute her son, but no charges had been preferred at an early hour this morning.

Unusual Lock Guards Laboratory Doorway

Schenectady, N. Y., April 8 (A.P.).—An original method of locking a door is used for the radiotron room of the General Electric laboratories.

Fastened on the outside of the door, about where a letter slot would stand normally, is a plain block of wood the size of a brick of ice cream. On the under side of the block are four push buttons. A combination of them unlocks the door and the combination is changed daily.

Coolidge Awarded Prison Aid Medal

New York, April 8 (A.P.).—Former President Calvin Coolidge received, by proxy, today a medal from the National Committee on Prisons and Prison Labor in recognition of his services in bringing about constructive legislation for prison administration.

The presentation was made by Edwin P. Grosvenor, treasurer, at the committee's annual meeting at the Colony Club. Representative Frank H. Foss, of Massachusetts, received it on behalf of Mr. Coolidge.

"Mr. Coolidge's interest in prison enforcement did not begin when he was called to Washington," Mr. Grosvenor said in making the presentation. "It was during his administration as governor of Massachusetts that the old prison system was reorganized into the department of correction, with a commissioner responsible for the management of the prisons. Through his messages to Congress and the many bills which he signed he has helped to make progress toward the time when the Federal prisons will be models for the Nation."

AVOID DIZZY SPELLS
Never well. Always tired and fagged out. Beauty tossed away by neglect. To be beautiful and to keep youth the system must be free from poisonous backwash of constipation which often causes dizzy spells. For 30 years Dr. F. M. Edwards gave his patients, in place of calomel, a compound of vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. Known by their olive color, they free the system of poisons that ravage health, energy, beauty.
You need never have sallow complexion, dull eyes, coated tongue, throbbing headaches—all signs that your bowels are clogged, liver is torpid. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly. They act smoothly and without griping. How much better you'll feel and look! Everywhere wise men and women who know the value of good health take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. THE RETURN OF OLD KING BRADY

Revived by MERLE W. HERSEY.

(Copyright protected. Reproduction in whole or in part prohibited.)

Alice Montgomery Is Kidnaped.

Alice and Harry post Old King Brady's ad down on the bulletin board on the Bowery. Alice disappears. She is placed on board Ah Sam's tug and taken to a lonely spot on the south Jersey coast. Ah Sam reveals the secret of the idol.

THE HUNT FOR A WOODEN IDOL.
CHAPTER III.

"LETS wait a few minutes and see if the notice attracts any attention," suggested Harry after they had carried out Old King Brady's instructions. Many Chinamen passed the corner and many stopped to read the notices. At last two came who walked slowly along Doyers street talking in low tones. Alice overheard them remarking that somebody ought to tell Ah Sam.

Alice and Harry decided to shadow them. They pushed through to the Bowery, where they saw the two Chinamen walking slowly along on the west side.

"So that's where they are bound," remarked Young King Brady.

"Suppose I stand here alone, and you watch out?" suggested Alice. "Other Chinks may go in and I may catch on to their talk."

"All right, but don't take any chances now."

As Harry turned to cross the Bowery, a big, red-faced fellow stepped out from behind one of the pillars of the elevated. He caught her by the arm. "Come along," he said; "you're pinched," and he started her running down the Bowery. "If you holler I'll shoot," he said fiercely. "If your partner across the Bowery tries to butt in, he gets de gun, too—see?"

She was hurried to the corner of Doyers street and thrust into one of the old hacks standing there. The man with the Secret Service shield dropped down beside her. "Now, den, sis," he said. "Be good and you'll be happy. I don't want no trouble—see?"

They reached their destination, which proved to be the foot of Rutgers slip. He threw open the door and climbed out offering Alice his hand. Moored to the pier lay a tug of unusual size. He helped her aboard and as he did so the cabin door opened and a Chinaman looked out.

"Ah, Miss Montgomery," he exclaimed, "glad to see you. Know me?"

Alice did. He had done detective work for the Bradys a year before under another name, and Ah Sam had seen Alice many a time in disguise. At one side of the cabin into which Alice passed was a stairway leading down to a lower cabin. "My wife is down there expecting you," said Ah Sam.

Alice descended the narrow stairs into the lower cabin. Mrs. Sam reclining in a pink kimono, looked up languidly and murmured: "Say, are you really a white woman? Sam said you were the slickest ever when it came to disguising like a Chinaman."

Just then the tug pulled out into the river, and while Mrs. Sam was raving about her father, Ah Sam came down the stairs, saying, "Now, ladies. It's getting late. Better turn in."

"I'm ready," said Alice. "Show me where I'm going to sleep." She retired, but it was not so easy to sleep. After midnight she finally dropped asleep and woke about 8 o'clock.

The tug was motionless. Hastily adjusting her clothes which she had not taken off, she went on deck. Ah Sam was there, pacing up and down, smoking a cigarette.

"Good morning, Miss Alice," he said, "I hope you slept well."

"Fine," replied Alice, who always believed in being pleasant when it is of no use to be otherwise.

She looked upon her surroundings. They were in a deep cove tied up to a small pier. The country was flat and covered with scrub pines. Standing at the head of the pier, a little back from the beach, was a long two-story frame building, with a piazza extending the entire length. Evidently it had been abandoned a long time.

"South Shore of Long Island?" asked Alice bluntly.

"No. South Jersey," replied Ah Sam. "Here's where we land."

"Look here," said Alice. "I am entirely in your power. It can't do you any harm to tell me why you brought me here?"

"Probably it wouldn't," replied the Chinaman. "I will say no harm is intended. I brought you here for business. Do what I ask and make no fuss and I promise that within a day or so you shall go free."

Alice Hears a Queer Story.

Alice decided to bide her time. She was faint with hunger by the time Mrs. Sam appeared for breakfast. She was sour and sulky. It was all she could do to be civil to Alice. But she changed her attitude when she found Ah Sam was to be away all day and part of the night.

"What's that for? You never said a word about it. I thought we were to wait here for you know what."

"So we are. We are ahead of time and I have other business to attend to. You and Miss Montgomery will stay at the hotel." Ah Sam gave her a look that made Sophia turn pale. Already this foolish woman had awakened from her lovesick dream.

After breakfast they went ashore and up to the desolate looking old hotel. They passed into the big lobby. "Here you are, Sophy, you know the place so make yourself at home. Black and another man will bring your things up. He has orders to shoot the first person who passes this door."

Mrs. Sam gasped. "To shoot—me—your wife!" she faltered.

"Sure," replied Ah Sam. "You might as well understand, Sophy, that this is cold business with me. If you behave all right, if not, Miss Alice goes to Buenos Aires with me, and not you, my dear."

"Oh, you villain!" cried Mrs. Sam. Then he struck her a blow on the head that sent her reeling. She dared not raise her voice against him any more. Alice did not venture to interfere. Ah Sam had shown his true colors.

She regarded her own danger as great, but when he turned to her and said, "Suppose I ask you to go to Buenos Aires with me, will you go!" she answered him straight from the shoulder, "No."

He said no more until the men came with the bags. He ushered them into a well furnished room. "Make yourselves comfortable. I've got a bit of business with Miss Alice before I go." He proceeded to open a box which was secured by a good lock. From this he took out the hideous little wooden idol. Turning to Alice, he said, "The Bradys have orders from the Secret Service to get this, have they not?"

"I believe so."

"You know they have and so do I. I was tipped off from Anderson's office. Now about its story: My father-in-law, old man Jenkins, has been in the habit of smuggling diamonds for years. He also smuggles opium, and has backed a bunch of my people who run in Chinamen—see?"

"I hear."

"All right. He heard of a very valuable diamond which he could get cheap. He cabled a noted expert to examine it. The report was that it was worth $30,000 duty free. Jenkins cabled to Shanghai to buy the diamond, ship it to Hamburg and he would take care of it. But there was a string to it which the old man did not know until later. He went to Hamburg expecting to receive the diamond. Instead we got this wooden idol along with a letter in Hindustani saying that the diamond was hidden in the idol and in such a fashion that if the idol was broken the diamond would be broken too. A certain Chinaman wanted by the New York police held the secret."

"And do you believe all this?" asked Alice.

"I do," replied Ah Sam. "This man has been Jenkins' secret partner for years. I expected to be able to solve the secret, but I have failed. I have no belief that the banker will tell me the secret, and that is why I am telling you this."

"You want me to try my hand at finding the diamond?"

"That's it. Take hold now and see what you can do."

Alice took up the wooden idol and scanned it carefully. When she saw the head unscrewed, she removed it, feeling that could not be the secret. The idol was apparently hollow. She shook it bottom upward but nothing dropped out. "If you want my opinion," she said, "you have all been deceived."

"Never," cried Ah Sam. "Wek Doon is not that kind. But work over it, Miss Alice. If you find the diamond you shall have all that is coming to you."

"I dare say!" retorted Alice. "But what will be coming to me? That is the question." Ah Sam chuckled and left the room.

"Where do you suppose he has gone now?" asked Alice.

"I haven't the least idea," said Mrs. Sam. "But tell me, Miss Montgomery, what I ought to do. I believe my father would kill me for betraying this place to Sam. You see, he owns it, and uses it as a place to land the goods he buys in Europe. Come with me—I'll show you something."

Another chapter of this thrilling serial appears tomorrow. Don't miss it! Old King Brady is on the trail of a hideous wooden idol.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE CURIOUS CASE OF BRIDGET FARRY.

(Arnold Rothstein, known from coast to coast as a notorious race track man and gambler, was slain in a New York hotel nearly six months ago. The police have failed to clear up the mystery and the only person remaining under detention is a scrubwoman name Bridget Farry, who was working at the hotel at the time of the crime. Why she is incarcerated has never been explained.—Ed.)

Dablyn Crymes, the Great Detective, came forth today with the first explanation about Bridget. "I have been investigating the Rothstein murder ever since the day after it happened, and I alone am in a position to tell the public the reason for the scrubwoman's long incarceration."

The Great Sleuth removed a blue wig, which he had been using as a disguise, and resumed:

* * * *

"Arnold Rothstein was supposedly summoned from a restaurant by a telephone call from the Park Central Hotel, was he not? Yes. But what evidence is there to support this? None. The truth is that he was summoned, not by telephone, but by a signal from one of the hotel windows. This signal was given with a mop.

* * * *

"Now, proceeding from that point, who had or might have had a mop? McManus? It would not have been impossible for McManus to have a mop but the best evidence is that it was not his custom to carry one. He was never accompanied by a mop on his curious excursions about town with Rothstein. Arnold hated mops. He never used them.

* * * *

"That brings us, by a process of deduction, down to John Doe and his half-brother, Richard Roe. Might they have signaled from the hotel with a mop? I think not. I found what I thought at first to be a mop in John Doe's baggage but it turned out to be a carpet-sweeper. This signal was not given with a carpet-sweeper. As for Richard Roe, I have evidence that he at times was seen going up and down Broadway with a pail, but never with a mop.

* * * *

"Now, we come to Bridget Farry. Did she have a mop? Certainly. She admits it. On the day of the murder she not only had in her possession a mop, but a pail and soap!

"What was she doing in the Park Central Hotel with mop, pail and soap? Cleaning, she says, but shall we swallow such an incredible story. A scrubwoman really using such things for such a purpose? Does she think me as simple as that?

* * * *

"Now I come to the most significant evidence so far dug up. Just before Rothstein was summoned to the hotel by the signals given with a mop, a strange little man with pink whiskers and green knickers came up to him and slipped him a cake of soap. On the back of this soap was this message:

"'I love you. B. F.'

* * * *

Dablyn Crymes paused for a moment and smiled. "Do you see it all?" he asked. "What do those initials B. F. mean? Bellows Falls? Bare Feet? Baked Fish? Banana Fritters Certainly not. They mean Bridget Farry."

* * * *

"You mean.....?" gasped his listener.

"Yes," declared Dablyn Crymes, snapping on his early evening yellow whiskers and starting out on the Congressman Morgan Mystery.

With NELSON B. BELL.

It is not beyond the range of easy possibility that vaudeville, as such, may return to the National Capital, and not at Keith's. Please understand me that this is not an official announcement and reflects nothing more than a vague sort of surmise that I have just thought up out of my own head. The rationality of the guess might in some quarters be deemed contingent upon an intimate knowledge of whether certain amusement enterprises are operating "in the red" or are being posted in the ledger in the more inspiriting tints of indigo, and I admit that that is true. Furthermore, it would not be dallying with the truth to say that I have never even seen the outside of this particular ledger let alone any of the computations it probably contains.

Anyhow, vaudeville has been made the three-a-day policy in the comparatively new Fox Theater in Brooklyn, and a little bird flying east from the Great Lakes has dropped the hint that the same thing has been done in Detroit. I don't say that it also will happen in Washington. I only say it might.

Paramount is evidently of the opinion that stage plays made into audible pictures can best be made palatable to the movie-going taste by those who have been long associated with the production of stage successes. This is evidenced by the personnel lending its varied talents to the picturization as an all-talkie of "The Dummy," adapted from the former stage hit by Harvey O'Higgins and Harriet Ford, current at the Palace.

The featured player is Ruth Chatterton, stage star, although her role is a distinctly minor one. The picture was directed by Robert Milton, a noted director of stage productions. The important role of Babbing, private detective, is played by John Cromwell, also a stage director as well as actor.

And after all that, Mickey Bennett and ZaSu Pitts, dyed-in-the-wool picture players, gallop off with all the honors.

It has never been a surety in my mind that misleading billing constitutes good showmanship in the long run. The high-pressure boys in the New York offices are palpably sure that it is. My evidence consists of two of this week's most engaging downtown first runs.

Ruth Chatterton has no more right to featured prominence in "The Dummy" than has Frederic March, the obscure actor, who plays the equally small part of her husband in the O'Higgins-Ford comedy-melodrama, and I am by no means convinced that Davey Lee is actually the star of "Sonny Boy," although his claim to the title is better founded than Miss Chatterton's.

This delightful little codger will have to have a suitable play built around his own baby precocity, instead of merely being plopped down arbitrarily in an essentially adult divorce farce, before any one will be able to determine whether he is another Jackie Coogan or just a cute dud. I'm betting on the kid.

Those who have proved their worth before the microphones are beginning to talk all over the place, precisely as this column predicted when the nebulous possibilities of the audible screen were still being scoffed at and held at naught on both the big board and the curb.

Tommy Dugan is doing characteristically well with amusing lines at both the Earle and the Fox, having a little the fatter role at the latter in support of Conrad Nagel and Lois Wilson.

If there might perchance be a sort of modern Diogenes, snooping around the motion-picture houses of the Capital in search of an old-fashioned girl, his task might now be fairly said to be completed and his quest ended. The solution of his difficulty would be afforded by Peggy Osgood, half of the team of Lane and Osgood, hoofing skillfully in the "Spring Gambol" stage revue at the Fox. Miss Osgood, although by every other visible evidence belonging to the present era, must be of a more diffident and distant generation.

She struts her stuff in pink silk tights! Quaint, no end.

Why many pairs of opera glasses will be dragged out of cold storage this week by those who like to sit back for their pictures—Jean Beverly, at the Earle, and Doris Kane, at the Fox. Take my tip. And you won't be sorry you have them with you when Chita comes on at the Fox, either.

There are a couple of excessively enticing midnights in the offing, according to announcement from the office of John J. Payette, supervisor of theaters for the Stanley-Crandall Co. One Wednesday; one Friday. Both Paramount.

On Wednesday midnight one of those new-fangled, pay-as-you-enter previews of "The Canary Murder Case" will be held for the impatient at the Metropolitan. This is another of the S. S. Van Dyne mystery tales in which William Powell, suavest of the cinema's slickers, appears as Philo Vance, the deadly deductionist who never misses. "The Canary" is Louise Brooks, cast as a gay Broadway Circe, something after the pattern of "Dot" King—and quite as lucky.

Friday midnight, Clara Bow will begin the regular week's engagement of "The Wild Party," her first talking picture, at the Earle, and I mean that party is WILD! It would not have surprised me in the least to have had the advance trailer burst into flames and burn off the screen at any moment while I was risking one eye on it Saturday afternoon!

Grass to cut, seeds to plant, benches to paint, lawns to sprinkle, roses to train, birds to feed, chickens to shoo—gosh! I wish they'd hurry with that farm relief!

Shopping with Bab on Connecticut Avenue

DEAREST GENEVIEVE:

Every one is shopping for summer clothes in earnest now. The warm days have reminded all that summer has a way of popping in all of a sudden in Washington. Each year we say: "Now, we must have our summer clothes ready." Shopping is so hard after the hot days begin." And each year we lack imagination enough to visualize the sort of things we will need until the day arrives.

Not every one is so procrastinating. Some early birds have been choosing their complete wardrobes for quite a time. If you just remember that you need a definite type of clothes for Washington, not at all the things you would wear in New York or other large cities, certain things for the seashore and mountains, clothes for active sports and for spectator wear at the country clubs. If you are going abroad or planning any sort of an ocean voyage you need only the complete wardrobe you would wear any place, with the exception of a warm steamer coat.

A Pennsylvania Spatter-ware Bowl

—has joined the collections at the Junksnuppers, 1338 Nineteenth street. This is a good-sized bowl in high yellow with the remains of a gilt edge around the top. If it was formerly used as a cream crock, it was very elegant with a gold band, don't you think?

The Junksnuppers have a fine lot of early American glass in the favorite patterns: rose cut, Westwardho, Sheaf of Wheat, Waterfall, and all the others. Clear glass and several shades of amber are to be found among them. There are several complete sets of goblets, delicately cut in a sheaf of wheat pattern. See a pair of covered compotes, too.

Orchid, White And Lavender

—in a solidly embroidered coat will attract you in Herron's, 1735 Conn. Ave. This shop has so many nice, little, inexpensive dresses in really very good style, nicely made and of pretty materials and colors.

For any one wishing to buy several different models this is a good place to go, for there are lovely frocks as low as $16.50. A chartreuse with black polka dots is good looking. A navy blue silk has the cuningest red leather belt with peplum attached. This makes it possible to choose your own waistline.

A white crepe dress has an inset V of blue, a pleated skirt and a polka-dotted coat. This shop is up one flight.

Rare Silks And Embroideries

—are among the fascinating things you will find in the Near East and American Friends of Greece, 1334 Connecticut Avenue. As you know a shipment of mashlaks has come in recently, so these beautiful negligees may be selected now from a wide variety of colors and combinations.

The silk used in these sheik coats has the most beautiful sheen; gold, purple, blue, rose, shot with lights and faintly striped with contrasting hues.

Mother's Day Is May Twelfth

—and that will be here before you know it. If you have some pictures made of yourself right away you will have that off your mind and be happy in the thought that you have this sweet surprise ready for your dear mother on that day.

No one else can give her any gift which will equal this in the joy it will bring her. It is a priceless present, and one which you owe to her on this day.

Your mother will be so happy that you have had the forethought to have it ready in time. With so many of us special days arrive and we wish with all our hearts that we had planned the right tribute early enough. Procrastination again!

Underwood & Underwood's are trying to make it easy for you by reminding us that May 12th is Mother's Day and that they make beautiful portraits as low as $20 a dozen.

You can have one lovely picture made for $15 if you want to, an especially handsome finish.

Pasternak's Are Ready For the Season

—at all times. Their exhibits of spring models have been augmented by numerous arrivals of light silks, chiffons and laces for summer wear.

Pasternak's, 1219 Conn. Ave., show now an unusually beautiful line of sports clothes in weights suitable for the various climes in which you may find yourself during the summer.

For every lovely frock there is a matching hat. Pasternak's hats are the smartest to be had, and represent the last word in style. If your needs include custom tailored suits and handsome furs you will find everything you want here.

With Your Pretty Sweater Suits

—you must wear wooden beads in matching or contrasting colors. Mr. Foster's, 1023 Connecticut Avenue, have dozens of chains in every imaginable color.

There are candle-holders in the new manner, at Mr. Foster's now, too. These are, as you perhaps know, strips of metal with places to put the candles in a row, three, five or six. They are in "gold" or "silver," and are most useful in carrying out schemes of decoration.

A pair of book-ends attracted my attention, leaping gazelles cut out of brass, in the daintiest fashion. A score pad which is most mysterious has a button which you press and what you have just written immediately disappears.

Large round metal plates, nice for country houses or porch use for holding fruits and nuts are decorated in splashy colors, scenes of castles, girls with wolfhounds and other attractive subjects. These are priced at $1.

Lenci dolls appear in new characters. Could one ever tire of these adorable dolls? They look so real, some of them!

Pretty Chiffon Frocks Danced at Wardman

—last evening. The supper dances are as popular as ever. The dinner dance on Staurday night was the jolliest one they have had in months, I am told, although every one is lots of fun. The Silvertown Chord Orchestra has been a great hit. The music is always excellent, and changing the entertainers from week to week proves a diverting custom. The same people go back week after week and have such a good time.

This is a good place to entertain parties, because the charge is so slight. On Saturday nights the famous "Diner Parfait" is only $2.50, with a special entertainment couvert of $1. This makes an unbelievably moderate evening.

You call Oscar for reservation, Col. 2000. If you have not inspected the new wing at Wardman Park Hotel you should do so. It is spacious and elegant. The end suites are particularly handsome. Needless to say, the apartments in this stunning, new addition have gone like wildfire. Numbers of the new Cabinet and others in official life have taken quarters in this beautiful hotel.

If Summer Stays With Us

—The Huguenot will open its garden earlier than expected.

Many people, remembering this charming sylvan retreat, have sought it during the past several days, only to find that it is not quite ready to open. The interior of the Huguenot is so divinely cool, that it is possible to be happy and comfortable there, perhaps cooler than you would be outside.

This is one restaurant which adapts its menus to the season, and you are sure to find crisp salads, cold cuts, ices and frozen puddings in the hot weather menus at the Huguenot, 1359 Conn. Ave.

Blossom Time Exhibits of Jewelry

—at J. F. Shaw & Co. include all the beautiful semiprecious stones which are so attractive with summer costumes. Clever women wear an entirely different type of adornment in the summer than at other seasons. Necklaces must be cool and light looking, and must be chosen to complete color ensembles.

Bracelets and earrings, necklaces and rings have been assembled in wonderful combinations of jade, amethyst, turquoise, topaz, coral, quartz, carnelian, tourmaline, amber, onyx, amazonite, Russian lapis-lazuli, crystal and seed pearls.

It is well known how charming these stones are with filmy summer frocks, and with the gay colors of this season. Some necklaces are of dainty twisted ropes of seed-pearls, with pendants of topaz or tourmaline. One lovely seed pearl necklace has alternating corals and tassels of pearls and corals. This has a little bracelet to match.

You have seen the Chinese jade trees in the windows of this handsome shop, have you not? There are weeping willows and flowering fruit trees made of colorful jade in jade or cloissonne pots. This is the most important collection of these trees to be found in Washington if I am not mistaken. They are stunning in pairs, but are decorative when used singly, too.

J. F. Shaw & Co., corner of Q street and Connecticut Avenue.

Interior Decorating With Intelligence

—is something everybody wants to find. The Charles Gallery, 1029 Connecticut Avenue, has a skilled staff of designers, which is making a splendid name for this shop.

The Charles Gallery opened, as I remember, about a year ago. Since that time it has changed its ideas somewhat and has added hosts of trinkets and objects of art which may be purchased regardless of one's decorating needs.

Fortuny print bags with gate tops, suitable for knitting or shopping, are shown in a quantity.

If you are interested in furniture and furnishings you will find old fabrics, fine old chairs and other pieces of furniture, besides etchings and prints to please you.

Gallenga Gowns At Jane Bartlett's

—will bring in interested and eager spectators on April 11, 12 and 13. Henri Meade Wootenn, of Boston, has exhibited Gallenga gowns here before, and women who are familiar with them, await with the greatest anticipation this opportunity to buy these famous design, made from marvelous fabrics.

Signora Maria Mona ci Gallenga is an artist of pre-Raphelite tendencies, who reproduced the glorious effects in color, material and design which made famous the fabrics of Florence and Venice in the Middle Ages. Her secret process of super-imposing gold, silver and copper on velvets, gauzes and crepes gives a fascinating effect.

Wraps, gowns, blouses, shawls and scarfs in the exhibit are priced from $8 to $200. Jane Bartlett, 1603 Conn. Ave.

STOCK PRICES REACT IN LISTLESS MARKET

Day's Turnover Smallest Since Last December—Tractions React Sharply.

COPPER SHARES WEAKEN

New York, April 8 (A.P.).—The stock market worked irregularly lower today in the dullest session so far this year. With the Supreme Court reconvening in Washington, traders were disposed to mark time in expectation of decisions affecting stocks, and in the meantime found little encouragement in the credit situation.

The Supreme Court decision which was handed down in the Interborough 7-cent fare case was something of a shock in Wall street, where a favorable decision had been looked for, and sent Interborough stock tumbling 25 points. A decision in the St. Louis & O'Fallon case was awaited with even greater interest, but was not forthcoming.

Call money renewed at 7 per cent, and with the slow pace of trading funds were adequate at that rate all day. Although it was the lowest renewal rate since March 19, it failed to promote bullish activity, and the day's total sales fell off to 2,719,880 shares, the smallest day's business for a full session since the quiet spell that followed the severe break in December.

Time Money Holds at 9 Per Cent.

Seven per cent money was not encouraging in the face of continued 9 per cent time money for all maturities, and the general expectation of a money squeeze during the coming midmonth shifting of balances. Many brokers were inclined to the view that the market needed a period of rest. Incidentally, it was pointed out that the steel and automotive industries usually reach their seasonal peak within the next few weeks, and a period of watchful waiting pending more definite determination of business trends, after the current record activity in many lines, would be in the interests of caution.

The day's industrial news continued largely favorable. Steel ingot production for both March and the first quarter were announced as having set new high records. Sir Henri Deterding, of the Royal Dutch Shell group, discussing crude production control, said his organization, with its world-wide ramifications "was ready to join wholeheartedly in the movement to put and keep the world's petroleum business on a sound basis."

American Smelting reduced the price of lead one-quarter of a cent a pound for the second time in the last few days.

Tractions React Violently.

New York traction stocks rose sharply as tickers carried the information that the Supreme Court decision was being read, on the hasty conclusion that it was favorable to the companies. I. R. T. stock was sent up 5 points to 55, only to fall to 30 a few minutes later when the nature of the decision became known. It rebounded to 39 on short covering, and closed at 33½, off 16⅜. Manhattan Elevated Modified Guaranteed ranged from 54¼ to 31½ and closed at 38, off 14. Brooklyn Manhattan Transit closed 8½ and Third Avenue Railway 7¼ points off.

Copper stocks were under continuous pressure during the day in response to rumors that the high price for copper metal is curtailing orders. Anaconda dropped 6 and Greene Cananea more than 7 points. Federal Mining and Smelting dropped 16 points in a small turnover.

The rails sagged, particularly those of the Van Sweringen group, which encountered "selling on the good news" of the I. C. C. approval of the C. & O.'s plan to acquire the Pere Marquette. C. & O. lost about 3 points, and Pere Marquette, after mounting 3 points, fell back to 15 from the top.

Such issues as American Telephone, General Electric, Radio, Consolidated Gas and Standard Oil of California sagged about 2 points or more. Commercial Solvents mounted 6 points, then slipped back 10.

American Express at 409.

American Express shot up 13 points to a new high at 409 in anticipation of the announcement of acquisition by Chase National Bank, and closed at 400. Some of the merchandising shares were strong on reports of large March sales.

Woolworth mounted about 8 points, to a new high, while Safety, Interstate Department, Macy & Co. were in good demand. Mail order stocks, however, were heavy. Although motors were generally heavy, General Motors and Chrysler sagging a point and more, Murray Corporation and Mack Truck mounted 3 and 4 points.

Lehigh Valley Coal soared into new high ground for the year on the statement of President Humphrey that the worst is over in the coal industry. Johns Manville, Jewel Tea, International Paper, and American-Hawaiian Steamship were bid up about 4 to 7 points, the last two to new peaks.

In the commodities, grains were strong, wheat and corn mounting 2½ to 3½ cents a bushel on optimism over the prospects for agricultural relief at the coming session of Congress. Cotton sagged on better weather over the belt, but closed steady. Tin futures broke sharply in sympathy with a drop at London.

Foreign exchanges were firm, with sterling ruling about ⅛ of a cent higher.

FEW BONDS RESIST GENERAL PRESSURE

Adverse Court Ruling Causes Slump in New York Traction Issues.

FOREIGN GROUP MIXED

New York, April 8 (A.P.).—New York traction bonds slumped fractionally to 5 points with stocks today on the adverse United States Supreme Court fare decision and provided the feature of a bond market trading session that showed a generally weaker trend, except in the high grade rails and industrial issues. U. S. Government securities improved all through the list.

The Interborough Rapid Transit issues sold off fractionally to 4 points in the face of the Supreme Court denial of a higher fare and touched new low levels. Interborough 6s slumped 3½ points to 75, while the refunding 5s lost 4 points. Brooklyn-Manhattan Traction issues and New York Railways Income 6s also declined sharply, the latter 5 points.

The railroads, which have been picking up steadily in the last few days, made the best showing of the session. The Van Sweringen issues, following a favorable decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission in the Chesapeake & Ohio case, made further upward progress. Chesapeake Corporation 5s moved up fractionally, while Chesapeake & Ohio Consolidated 5s were firm with a gain of more than a point. Nickel Plate issues likewise gained ground. Boston & Maine 5s were a strong spot with a rise of more than 2 points.

The convertibles were under pressure. Anaconda Copper 7s, one of the most popular issues on the list a few weeks ago, lost more than 7 points in sympathy with a decline in copper stocks. Alleghany Corporation 5s, after a strong opening, ran into selling and closed down 1½ points on the day. International Telephone Convertible 4½s, on a turnover of $240,000, finished nearly 2 points lower, following a break in the stock.

Utilities ranged lower on a small turnover. Public service on New Jersey 4½s dropped 3 points.

Foreign issues were mixed, with the most active issues showing fractional losses.

CAPITAL'S BANKERS WIN TAX TEST CASE

Supreme Court Denies Right to Assess Incomes on Federal Securities.

STOCKS' PRICES STEADY

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Final victory for the District of Columbia Bankers Association in the famous test case of Riggs National Bank against the District government's right to tax banks on incomes from Federal securities was won yesterday when the United States Supreme Court denied the District Commissioners' writ of certiorari appealing from the appellate court's decision favoring the association.

The fight culminating yesterday was begun in 1927, when the association's taxation committee became aware of a United States Supreme Court decision in the case of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co. against the State of Wisconsin, holding it beyond the power of the State to tax the income from Government securities in the hands of corporations.

Realizing this was a State case, the local association, nevertheless, decided to test the matter in the District courts, and Robert V. Fleming, president of Riggs National Bank, then chairman of the association's taxation committee, presented the case.

In May, 1928, the District Supreme Court decided in favor of the bank, and the case was appealed by the District Commissioners to the United States Court of Appeals, which sustained the decision of the District Supreme Court. Frank J. Hogan represented the bank and Mr. Fleming and H. H. McKee, now chairman of the association's taxation committee, followed the matter to a successful conclusion.

Reserve Bank Statement.

An increase of $26,000,000 in loans and decreases of $10,000,000 in investments, $16,000,000 in Government deposits and $13,000,000 in borrowings from Federal Reserve banks was shown yesterday in the Federal Reserve Board's condition statement of weekly reporting member banks in 101 leading cities on April 3.

In the classification "all other" loans, an increase of $8,000,000 in the Richmond or local district was noted.

District Bankers to Convene.

First "call" for the eleventh annual convention of the District of Columbia Bankers Association to be held at Montauk Beach, Long Island, N. Y., June 20-23, will go out today from headquarters of C. H. Pope, chairman of the general convention committee.

The "call" announces the same plan is being followed this year as in former ones regarding business sessions, these being scheduled for June 20-22, and will finish in time to give opportunity for afternoons and evenings of pleasure.

The "family dinner" will be held on the night of June 22, and an excellent entertainment has been planned. The association's special train, all Pullman, will leave here at 9 o'clock on the evening of June 19, reaching Montauk Beach at breakfast time.

Frederick P. H. Siddons, chairman of the program committee of the convention, has notified members that the date for the next meeting has been advanced from Friday to tomorrow afternoon at 4:10 o'clock, at the association's rooms.

Railway Operating Income.

Net railway operating income of Class I railroads in February amounted to $84,770,143; the Bureau of Railway Economics reported yesterday. The amount for that month was an annual rate of return of 5.39 per cent on their property investment, according to reports just filed by the carriers with the bureau.

In February, 1928, their net railway operating income was $69,823,186, 4.62 per cent on their property investment, or the value of road and equipment as shown by the books of the railways, including materials, supplies and cash.

O. L. Mills to Be Speaker.

Undersecretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills will be the speaker for the forum dinner meeting of Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, at the Raleigh Hotel, Wednesday, April 24.

Stock Prices Remain Steady.

Foremost in trading volume on the Washington Stock Exchange yesterday was National Mortgage & Investment preferred stock, 50 shares of which traded at 5¾, last sale level. Capital Traction made another fractional rise, opening at 99¼, a quarter point above last sale figure. Two lots of ten and five shares, exchanged at this quotation, and after call a block of ten passed over at 99¾.

Five lots of bonds were sold as follows: $1,000 Anacostia & Potomac Railroad 5s, at 95; $1,000 Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone of Virginia 5s, 101½; $500 Washington Gas 5s, 100¼; $1,000 Washington Gas 6s, Series B, 104½; Chestnut Farms Dairy 6½s, 107.

Washington to Be Represented.

Washington will be represented at the spring meeting of the executive council of the American Bankers Association to be held April 15-18 at Biloxi, Miss.

Robert V. Fleming, Riggs National Bank, member of the council; Howard Moran, vice president American Security & Trust Co., member of executive council of the savings bank division; George O. Walson, president of Liberty National Bank, and E. E. Mountjoy, secretary of the national association's national bank division, will attend the conference.

A special train bearing New York delegates to the sessions will arrive at Union Station Friday night, leaving early Saturday morning. Pennsylvania and northern Maryland delegates will board the train here. Commercial bank problems will be discussed.

A meeting of the committee of the District of Columbia Bankers Association to consider establishment of a credit bureau will be held this afternoon.

Curb Review

New York, April 8 (A.P.).—Trading in today's market fell off to the smallest volume of any full session this year, with prices moving irregularly lower. Lack of public interest, coupled with the disinclination of pools to resume operations when faced with the prospect of a midmonth "money squeeze," were held responsible for the session's dullness.

Ford of Canada was again a spectacular feature, soaring 50 points to a new high at 1225 and then losing all but 7 points of its gain. The new class B voting stock ran up nearly 30 points to a new peak at 109, as against a low of 56½ last week, and then slipped back to 103. Ford of England declined fractionally.

Brooklyn City Railway, which was run up to 113¾ in the early trading in expectation of a favorable decision on the 7-cent fare by the United States Supreme Court, dropped back to 8¼ when the higher fare was denied, and closed slightly above that figure.

Oils were sluggish despite Sir Henri Deterding's statement that the price would reach $5 a barrel within six years unless there was a check to the present wasteful policy of production.

Tri-Continental Corporation crossed 35 to a new high on reports that the sponsors were forming a new European company. Bendix jumped 8 points to a new high at 134 on reports that the company was to be included in a new giant aviation holding corporation.

A rather thin market was apparent for several of the high priced specialties when offerings disclosed no nearby bids. Grigsby Grunow dropped nearly 8 points to a new 1929 low at 132¼ and then rallied slightly. Aluminum Co. of America, Crocker Wheeler, Midland Steel, Newton Steel, Safety Car Heating & Lighting, St. Regis Paper and Union Chemical dropped 3 to 6 points, and J. C. Penney broke 14 to a new low at 330.

Aviation shares were mixed, Sikorsky dropping nearly 2 points despite persistent rumors of its merger with one of the larger airplane companies, and Fairchild advanced 1. International Cigar Machinery, Rainbow Luminous Products, Perfect Circle and about a dozen other issues sank to new low levels for the year.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, April 8 (A.P.).—Lively speculative buying based on reports that broad plans of farm relief are fast taking definite shape helped wheat more than 4 cents a bushel today. Heavy profit-taking sales on the bulge, however, caused something of a reaction at the last.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled at 3⅝c to 3⅜c net advance. Corn finished 2¼c to 2⅜c up, oats at ⅞c to 2¾c gain, and provisions varying from 5c decline to a rise of 7c.

Except at the opening and again in the final transactions, offerings of wheat today were scarce, compared to the demand. Some uncertainty prevailed at the start. Liverpool prices being lower than were looked for, and there was also considerable selling pressure currently on account of favorable domestic crop reports. It soon became apparent, though, that Washington advices about progress of farm relief plans were the outstanding influence in the market, and that a major upward movement of values was under way.

The vital point of the reports circulated here today about farm relief progress was that House and Senate committees were planning to provide more than $300,000,000 revolving fund for operations of a Federal Farm Board with sweeping authority to work out its own solution of problems. The plan was also said to assure the purchase and storage of grain in any quantity deemed advisable by the judgment of the Farm Relief Board, which is to be established.

Stimulated by such reports, all cereals went soaring, wheat gains being helped, too, as a result of 453,000 bushels falling off in the United States visible supply, as well as owing to indications that a fair demand from Europe existed today for North American shipments of wheat. Word was also at hand that a cold wave had overspread Europe, that there was in transatlantic countries are again frozen over, and that the amount of wheat on ocean passage is less than the total a week ago.

Corn and oats advanced with wheat. Besides, corn receipts in the West were small, and arrivals of oats everywhere were scant. There were also intimations that some corn export business being done from the United States. Meanwhile, boats were loading with 400,000 bushels of corn destined for the East, and heavy clearances by lake in the immediate future were expected.

Provisions were responsive to upturns both in hog values and in grain.

NATS CAPTURE FIRST OF SERIES WITH GIANTS, 8-3

McLeod Wins Pro Tourney With 71

Thorn Second in Mid-'Atlantic Field At Town-Country.

Winner Chips 2 Into Cup; Group Plans Many Tourneys.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

OVER a course which was in the pink of condition and under a sun which shone with the heat of midsummer, Fred McLeod, professional of the Columbia Country Club, yesterday led the field which participated in the monthly tournament of the Middle Atlantic Professional Golfers Association at the Town and Country Club. McLeod had a fine card of 37, 34—71, one stroke over par, with two three-putt greens which were offset by chips into the cup on the sixth and eleventh holes. His drives, while not phenomenal, were always in the course and were long enough to enable him to reach every green with his second shot.

Arthur B. Thorn, Town and Country Club professional and president of the association, was second with 37, 35—72, his card showing only three 3s while McLeod had five. The winner of the third prize in the sweepstakes was Al Treder, of the Manor Club, who scored 38, 35—73. The cards of the three leaders and the other scores follow:

Irving Schloss, Rodgers Forge.. 42 46—88

Withdrew—Ralph Beach, Suburban; James Powers, unattached.

Monro Hunter, of Indian Spring, who had the best card for the first nine, 34, one stroke under par, but who took 43 for the inward journey, had a 7 on the long fifteenth, owing to an encounter with a ditch, and a 6 on the par 3 seventeenth hole, when he played three strokes before his ball was extricated from a trap. The thirteen strokes on the two holes placed him in fifth position outside of the money.

After the tournament the association met and decided upon the schedule of events for the season, but with the dates for the Middle Atlantic open undetermined. It was agreed that the professional at the respective clubs would select the character of the competition. The program:

April 23—Suburban Club, Baltimore, amateur-professional, best ball.
May 6—Columbia Country Club.
May 20—Maryland Country Club, amateur-professional, with the amateurs all members of the club and playing under their club handicaps.
June 3—Congressional Country Club, 36 holes, medal play, professionals only, with a sweepstakes and a prize of $100 offered by Alexander Armour, Congressional Club professional, for lowest score.
July 1—Catoctin Club, Frederick, Md.
July 15—Indian Spring Club.
July 29—Annapolis Roads.
August 5—Rolling Road, Baltimore.
August 19—Manor Club.
September 2—Elkridge Hunt Club, Baltimore.
September 16—Burning Tree.
September 30—Woodholme, Baltimore.
October 14—Chevy Chase.

Roland and Thomas Hancock, of Lynchburg, Va., and John J. O'Neill, Hillendale, Baltimore, were elected to membership and several other applications were referred to the membership committee for report.

SHARP TREND —Toward Sanity— IN GOLF WEAR

—BY WESTBROOK PEGLER—

NEW YORK, April 8.—Disclaiming any expert authority on the matter of men's fashions, I note nevertheless that the leg o' mutton bloomers and the garish color patterns which proclaimed the golfer for a time are no longer de rigeur and that even Johnny Farrell, gaudiest of all the male mannequins and twice winner of the title of Mr. America at the annual competition of the harebdashery trades, may now be gazed upon with the naked eye.

Two years ago the sight of young Mr. Farrell in full regimentals was something to make the serious thinking element think seriously for the future of manhood in the U. S. A. Here was one of America's noted athletes going about openly, even brazenly, in scenic effects that would have stirred the late Theodore Roosevelt to make a withering phrase and the clothiers who cater to the largest single playing element in American sport, the golfers, were turning out not clothes but costumes, and striving for sweetness.

Tut Ank Ahmen Fad Is Felt In Golfing Regalia.

The motive or motif or principal idea of the golfing regalia just then was the Egyptian pattern. Tut Ankh Amen had lately been exhumed and the fabric of his shroud had revealed friezes of contemporaneuos kootch dancers, snake charmers and coat-room girls, recognizable from their extended palms, which were copied bodily and woven into the stylish golf sweaters of the season.

Socks, too, were very bizarre, some having red tassels and a well-turned-out golfer two years ago looked like a chorus boy out of the second act of Aphrodite. The bloomers were tailored on the architectural plan of the split skirt worn by outdoor girls for cycling back in '98 and there was an overlapping effect across the belt line which moved young Robert T. Jones to call them doubled-breasted pants.

Farrell Still a Farrell Despite King of Beauty Crown.

Mr. Farrell seems to have played only an acquiescent part in the sartorial program which set virile truck chauffeurs to yelling "Yoo hoo!" at the golfers as they rolled along suburban roads delivering brick, steel girders and casks of herring. A slave to fashion himself, he merely decided to capitalize his thralldom, and when the more handsome pros showed up before the jury at the fashion show just before the annual tournament of the P. G. A. to compete for a cash prize of $1,000 John was so stunning that the committee reeled at the vision and crowned him King of Beauty two years in succession.

He was ill at ease the first time, and when I encountered him soon afterward he salted his speech with a profusion of hells, damns and masculine what-nots, as though to signify that he was still a Farrell of the Galway Farrels who had worn overalls and red flannel underwear.

"A man will do strange things for $1,000," John said, "but I wish some one would give me another thousand to sign a testimonial for a good, strong chewing tobacco."

Sharp Trend Toward Gravy Brown Is Noticed in Florida.

In watching the noted golfers in Florida this season I noticed that there has been a sharp trend away from the dashing effects and toward the demure. The woven figures which coursed around the bosom of the golfing sweater like a love letter in the aboriginal picture language on Hiawatha's tepee have been omitted. The boys are wearing monotone sweaters and the colors were quiet, though attractive, as braise blue, spinach green or gravy brown, with socks to match.

There were no tassels or bangles on the socks. Some of the more beautiful wear their sweaters stuffed inside their bloomers, but I learned that they are doing this for a sordid motive, having been paid sums of money to wear belts of an advertised model which can not be seen by the galleries if the sweaters are worn in the normal mode.

One may have one's opinion of any man who will permit financial considerations to determine whether he shall wear his shirt tail inside or out. Mem-

Rally by Yale Beats G. U. In Tenth

Elis Solve White to Tie Score in 9th and Win, 6-4.

Scalzi's Poor Throw Allows Deciding Runs to Score.

THE Yale Bulldog bit into Southpaw Packy White's curves for 8 1-3 innings yesterday, but he got little to masticate. However, all the while he was sharpening his teeth for a real meal and a killing. This he executed on White and the Georgetown University Nine in the ninth and tenth innings while 1,200 persons saw him smack his lips over a totally unexpected 6-to-4 victory.

It looked for most of the time as if the Bulldog was going away from there hungry. White was exceedingly stingy with hits, in fact downright mean about it, and they were calling up the Humane Society The Georgetown portsider had yielded just five singles, three of which were scratchy. He just about had the game in his large left hand by 4 to 2.

Beyer Refuses to Let "Cripple" Pass; Homer Results.

Then, with one on base in the ninth, White tempted the Bulldog with a straight one right in the slot, as the boys say. He fed it to John "Red" Beyer, the Yale second baseman, who was in no mood to let it go by. Beyer slammed that ball over Duplin's head in left field, in the direction of the Potomac River, and without further ado the Bulldog touched the plate twice, Beyer scoring behind Hoben. This tied the score at 4-4.

Half a meal is no meal at all, thought the Bulldog. So he went out in the tenth, after Georgetown went down one, two, three in its half of the ninth, and jumped on White for another pair of runs to win. Grove singled, Garvey doubled to right and both raced home on an overthrow of the plate by Johnny Scalzi.

It was a heart-breaker for White and also for Scalzi. Both had fairly dazzled the eye with prior brilliant work. Besides limiting the Elis to five safeties in the first eight frames, the Hilltop southpaw had fanned four and mastered the enemy batsmen generally. In the fifth with Yale men on second and third, he cut off a run at the plate by taking Pinch-hitter Billhardt's bouncer and tagging out the oncoming Hoben on the line near home; also wheeling about quickly and faking a throw to hold Billhardt on first.

Duplin's Hit Scores Scalzi With Initial Counter.

Scalzi and Duplin collaborated in the fourth to score the first run of the game. Two were out when Scalzi singled to center, stole second and romped on to third as Catcher Hoben's peg found nobody covering the middle sack. Duplin then spanked the ball to left, counting Scalzi.

Jeff Sawyer, Yale's starting pitcher, gave way to a pinch hitter, and Ogden Miller faced the Hilltoppers in the fifth. Phelan greeted him with a single, which initiated more Georgetown runs. A singe by McCarty, Dunn's second double of the game, a walk and a sacrifice manufactured three, which were the last the home boys tallied.

The first pair of Bulldog runs came in the sixth on two singles, an error and a wild pitch. Walker, who replaced Vincent at first base, made one of these singles and hit another in the triumphant tenth.

Beyer led the Yale attack with three hits, including his all-important homer, while Dunn, for the third time in five successive games, hit two doubles to feature the home offense.

Vincent, of Yale, Suffers Fractured Bone in Cheek

Fay Vincent, hard-hitting Yale University first baseman, is in Georgetown Hospital suffering from a fractured molar bone in the right cheek as a result of his collision with Ed Leary Georgetown third baseman, in the fifth inning of yesterday's game at the Hilltop.

An operation to raise the bone to its proper place may be necessary today, Dr. George M. Trible stated after treating Vincent last night. The player's condition is not serious and it is expected that he will be able to leave the hospital within a day or two.

Gardner Leads Bunion Derby Into Cumberland

Cumberland, Md., April 8 (A.P.).—Edgar Gardner, Seattle, Wash., negro, was the winner of today's lap in C. C. Pyle's New York-Los Angeles cross-country derby. He covered the 39 miles between Hancock and Cumberland in 6 hours 4 minutes and 48 seconds.

Arthur Newton, of South Africa, was second to finish, his time being 7:10:05, and Sam Richman, of New York, followed him, covering the distance in 7:20:45.

Guisto Umek, of Italy, was fourth in the day's run, with 7:33:10 for his time.

Of the early finishers, Gardner's elapsed time, 51:21:10, since the runners left New York, was so far the best as to assure him of the lead, as Johnny Salo held but a 20-minute advantage over him at this morning's start.

Today's lap, again run under a hot sun, crossed several stiff grades on spurs of the Allegheny Mountains.

First Division Place Seen For Improved White Sox By Old-School Manager

Herewith is the ninth of a series of articles dealing with the pennant prospects of all major league teams by sixteen baseball experts of the staffs of sixteen leading newspapers.

By JOHN C. HOFFMAN
(Baseball Expert, Chicago Daily News).

DALLAS, Tex., April 8.—Wall street and Babe Ruth, notwithstanding, there is a class of persons at large who either believe or hope the White Sox will reach a first division berth in the impending American League conflict. Not the least of these is Russell ("Lena") Blackburne, gentleman of the old school and manager of the Comiskey team. "Lena" has no sympathy for persons who pick the Sox to finish seventh next fall, much as he thinks they will need it.

"I base my belief that we will finish fourth on the facts that we have the fastest club in the league, one of the best pitching staffs in the majors and the number of prospective youngsters in camp," Blackburne said today.

Lena believes he has not only the most colorful ball player in the American League in Art Shires, the former Waco first baseman, but a talented guardian of the front door as well. Shires is just 21 and destined, so they say, to lead in the first basing art before the conclusion of another year. Shires is suspended at present as a result of training rule infractions, but he doubtless will return to the line-up.

Autry, Acquired in Trade, to Bolster Catching Staff.

Pale Hose partisans are satisfied the exchange of the disgruntled Bib Falk for Martin Autry has been for the better. The Sox were in dire need of a hard-hitting catcher and Manager Blackburne thinks he has just that in Autry after watching him in the conditioning grind this spring.

Autry was never able to crowd Luke Sewell from the spotlight at Cleveland, but he is nevertheless a competent backstop. Crouse and Berg, of course, will be around to help out in the receiving department.

The pitching staff is augmented this year by the return to good form of Ted Lyons and the addition of a couple of left-handers in Danny Dugan and Bob Weiland, who are no doubt bound for a place in the major league scheme of things.

Thomas, Faber and Adkins are the veterans who are anticipating better things. George Cox and Ed Walsh, jr., the Sox are hoping, will find themselves this year. Connally and Blankenship, however, are doubtful quantities.

Infield Improved With Outfield Boasting Promising Talent.

The infield is certain to have improved in quality. Bill Cissell is back at short, with one year of major league competition behind him. Kamm is as good as ever at third and Shires has about clinched the first-base job. Second base will be cared for by Bill Hunnefield and Johnny Kerr, whose sensational work with Hollywood last season had attracted the Comiskey scouts.

Metzler and Reynolds are the only certain fixtures in the outfield, though Blackburne is possessed of more promising recruits than he can tell what to do with at this stage of the season. Barrett and Hoffman, the former Sacramento outfielders, are other prospects, while Johnny Mostil is possibly as good as ever.

The competition for fly chasing has again brought out Blackerby and Randy Moore, former Texas leaguers, while another lad who will be reckoned with in the future is Johnny Watwood, whom the Sox acquired from Shreveport, after he had distinguished himself in Texas League circles.

Take it from Lena Blackburne, the Sox are not going to finish seventh.

Gallagher and Grosso To Fight at Baltimore

A return battle with Johnny Grosso, his conqueror in the semifinal bout of the Sharkey-Stribling program at Miami Beach, has been arranged for Marty Gallagher, Washington heavyweight, at Baltimore on April 20, his brother-manager Jimmie Gallagher announced yesterday.

The bout will be staged at the 104th Regiment Armory, the scene of Gallagher's recent one-round knockout of Hermen Weiner. Grosso, hailing from Mount Vernon, N. Y., is under the management of Billy Gibson, mentor of Gene Tunney before the latter retired. The Gallagher-Grosso bout was widely described as the best effort on the Miami Beach card last February 27, the Sharkey-Stribling bout notwithstanding. Grosso won the decision with a furious attack in the early rounds that Gallagher was unable to offset in the later milling.

Yale Netmen Defeat Georgetown Team, 6-3

Yale University's tennis team made it a double triumph for the Bulldog over Georgetown yesterday by scoring a victory, 6 to 3, on the Columbia Country Club courts as the Eli baseball players were defeating the Georgetown Nine at the Hilltop.

SINGLES.

Pare defeated Ryan, 6—2, 6—4; Mangin defeated Luce, 6—2, 6—2; Wright defeated Mesmer, 6—3, 6—3; Mears defeated McBride, 6—4, 9—7; Pitman defeated Callan, 6—4, 1—6, 6—1; Dixon defeated Peugnet, 6—1, 6—2.

DOUBLES.

Pare and Mesmer defeated Wright and Luce, 6—3, 6—0; Ryan and Mears defeated Mangin and Peugnet, 6—2, 6—8, 6—2; Dixon and Pitman defeated Callan and McBride, 6—4, 12—10.

Second Yale-Hilltop Game Features Day

Three games are scheduled for District college nines today, two of them on local diamonds. In the third, Maryland will engage North Carolina University at Chapel Hill.

Georgetown again takes on Yale at the Hilltop in a contest commencing at 2:30 o'clock, while Catholic opens its week's card in a clash with Mount St. Mary's, of Emmitsburg, Md., in the Brookland Stadium, starting at 3 o'clock.

In an effort to even up the series with the Elis, Coach Bucky O'Neil will send one of his two best right-handers, Harold Poole and Jack Edmonston, to the box. It is expected that Paul Donovan will catch.

BRAXTON AND HADLEY HALT M'GRAW'S TEAM; HUBBELL HAMMERED

McGraw to Ask Nats to Train At San Antonio, Tex.

Special to The Washington Post.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 8.—In case the Nationals fail to reach a satisfactory agreement with the Smokers and decide to quit Tampa as a training base, there is a possibility that they will go to San Antonio, Tex., next season. The Giants trained there this spring and found weather conditions just as good as in Florida, while they also made considerable money because of the manner in which fans of the "Lone Star" State turned out for games. Several of their contests drew crowds of 10,000 which is more than the Nationals drew at Tampa during their entire exhibition season.

"I think that Texas is ripe for big league invasions in the spring," said Secretary James J. Tierney this morning. "Manager McGraw was so pleased with San Antonio as a training base that we have signed to go there for two more years."

McGraw Intimates Desire to Train with Nationals.

McGraw, it is learned, has suggested that San Antonio try to get some American League club to train there. He has in mind playing two or three games a week with it and also having the two take a ten-day tour into Mexico. Some of the scribes traveling with the Giants declare that McGraw has intimated that he would like to get the Washington Club to join him and that he will broach the subject to President Clark Griffith when the two teams reach Washington Thursday.

There are three first class training fields in San Antonio so that the two clubs could train independently of each other. As to the weather the players say that it is just as warm as Florida in the daytime but that the air is more bracing and the nights are cool. As the Giants and the Nationals are keen rivals and find it profitable to tour North together each spring, it is quite likely that President Griffith will seriously consider any porposition made him by McGraw.

Goslins' Triple With 2 On Features Big Fourth Inning.

Hadley Whiffs Pinch Hitter With 3 On Base in Ninth.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 8.—The Nationals drew first blood in their series with the Giants when they trounced the New York Team here this afternoon before a capacity crowd, 8 to 3. Throughout most of the battle, Garland Braxton and Irving Hadley had the Giants looking more like pigmies at the bat, while their fielding and base running was far from par.

It was a southpaw battle at the start with the sensational rookie, Carl Hubbel, opposing Braxton. The latter faltered slightly in the second to grant an alien run and then tightened up and performed creditably until relieved. Hubbell not only faltered but stumbled in the fourth and the Nats scored enough runs in this frame to give them the verdict. Just for luck, however, they brought their total to eight in the eighth on the slants of Curly Ogden, a former teammate.

In hits, the Nats were credited with one more than were their opponents but they were fortunate to crowd no less than six into one frame, while the most the Giants obtained in one inning was the trio credited them in the ninth after the game, it would seem, ended.

Triples by Goslin and Tate Featured Nats' Offensive.

A triple by Goose Goslin, which scored two mates, and one by Bennie Tate which accounted for the three runs in the eighth, were the big blows of the contest. Tate tried to turn his into a homer but found the distance about 10 yards too long for him due to a great relay throw by Travis Jackson. Hayes was the only Nat to hit safely more than once, while Terry, with three bingles, led the alien attack.

Two double plays by the Bluege, Hayes and Judge trio made the Nats stand out afield while these double killings also came in quite handy from their pitchers' viewpoint.

The Giants broke the ice by scoring a run in the second session but the Nats finally got to Hubbell two frames later and jumped four runs to the good. Braxton retired the first four batters in rapid succession but Terry trippled to left with one out in the second and immediately registered on

Umpires Plan Benefit Contest for Crooke

Fellow umpires of Tom Crooke, who died as a result of a bus crash returning from a baseball game at Quantico last Thursday, formed plans in a meeting last night to sponsor the staging of a benefit game for the deceased's family.

The game was suggested by Coach J. T. Keady of the Quantico Marine team for which Crooke had umpired during the past four years. The District umpires will endeavor to secure a local college team to oppose the Marines.

President Clark C. Griffith, of the Washington Baseball Club, has offered the use of the major league park free of charge.

The umpires attended the burial of Crooke yesterday in a body. Mr. Griffith and Edward B. Eynon, secretary of the Washington Club, also attended the services at Holy Comforter Church.

PAGAN LADDIE LEADS 4 DERBY HOPES IN BOWIE RACE

Rancocas Pair Falters in Stretch

Le Bey Wins 3-horse Race, Beating Corporal Easily.

Storm King Scores By Length Over Jove in Second Race.

By CHARLES A. WATSON.

UNDER the rays of a scorching sun, four Kentucky Derby candidates furnished one of the most stirring finishes of the present Bowie meeting as they ran one, two, three, four, in a field of eleven starters, in the Mount Vernon Purse, a dash of 6 furlongs for 3-year-old colts and geldings.

To the Keeneland stud's Pagan Laddie went all the glory. The gelded son of Pagan Pan—Goldcrest Girl came from behind to earn the victory in the closing strides, and to send down to defeat the well-regarded pair from the Rancocas Stable, Donnay and Leucite, which finished in the order named.

Jockey E. Legere rode a masterful race on the winner and was clocked at 1:12 3-5 for the half-dozen furlongs. It was during the stretch run where things began to happen. Racing down the home lane like a team, the Rancocas entry lost the close decision due to the carelessness of Jockeys F. Catrone and E. Benham, who were paying more attention to the charge of the McLean Stable's Nymph King than to the onrush of the winner.

Nymph King Menaces Leaders, But Falters in Stretch.

There was a slight delay at the post, caused by the fractious actions of Searcher and False Colors. The start was a good one, however, and Donnay, Leucite and Saturday Night raced head and head for three furlongs. Here the pace became too hot for Saturday Night and he dropped back, while the entry went into a long lead.

Nymph King moved into third place rounding the turn for home and menaced the leaders momentarily, but he, too, had to give way in the stretch duel, which was to follow and be content with fourth place. Pagan Laddie was game if ever a horse could be and he finished stoutly when called upon. Only a half length separated the first two horses, with a nose dividing third place. It was very apparent that the Rancocas riders threw caution to the wind and raced their mounts into defeat by setting the sizzling pace.

With speed in reserve, the daughter of Harry Shaw-Martha Lee, a 3-to-1 shot, sent down to defeat Guy Bedwell's Forehead by a length, while another like distance away trailed Fire Rock, from the stable of Richard Pending, Bowie's superintendent.

Running a steady race and clocked at 1:49 3-5 for the route of a mile and a sixteenth, Resourceful came through the stretch run like a flash to catch the judges eye and be awarded the coveted purse.

Aversion, always a rapid beginner set a sizzling pace, but soon relinquished it to Forehead. With Jockey S. Cooper in the saddle the Bedwell flyer led the field to the sixteenth pole only to weaken in the last hundred yards and lose the decision. Fire Rock came from nowhere to get the show money. Running fifth entering the home run, the Pending gelding wore down the leaders to beat Perseth to the wire by a little over a neck. The race proved one of the day's thrillers.

Another dazzling finish was given the great Monday crowd when S. N. Frie-

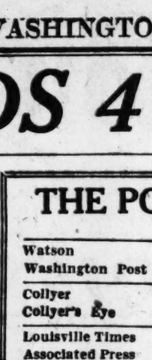
COLLYER'S COMMENT on the SPORT of KINGS

BY BERT F. COLLYER



READY, aim, fire!

Improvement is shown in the Bowie card this afternoon despite the fact five of the seven events are claiming affairs. "Baby" racers perform under allowance conditions, while the feature event of the day is the Fad and Fancies Purse for 3-year-old fillies.

READY is the hotsy totsy in the headliner. This filly was beaten by MY SIS in her first start of the season, but led most of the way and was palpably short. With any kind of luck she should go to the front and remain there throughout the five and one-half furlongs.

PHILIP, a Nevada Stock Farm juvenile, has shown the most of the youngsters competing in the opener. UPTON LAD, from the McLean barn, has been working well, while the Whitney pair have come through with fair trials. Little form has been displayed by the other eligibles.

KAI SHEK has been dropped into a soft spot in the second heat and heavy commissions have been planted in the East. This is the spot to win the spring Benny.

PIGEON WING II was a warm favorite last time out and met with considerable bad racing luck. If fortune smiles today she will run away and hide from the mavericks opposing her in the third.

Enough has been said about the fourth spasm. Just string along with READY and forget about the others.

WRENCH has much the best of the weights of those engaged in the fifth and should roll home.

KAJABA is at the top of his form and deserving of the call in the sixth, while the same applies to IRAQ in the seventh. Nuf sed.

★ DAILY RUNNING HORSE FINAL COMPLETE

THEY'RE OFF!—with CARMAC, leading Handicapper for 1926, 1927 and 1928, calling the hot shots—with HAROLD F. WALSH, the best long-shot Selector in the country, picking the richest winners—with PURCHASE, premier Selector of the New York Circuit, completing a trio that racing enthusiasts concede to be the greatest aggregation of handicapping talent ever assembled by one publication.

RACING NEWS—HANDICAPPERS—PAST PERFORMANCES—CHARTS
FEATURES — ENTRY PAGE — WORKOUTS — INDEX TO RESULTS

PAST PERFORMANCES

DAILY RUNNING HORSE Past Performances give every detail of each horse's past races. No bulky file of past charts is necessary if you read the DAILY RUNNING HORSE. Here are a few points of superiority in this publication's Past Performances—the most complete and comprehensive ever offered to the public:

1. Date and number of race instead of index number.
2. Track record for the distance, time of the winner, time of this particular horse.
3. Distance behind the winner at stretch call as well as finish—giving a quick index to the horse's ability to go a longer distance.
4. Speed rating and track variant. This gives the handicapper an instant guide to the exact handicap value of each race, as it shows the track speed as well as the speed of the individual horse on that particular day.
5. Weights and distances between horses in best company line.
6. Kind of race; whether allowance, claiming, handicap, stake, etc.
7. Record of each horse during current years; number of starts, firsts, seconds and thirds, and amount won.

ENTRY PAGE

Entries on all tracks are now grouped conveniently on the back page. Horses are listed in order of post position. Other helpful information given in connection with the entries includes Harold F. Walsh's comment and probable prices.

CHARTS

DAILY RUNNING HORSE Charts are the greatest boon to the handicapper ever offered. The time taken to complete the distance by each starter, and the distance behind the winner of each starter at the finish are a few of the details given in DAILY RUNNING HORSE Charts not offered in those published by other racing papers. Nor is close study necessary to decipher DAILY RUNNING HORSE Charts—they are not crowded or jammed together.

CHARTS INDEXED ACCORDING TO DATE

Each horse's previous race is indicated in the chart by date, track and number of race. DAILY RUNNING HORSE is the only racing paper in the east that offers this convenient and valuable feature.

ALPHABETICAL INDEX TO RESULTS

This is a concise summary of the day's races. Horses which finished first, second or third, or were withdrawn are listed in alphabetical order together with equivalent prices.

WORKOUTS

DAILY RUNNING HORSE publishes complete Workouts at all tracks, but in addition to this, Workouts of exceptional merit are marked with three stars and commented upon by the clocker. FROM MARYLAND, Beau Brummel sends his Fractional Workouts—not just the final time for the distance, but the time for the quarter, three furlongs, half-mile, etc., as well—according to the distance of the trial. The value of these Workout details to the close student of form cannot be over-estimated.

SCHOOL FANS AWAIT EASTERN-WESTERN TILT FRIDAY

Teams Clash In First of Series

Opening Contest to See Favorite Meeting "Dark Horse."

Tech-Central Battle Wednesday Also to Offer Comparison.

WHEN the Western and Eastern Hight School Baseball Teams meet Friday in Eastern Stadium in the opening game of the Public High School championship series, scholastic fans will have an opportunity to get a fair line on the prospects of the contending teams.

Eastern, a favorite, will be meeting a dark horse contender. Friday's contest will furnish a good basis for the dopesters to build their early season predictions.

The Lincoln Parkers, along with Tech, are considered the most probable series victors. The showing of the former in the opening contest will reveal just how much of last season's championship strength has been retained.

At the same time, the Western nine is likely to demonstrate just how much stronger, if any, the 1929 machine is over the team which flashed some classy baseball at times last year. Reports from the Georgetown school have been favorable and there are few to dispute the fact that the Western coaches have flashed some startling surprises in past seasons.

Tech-Central Game Offers Interesting Comparison.

From the same viewpoint, the second series game next Wednesday between Tech and Central, should prove interesting. Tech, considered Eastern's chief rival, will be meeting the other dark horse entry, so rated on preseason figures.

These two contests will serve as a criterion for the title series, as Business is considered out of the race from the start. The Stenogs have but one veteran on the squad and appear destined to trail the field.

Sam Benson to Receive Pin Medal Wednesday

Sam Benson, manager of the Georgetown Recreation Bowling Alleys and newly crowned natidnal all-events duckpin champion, will be honored Wednesday night at his home establishment when Harry Z. Greer, president of the National Duckpin Bowling Congress and Washington City Duckpin Association, will present him with the diamond medal emblematic of the highest homor awarded by the Congress.

Benson's 1,141 total pinfall at Richmond came as a climax to his most successful campaign against the small pins. His individual averages in Georgetown Recreation and Clarendon Commercial Leagues are 113 and 115, respectively. He also holds high game and high set records in both of these leagues.

As an added feature Wednesday night, Benson and E. Bromley, who finished fourth in the national doubles championships, will meet George L. Isemann, secretary of the N. D. P. B. C., and Al Fischer, former national singles champ, in a five-game match.

Army Poloists Open Season Here April 20

The local polo season will open on Saturday, April 20, when the War Department Polo Club will stage a match on the Potomac Park oval. High ranking Government officials are expected to be present for the inaugural.

Due to the addition of several new capable players to the city's mallet-wielding ranks, interest is mounting this spring in local polo. A new departure from custom this spring will be training periods for green ponies on days of play. In the early season, at least, two pony-training periods will be scheduled. These periods will go far toward effecting faster play from the ponies later on.

At present the following officers, on duty in the War Department, are being counted on to participate at the outset of play:

Col. Robert C. Foy, Col. George Williams, Maj. George S. Patton, jr., Maj. Ralph I. Sasse, Maj. Adna R. Chaffee, Maj. E. J. Dawley, Maj. W. D. Crittenberger, Maj. E. G. Cullum, Maj. John Eager, Maj. R. E. D. Hoyle, Maj. T. D. Milling, Maj. Ralph Talbot, Capt. Alonzo P. Fox, Capt. Thomas W. Hastey, Capt. L. A. Shafer and First Lieut. Myron R. Wood.

TREND TOWARD SANE GOLF WEAR NOTICED

bers of the naive races have laid down their lives resisting the white man's efforts to compel them to tuck their's in by force of arms. The appointed way to wear the golfing sweater is with the tail out of the pants and the golfer who yields the principle for a manufacturer's $250 seems a bit venal.

Old Scottish Pros Hold Out For Good Old Long Pants.

Most startling of all the changes glimpsed by a casual eye, however, was the adoption of slacks or adult trousers for golfing purposes by a considerable number of golfers. Of course, some of the older Scottish professionals operating in this country never did wear bloomers, having been fetched up under the British caste system which held that bloomers were the distinguishing uniform of the club member or gentleman and straight pants, the uniform of the club employees, of whom the pro was one.

But aside from these few, practically all-American golfers, wore bloomers until this season when an independent, strong-minded element apparently decided that this would be one way to distinguish themselves from messenger boys, hitch hikers and lady campers. I do not insist that this was their idea in making the change, but it seems a reasonable explanation.

NATIONALS SUBDUE GIANTS IN OPENER

Jackson's infield out. Fullis followed with a double but was left.

Braxton then settled down and granted but two hits during the remainder of his stay on the hill. With two out in the fifth, O'Farrell tripled over West's head and probably could have scored on the clout had he obeyed the coacher's signals. He stopped at third, however, and died there. The final safety charged against Braxton was of the infield variety, by Reese, with one out in the sixth. Myer was able to stop the ball after a diving effort but was in no position to make the play at first.

Hubbell literally had the Nats eating out of his hand during the first three sessions. Hayes opened the third with a single to center but was nipped trying to stretch the blow an extra base. Then Johnson's team suddenly showed some life.

West opened this fourth frame with a single to center and all hands were safe when Myer scratched one past Jackson, the Giant short fielder, knocking down the ball, but being unabel to handle it cleanly. Goslin then tripled both runners home. Barnes walked and after Bluege fanned, O'Farrell was charged with a passed ball which let the Goose register and Barnes carry on to third, from where he tallied on Judge's single. The latter stole, advanced on Hayes' scratch hit to Lindstrom and came home after Fullis' cacth of Ruel's long fly.

Hadley Fans Three in Row, Including Pinch Hitter.

Hadley took the mound in the Giants seventh and fanned Ott. After Terry lined a single to center, "Bump" then whiffed Jackson and Rouse, the latter taking Fullis' place at the tee. O'Farrell opened the eighth with a single, but this was labeled "no good" by the Bluege to Hayes to Judge combination, which turned Pinch Hitter Hogan's roller into a double play.

A timely triple off Bennie Tate's bat with two out and bases full, gave the Nats three more runs in their half, after Barnes and Bluege had singled and Judge had walked to fully people the sacks.

The Giants staged a rally in the ninth which netted two runs and had the bases loaded when the final out was turned in. With one gone, Lindstrom walked and singles by Ott and Terry helped him complete the circuit. After Jackson lofted to Goslin in short left, Rouse singled, filling the bases. One runner was forced over when O'Farrell walked, but Hadley then ended the game by fanning Henry, who was sent to the plate to hit for Ogden.

Playground Baseball Leagues Open Today

The first organized baseball of the season will be launched by the Municipal Playground Department this afternoon when nine games will be played in the interschool and interclass tourneys. Before the end of the present week all of the playground leagues will be in full swing.

About 40 baseball leagues, composed of about 400 teams, have been organized by the play-ground directors this spring. The interschool sections will eventually declare champions in both junior and senior groups, who will play in June for the city championship.

Today's games follow:

Park View School interclass—8A vs. 5B; Stuart Junior High interclass—7A vs. 7B; 8A vs. 8B; Brent vs. Ketcham; Force vs. Grant; Addison vs. Curtis-Hyde; Eckington vs. Woodridge; Pierce vs. Benning; Blow vs. Benning Juniors.

Tomorrow's games will be: Payne vs. St. Ann's; F. Hutchinson vs. K. Hutchinson; Wann vs. Johnson; Burroughs vs. Brookland; Congress Heights vs. Buchanan; Janney vs. E. V. Brown; Brookland vs. John Burroughs (junior); Ludlow vs. Taylor; Arthur vs. Thomson; Wheatley vs. Kenilworth; Wheatley vs. Benning (junior); E. V. Brown interclass league, 6A vs. 5B; Birney interclass league, 7A vs. 8B.

PUBLIC PARKS TO SPONSOR MEET

A. A. U. Track and Field Events Gain Grant's Backing.

A FORERUNNER to a revival of interest in track and field games here was seen yesterday when it was announced that the senior track and field championships of the South Atlantic Association of the Amateur Athletic Union will be held in Central Stadium this spring under the auspices of the Welfare Recreation Association of the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks.

The announcement was made by Ernest J. Spitzer, A. A. U. commissioner for the District, after a conference with Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of public buildings and public parks, and Winfree E. Johnson, supervisor of athletics. The date for the meet will be determined within the next few days after a study of the local athletic calendar. However, is is expected that a date late in May or early in June will be decided on.

Col. Grant Sees Meet as Stimulating Sports Here.

Col. Grant received the idea of sponsoring the meet with enthusiasm and expressed confidence that the interest here in track and field athletics in particular and amateur sports in general would be materially increased as a result of staging the games.

Local high school and college athletes, in addition to club athletes, will look upon the South Atlantic meet as an opportunity to compete under most excellent conditions, and requiring no travel or expense on their part.

The meet in no way will conflict with the movement on foot to establish a District of Columbia Association of the A. A. U.

Springston Lauded At American U. Fete

G. Baillie Springston, retiring coach of American University, last night was the guest of honor at a banquet given by the university for the Eagle Basket Ball Team, members of which were awarded the varsity "A" and gold basket balls.

Lucius C. Clark, chancellor of the university, lauded the work of Springston during his four years' association with the athletes of the institution. "Mr. Springston has brought us out in athletics in a remarkable way," Chancellor Clark said.

Varsity letters and gold basket balls were awarded by Dr. William B. Holton, chairman of the faculty athletic committee to the following: Capt.-elect Dave Lichliter, Bruce Kessler, Leon Schloss, Forrest Burgess, Jack La Favre, retiring captain, and Manager James J. Johnston.

Leland Field, Herbert Elliott, William Washburn and Carl Levine, all of whom did not participate in enough games to win letters, were presented gold basket balls.

B. Y. P. U. LEAGUE.

First Baptist basketeers won the championship of the B. Y. P. U. Girls Basket Ball League last night by defeating West Washington 31 to 20, in a rough but well-played game in the Wilson Normal Gymnasium. The First Baptists have now won the title three years in succession, thereby gaining permanent possession of the league trophy.

The winners led at all times, chiefly through their good passwork, but were given a stubborn fight by the West Washington players. At half time the score was 16 to 5. Miss McManaway was the high scorer of the fray, with six baskets and nine fouls for 21 points.

PAGAN LADDIE WINS BOWIE STRETCH DUEL

del's Intrepid won the sixth race, of a mile and a sixteenth, in 1:49. Just up in time to win by a nose from Golden Tinted, the winner skimmed the rail and passed the tiring pacemakers in a stretch duel to be declared the winner.

Third to cross the line was Turkey's Neck, from the barn of Mrs. J. W. Bean, of Washington. Margate finished fourth of the twelve to go to the post.

Summer-like weather again prevailed and the throng roasted in the rays of the blistering sun. The track was fast and favorites shared generously in all the purses. Many close finishes were recorded in the various events.

Vice President Charles Curtis was a guest of the Southern Maryland Agricultural Association, and he was greeted by his many friends among clubhouse assemblage.

Le Bay Wins Under Wraps In Three-Horse Fifth Race.

The programmed main attraction of the day, the Old Virginia Purse, over the mile and sixteenth distance, proved a flop, as only three horses went to the post.

The winner was provided in Jefferson Livingston's Preakness hope, Le Bey, which romped home under the wire a length ahead of Corporal, racing for the stable of R. L. Freeman. Golden Mac brought up the rear, pulled up, many lengths away.

Covering the distance in 1:47 1-5 the 7-year-old son of Ali Bey—Lodz, with George Fields astride, finished under wraps. The three horses left the stalls together and raced evenly to the clubhouse turn, where Le Bey went to the front and was never headed. Golden Mac moved into second place coming for home, but could not keep up with the dazzling pace and dropped out of contention. Jockey J. C. Mergler made a bold bid for honors with Corporal, but the winner, with speed in reserve, just loped home to pay the shortest price of the day, 4 to 10. William T. and Grier of Spain were declared out of it just before post time.

Donn Bon Finishes Fast to Earn Decision in Third.

The third race, of seven furlongs for maiden 3-year-olds, resulted in victory for Donn B n. racing in the colors of J. Opperman. Running the distance in 1:27, the winner was pounds the best to defeat Sun de Meur by a length and a half. Close behind, a nose away, ran Virginia T., a field choice, to finish third.

Donn Bon was slow to leave the gate and trailed the field for the better part of the journey. Colonel's Daughter set all the early pace. Jockey A. Robertson, on the winner, came through the pack rounding the turn for home and finished fast in the middle of the home lane to earn the decision.

F. P. Fitzgerald claimed Rockador and G. F. Jenkins took the winner out of the race for $2,500 each.

AUTH TEAM DRILLS.

Manager "Bill" Sanderson has scheduled practice sessions for his Auth unlimited players today and Thursday at 5 o'clock on Monument diamond No. 10.

Sanderson is well pleased with the showing of his candidates to date and is confident his charges will make a strong bid for the Capital City League unlimited championship this year.

JOHNSONS NEED PLAYERS.

The Walter Johnson Pewees are seeking five additional players for their club. Address Eddie Ackerman, manager, at 54 M street northwest, apartment 210, or phone Franklin 10090.

LEADS TARHEEL MATMEN.

Chapel Hill, N. C., April 8.—Wayne Woodard, crack sophomore wrestler, has just been elected to captain the University of North Carolina mat squad next season. Woodard lost only one bout in eight starts during his first varsity season, just past.

HEBREW INTERCLUB LEAGUE.

VISTA CLUB (512, 537, 610)—Reiness, 109, 129, 150; Koledin, 97, 106, 109; Scheer, 100, 105, 123; Goodman, 108, 97, 125; Bortnick, 101, 90, 103. MARDELLE (501, 482, 500)—Wolfson, 112, 106, 87; Silverman, 84; Horowitz, 86, 92; Sherr, 107, 83, 103; Yaffy, 107, 86, 107; Wasserman, 91, 121, 111.

TWO INNINGS BRING TECH VICTORY

Washington and Lee High Hurlers Are Hit Freely.

TWO big innings were enough for the Tech. High Nine to win over Washington and Lee High yesterday, 12 to 5, at Alexandria. The victory marked the second in as many starts for the Manual Trainers.

"Tack" Ensor hurled six innings for Tech and although touched for nine hits, worked with enough to spare to turn in a creditable performance. Batson, a diminutive right-hander, pitched the last three innings in good fashion.

Tech went scoreless until the fourth, when it opened a barrage of base hits for five runs. It duplicated in the fifth inning by scoring five more to get the game safely in tow. Two runs were scored in the seventh for good measure.

Spigel and Eaton Hit Triples For Respective Teams.

Wellens, Drissel and Spigel were the extra-base hitters for Tech, the first two named clouting out doubles with the latter hitting one for three bases. McPherson, Connor and McQuinn hit doubles for Washington and Lee, while Eaton connected for a triple. Hall started on the mound for the Virginians, followed by Germaine, who in turn retired in favor of McQuinn. All three were hit hard.

Eastern High Defeats Swavely Nine by 14-2

The Eastern High School Nine looked like the team the experts picked it to be yesterday in winning a 14 to 2 game from Swavely Prep of Manassas, Va. Beaten by Episcopal in a ragged contest last Saturday, 13 to 10, Coach Guyon's Nine came back strong to slug out a one-sided victory.

Eastern collected 15 hits off of Carr. Swavely hurler, while five were all that the latter club could get off of the combined offerings of Phillips, Curtin and Hanna, Eastern pitchers. Coach Guyon used two complete combinations in the field with good results as the score brings out.

Including the high school series clash on Friday, the Eastern Nine will play every day for the remainder of the week. Today Devitt is scheduled at the Eastern Stadium followed by Emerson tomorrow, Gonzaga on Thursday, Western on Friday and the Quantico Marines on Saturday. This latter game will be played at Quantico, Va.

Maryland Freshmen Rout Business, 18-11

University of Maryland Freshmen opened their baseball season with an 18 to 11 win over Business High School of Washington yesterday. It was a free-hitting, loose-fielding game and except Hauver, Maryland's starting pitcher, who did well, the work of all the hurlers was mediocre.

Racing Season in Maryland Eclipsing All Past Campaigns

THE spring racing season in Maryland, which was launched during the past week at Jim O'Hara's popular Bowie track, promises to eclipse all former sessions of early racing in the Old Line State. Not only is there an increased interest on the part of the racing public thus far, but horsemen themselves are anticipating keenly the forthcoming renewals of the more important stake events at Havre de Grace and Pimlico.

The Harford Agricultural and Breeders Association have listed four $10,000 events, namely, the Harford Handicap, Philadelphia Handicap, Aberdeen Stakes and the Chesapeake Stakes while the Maryland Jockey Club will again take the spotlight during the latter part of April with the sixth running of the classic $25,000 Dixie Handicap and the famous $50,000 Preakness.

Trainer T. J. Healy, is prepping W. J. Salmon's Display for the Dixie and several impressive moves have been recorded. Intimate friends of Johnny Maiben, who piloted Display so successfully in many important stakes, declare it is doubtful if the riding star of the Salmon barn will return to the saddle this year. Rumors about the paddock lead one to believe that Maiben and not Tom Healy is the master of the Salmon Stable. Should he not return to the track it is believed the racing colors of the New York sportsman will be missing from many of the more important events the coming season.

The thousands of racing enthusiasts that jammed the Bowie oval on Saturday poured over $700,000 into the mutuel iron men during the afternoon. Fourteen thousand programs were sold.

Ral Parr, of Baltimore, motored over to the track Sunday with a party of friends to look over his thoroughbreds, left in the care of the Washington trainer, Elmer Trueman.

Earl Sande tipped the scales this morning at 108½. The Idaho blond is ready now to take the track and once more thrill the stands with his brilliant riding.

Samuel Riddle, master of the powerful Glenn Riddle Farm, located at Glen Riddle, Pa., will race at Pimlico again this spring after several years' absence. Riddle broke with the Pimlico management two years ago when Handicapper Frank Bryan asked his racing star Crusader to pack extreme weight over Walter M. Jeffords' Edith Cavell. Jeffords, a close relative to the owner of the Glen Riddle Stable, will also race at the hilltop. Eighteen thoroughbreds under the care of Scott Harlan are now training at the Pimlico oval. Eddie Ambrose, former ace of the McLean Stable, has been obtained as the first-string rider.

F. H. Smith will ship his stable to Belmont Park at the close of the meeting.

Jockey C. Emes, contract rider for W. J. Potter, was an arrival today. There are more than 100 riders now on the grounds, with George Fields leading the field at the end of the first five days racing. "Sonny" Workman resumes riding tomorrow after five days' suspension.

There is much disapproval among the patrons of Prince Georges Park over the tardiness of racing officials in running the events. Too much time is being allotted between races which results in the fans reaching their homes sometimes as late as 8 o'clock. If a time limit is set between each event for the wagering, late betters would speed up a bit and those desiring to get away at a reasonable hour would not be inconvenienced by those who lag before the machines waiting for posttime.

Emil Herz, New York oralizer, whose future book on the Kentucky Derby is accepted as the most authentic line in the country, was among the clubhouse guests today.

Frank J. Brady, treasurer of the Laurel State Fair, was in conference with Woods Dickerson, superintendent at Laurel, today. The entire track will be resurfaced and reconstructed for the fall meeting. Work will commence tomorrow.

Capital City Midget Nines Gather Tonight

Baseball teams contemplating entering the Capital City League Midget Division and the American Legion series are urged to have representatives at a meeting tonight at 8 o'clock in the Municipal Playground Department office, Room 2, of the District Building.

Managers of the teams and athletic officers of the Legion posts wishing to sponsor teams are expected to attend. Each team is requested to have no more than two representatives present.

Plans will be made for the season and team and individual entry blanks will be distributed.

SINGLE IN 8TH DEFEATS MD. NINE, 4-3

Phipps Weakens After Holding N. C. State in Check.

Special to The Washington Post.

RALEIGH, N. C., April 8.—A single into right field by Bill Brake, sophomore honor roll student, scored two runs, to give North Carolina State a 4 to 3 win over the University of Maryland Nine today.

Brake's deciding bingle followed a similar blow by Hargrove and a double by Woodworth in the eighth inning, when Maryland held the lead, 3 to 2. Brake's hit prevented George Phipps, crack Maryland hurler, from repeating his victory over the Wolfpack last season here. He had also won against State at College Park last year.

Maryland Took Lead in First On Walk and Two Singles.

Maryland secured three runs off Sandy Shore in the first inning, when Derr was walked and McGann, Radice and Kessler singled. Bill Averetta, sophomore, relieved Shore and yielded but three hits the rest of the way. Averette got in trouble, but came out nicely in the seventh, when he walked Radice and Lethetzer doubled, to send him to third. But two strikeouts and an infield play stopped the threat.

State squeezed one home in the third, when Phipps hit Averette, who went to third when Radice threw the ball over first base into the stands, and came home on Melton's center field single. Another Wolfpack run came in the fourth, Woodworth gaining first on the infield error, stole second and scored on Eatman's single into left field. The score rocked on toward the end with Phipps the master of ceremonies until Brake broke up the game after being walked twice and struck out once.

YOUR BOY—YOUR GIRL

By ARTHUR DEAN, SC. D.
The Parent Counselor.

High School Athletics.

PLAY is a very potent ally of education. Any school activity that evokes such zestful efforts on part of players or spectators as athletics must have profound effects on the habits and attitudes determining character.

According to the critics athletics was once the side show in the educational circus, while now, under the influence of alumni, outside public and publicity, it tends to be the most absorbing topic of school conversation, news or propaganda.

We all know, or know about, Coach Alonzo A. Stagg, of the University of Chicago. He is not only a remarkable athlete but he is also a serious and able thinker upon the true value of athletics and its proper place in an educational system. He says in part: "Athletics employs leisure in wholesome and beneficial ways. Athletics provides an outlet for a youth's animal spirits and so prevents expression in explosive ways that are immoral. . . . Athletics are one of the strongest forces now operating to counteract the serious moral let-down in the relations of men and women."

A psychologist whose name is not given in Undergraduates, a study of morale in 23 colleges and universities, dissents. He says in part: "Now that intercollegiate athletics are under fire, the defenders have been quick to proclaim the moral value of participation in sports—especially football. It is claimed that athletics develop certain sterling virtues of manhood and womanhood, which are listed as cooperation, clean and fair play, unselfishness, obedience, grit and determination, clean sex living, quick thinking and the fighting spirit. . . . The immediate objective of college sports is a winning team. The game in every case is played to win, not to develop character in the players. The players cooperate, they fight, they obey, &c., because the rules and the coach tell them to, not because of any moral principles involved. . . . The argument that football develops a character quality of fair play in a player who would if he could 'play dirty' is like saying that coin boxes on street cars are devices for developing honesty in the conductors. The point is that those who claim moral training for sports make the mistake of assuming that character traits are acquired by going through the motions."

Personally, I hold, but obviously I am prejudiced, that if every boy and girl participated in intramural sports as well as inter-scholastic, and became thoroughly grounded in good sportsmanship, fair play, self control, clean living, team play, and respect for the rules of the game (these are the qualities which are supposed to come out of athletics), the problem of sex among boys and girls would be very nearly eliminated.

Clean living would become more manly and womanly than unclean living. The more athletics is definitely brought under the control of the school faculty, the more the emphasis is placed upon getting into the game and out of the bleachers seat, the greater will these character forming qualities become the common property of all students. I think that too small a percentage of students take actual part in athletics. Only the few favored by natural attributes are equal to athletics as conducted in most schools.

But here are the questions. Clip, fill out and send. Never mind about a return envelope today—or even the signing of your name. A letter about what you think will be a great aid in the survey which this column is making of the problems and activities of boys and girls of high school age. This is an important matter, my young friends, and is done entirely in your interest. It requires your support. Get your pencil—go!

1. If you are not "athletic material" does the school interest itself in your welfare enough to provide sports for you instead of expecting you to provide encouragement to the huskies who "make the team?" .....
2. Is your school afflicted with "spectatoritis" and are you getting your exercise vicariously? .....
3. Are you sick and tired of all this mass excitation of pep rallies, avowed scorn of opponents and fierce insistence on loyalty and blah blah? .....
4. If a student fumbles or blunders in a game does he have a stigma against his name which sticks? .....
5. Do the athletic leaders develop enlarged ego? .....
6. Do they get most of the class offices? .....
7. Do they seem to expect hero-worship? .....
8. Is your school faculty emphasizing the educational value of athletics and play? .....
9. Are the athletes in your school favored in the classroom and not required to meet the same scholastic requirements that are required of you? .....
10. Is football drudgery or sport to those who play? .....

Wives of Tomorrow

"Forced Marriage."

THERE is, perhaps, no more tragic or horrible thing in life than the thing we call "forced" marriage—that situation when two people stand apart and really see each other for the first time through a haze of hate, shame and mutual misery. Usually the mutual misery is all that they have left in common—except the responsibility that brings about their plight. And the misery mercifully often becomes a bond. Otherwise the horror of the procedure would be beyond human endurance. But the bond holds, and as time goes on habit rescues reason.

But there are exceptions. And for the benefit of thousands of girls we offer a letter—and a solution.

"I am just 20 and a mother. My husband did not want to marry me or give the baby his name, although he knew he was the only one in my life and the baby's father. I loved him better than life and had for two years. He loved me at first, but soon tired, then my misfortune came, and he ran away and left me. I begged him to marry me, so I would not have to tell my folks, but he just quit school and went to N. Y. I had to tell my people—what could I do? They told his father—and his father brought him back, and made him marry me. Then he gave us money and we both went to N. Y.

"I nearly died. I was homesick, and heartbroken, and he has never forgiven me. Baby is so dear and cunning. I can not see how he can ignore her. But he does. She is seven months old. My health is once more all right, and I want to ask you what I should do. I have done everything to win my husband's love, but he says it 'disgusts' him to talk about it and he wants a divorce. I adore everything about him. I cook his meals and get comfort out of that. He eats in silence and goes out. He has never taken me out on the street even once. Baby hasn't been to church yet to be christened. It breaks my heart, the dear little thing. Do you think if I can be patient that he will love me again—or is that a vain hope? He does not hesitate to accuse me of 'tricking' him—when he knows that I adored him and merely suffered with him for our weakness. Is there any hope?"

And the hope is that this poor child may quickly give the yellow-tinted husband his much coveted freedom, and find in the course of time real love herself. All that they two have known is the physical effects of physical magnetism. Their attraction had no foundation, and, even had no "misfortune" descended, their marriage would have failed. Once more this poor child must go to her parents and his and ask for help, her one consolation being that physical attraction does not survive separation. She can not, of course, forget her Gethsemane. But she will soon forget the things that bind her now—the sound of his voice, the set of his head—physical things—things readily forgetable.

Ghastly that these things are. The cruel disillusions went, the moments of sick loathing, the agony of heartache, the baby, lovely as any other baby ready to love the father who will be as unknown as he is unworthy. Life, this is an age of supposed light.

Will it be ever thus?

Record Swim Effort Fails by Single Hour

Jacksonville, Fla., April 8 (A.P.).—Norris Kellam, 300-pound self-styled "human cork," today failed by one hour of equaling the world's endurance swimming record of 72 hours and 2½ minutes when he collapsed in a bathing pool here. He entered the water at 9:55 a. m. last Friday.

AT NIGHT JIM'S SLEEP, FOR SOME STRANGE REASON WAS FILLED WITH DREAMS OF MOLLY MARSDEN AND HER KINDLY FIRST AID TREATMENT—
"AN' I'D FEEL A HEAP SAFER IF YOU WAS ONLY GOIN' ALONG WITH US, MISTER!"
ONE MORNING, AFTER JEFF MARSDEN'S WAGON TRAIN HAD BEEN GONE A WEEK, RAWLINS SUDDENLY JUMPED ON HIS HORSE AND STARTED INTO THE HILLS IN THE DIRECTION OF THE BLACK FEET CAMP—
I MUST SEE "BLUE CLOUD" AT ONCE!!
WHAT IS JIM UP TO NOW? WHY DOES HE WISH TO SEE THE RED MAN? SEE TOMORROW'S EPISODE!

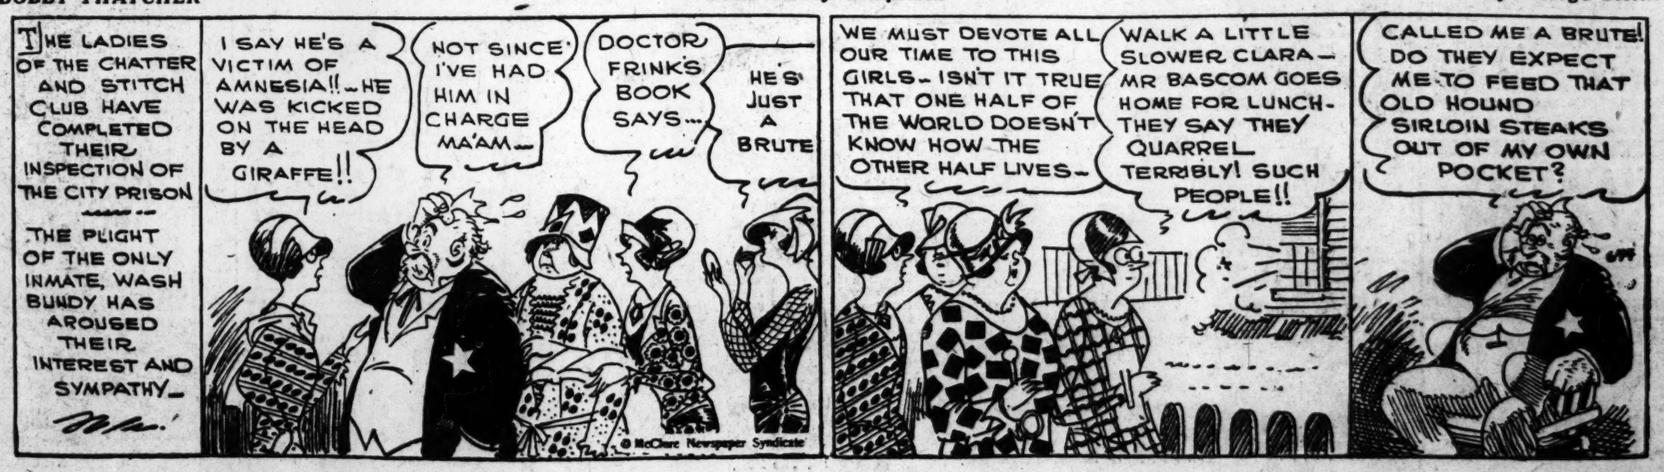
The Survey Completed

By George Storm



THE LADIES OF THE CHATTER AND STITCH CLUB HAVE COMPLETED THEIR INSPECTION OF THE CITY PRISON— THE PLIGHT OF THE ONLY INMATE, WASH BUNDY HAS AROUSED THEIR INTEREST AND SYMPATHY—
I SAY HE'S A VICTIM OF AMNESIA!!—HE WAS KICKED ON THE HEAD BY A GIRAFFE!!
NOT SINCE I'VE HAD HIM IN CHARGE MA'AM—DOCTOR FRINK'S BOOK SAYS...
HE'S JUST A BRUTE
WE MUST DEVOTE ALL OUR TIME TO THIS GIRLS— ISN'T IT TRUE THAT ONE HALF OF THE WORLD DOESN'T KNOW HOW THE OTHER HALF LIVES—
WALK A LITTLE SLOWER CLARA— MR BASCOM GOES HOME FOR LUNCH— THEY SAY THEY QUARREL TERRIBLY! SUCH PEOPLE!!
CALLED ME A BRUTE! DO THEY EXPECT ME TO FEED THAT OLD HOUND SIRLOIN STEAKS OUT OF MY OWN POCKET?

Our Pledge
To the Public on USED CAR SALES

1 Every used car is conspicuously marked with its price in plain figures, and that price, just as the price of our new cars, is rigidly maintained.

2 All STUDEBAKER automobiles which are sold as CERTIFIED CARS have been properly reconditioned, and carry a 30-day guarantee for replacement of defective parts and free service on adjustments.

3 Every purchaser of a used car may drive it for five days, and then, if not satisfied for any reason, turn it back and apply the money paid as a credit on the purchase of any other car in stock—new or used. (It is assumed that the car has not been damaged in the meantime.)

NEW MUSIC SCHOOL FOR CLASSIC CHANT STUDY TO RISE HERE

Catholic University Accepts Offer of Dom Mocquereau Scola Foundation.

DEAN DES LONGCHAMPS WILL HEAD INSTITUTION

Site for New Building on University's Campus Already Is Chosen.

Announcement of the establishment of a school of liturgical music at Catholic University of America through the income from a $1,000,000 trust fund made available by the Dom Mocquereau Scola Cantorum Foundation, a New York Corporation, was made last night by the Right Rev. James H. Ryan, rector of the university.

The income is immediately available and the executive committee of the University's Board of Trustees, who completed details in connection with the establishment, have authorized the university to offer the first course in liturgical music at the coming Summer season.

Plans in connection with the establishment of the school call for construction of a building to house it, and the board of trustees already has assigned a site on the campus for the building. Work will be begun at once.

Leaders to Comprise Faculty.

The Rev. William J. DesLongchamps, who has been professor of music at the university for the last four years, has been elected to the rank of dean of the school of liturgical music and will have charge of its administration. Dean DesLongchamps will be assisted by a faculty which he will personally organize. The faculty will be recruited from leaders of international fame in their respective fields.

The school will confine its work exclusively to the field of chant and classical church music and will not engage in general musical education. Its fundamental purpose, it is announced, is to build up a better understanding and appreciation of Gregorian chant and of classical polyphony. All modern vocal church music, composed since Palestrina, is excluded from the objectives of the school.

This exclusion is in line with the policy of Dom Mocquereau Schola Cantorum Foundation, the corporation whose funds make possible the establishment of the school. The foundation's sole object, it is pointed out, is education in Gregorian chant and classic polyphony and other closely allied branches of music.

Open Only to Undergraduates.

The school at Catholic University will be open only to undergraduate students preparing for the degree of bachelor of science in music. The school's aim will be not only to prepare choir leaders and teachers of church music, but also research students in the various departments of this branch of artistic knowledge.

Courses will be offered by the school in liturgical music, school music, applied music, theory, harmony, counterpoint and fugue and graduate courses leading to higher degrees.

In connection with his announcement of the establishment of the school, Mgr. Ryan said:

"The university accepts this gift with gratitude and pledges itself to the perpetuation and development of the ideals which actuate the donors. The School of Liturgical Music will be a noteworthy addition to the educational and artistic life of the City of Washington.

Termed Greatest Heritage.

"Classical church music is one of our greatest artistic heritages. We hope that from the Catholic University School of Liturgical Music there will go forth not merely trained students of the best in the liturgical music of the Church, but there will issue, too, inspiration and aid toward the development in the United States of the best and highest in music of every type.

"We are concentrating here on liturgical music because we think that Catholic University is peculiarly adapted to the study and production of this special type of music. We look forward happily to the effects of this experiment which we are to conduct on music in general.

"Music lovers who appreciate the close ties which have always bound together church and secular music can not but welcome the establishment of a school with such high classical ideals as we intend to conduct. They will watch, I feel sure, the course of its work with great pleasure and expectancy."

SAILOR, IN FLAMES, LEAPS INTO WATER

Robert Knott Badly Burned as Gasoline Is Ignited; Is Taken to Hospital.

BOAT SLIGHTLY DAMAGED

His clothing blazing from gasoline which had exploded practically in his face, Robert Knott, 21 years old, a member of the crew of the two-masted schooner Sawyer, leaped into the waters of the Potomac River at the wharf at Tenth and Water streets last night and swam about under water until the flames were extinguished. He was unable to swim on the surface because of blazing gasoline which floated atop the water after his plunge.

Knott was thrown a line by Capt. Frank Jones and Mate Charles Goldboro and pulled back aboard. Then he was sent to Emergency Hospital. His condition is said to be serious. Capt. Jones also suffered burns to his hands and arms.

While Knott was being pulled from the water and sent to the hospital several fire companies arrived and extinguished the blaze on the boat, several parts of the schooner igniting under the blazing petrol spray. Little damage was done to the vessel.

Capt. Jones stated that the boat was prepared to pull out for the lower Potomac waters to take on a load of cord wood when the can of gasoline which Knott was carrying exploded.

Presence of mind on the part of Knott in leaping into the waters is the only thing that saved his life, the other members of the crew said. Doctors at the hospital, however, said that extinguishing the flames with water made the burns more severe.

Knott is an expert swimmer. He resides at 318 McLean avenue southwest.

Firm Drops Plan On Abattoir Site

Auth Company Abandons Proposed Arlington Slaughterhouse.

Formal announcement is made by the N. Auth Provision Co. this morning of abandonment of its plan to erect an abattoir on property it owns in Arlington County, Va. Withdrawal of the company leaves the proposed abattoir's opponents victorious.

In "An Open Letter to the Women of the District of Columbia, Nearby Virginia and Maryland," the company, quoting from a resolution adopted by its directors, says:

"Resolved, That in deference to the requests of the residents of Arlington County, Va., civic association and other citizens of the District of Columbia, the National Park Planning Commission, the Fine Arts Commission, and other public officials, this company has concluded to withdraw its application to the board of supervisors of Arlington County, Va., for a permit for the erection of an abattoir upon its property located in Arlington County, Va."

Directors of Palestine Fund Drive Appointed

Mrs. John M. Safer, former president of Hadassah, the women's Zionist organization, last night was chosen chairman of the women's division of the $35,000 United Palestine Appeal, to be held here May 5 to 19, a meeting of the administrative committee of the drive at the Jewish Community Center.

Rabbi Louis J. Schwefel, of the Sixth Street Synagogue, was chosen head of the men's division of the drive. Louis E. Spiegler, chairman of the administrative committee, outlined the scope of the campaign and urged early organization of workers into teams.

Widow of Gen. Wahl Asks Estate Direction

Maj. Gen. Lutz Wahl, adjutant general of the Army, who died on December 30, left an estate valued at $86,017. The officer died intestate and his widow, Mrs. Fenella H. Wahl, petitioned the District Supreme Court for letters of administration.

The petition, filed through Maj. F. G. Munson, of the adjutant general's office, stated that Gen. Wahl owned real estate valued at $5,314 and possessed $8,503 in personal property. Other than the widow, two daughters, Gretchen Wahl and Barbara Wahl, the latter an infant, and a son, Capt. George D. Wahl, of Fort Leavenworth, Kans., survive.

Four Officers of Navy Win Life Saving Medals

Three ensigns and a lieutenant in the Navy have been awarded the silver life-saving medal for heroism displayed in rescuing drowning persons, it was announced yesterday at the Navy Department.

They are Ensign William H. Ashford, attached to the Naval Air Station at Pensacola; Lieut. Albert K. Morehouse, on duty at the Naval Air Station at Pensacola; Ensign William O. Britton, Reserve, of Newark, N. J., and Ensign Clinton D. Case, Reserve, of Madison, Wis.

R. W. Straus Again Heads Federation; Capital Man Made Executive.

The charity exemplified by the Jewish race throughout history, and the aid of that race in the building of the United States was praised last night by Secretary of Labor James J. Davis in an address before the National Federation of Temple Brotherhoods at the Jewish Community Center.

"With the exception of one man, who was a Welshman, a Jew, Hayman Salamon, gave to America more money to win her independence than any other man," said Secretary Davis, "and the American people never repaid these men for the large sums that they contributed toward the American cause.

"One could rake the world with a fine-tooth comb to find a people whose devotion to charity is so keen as that of the Jews," Secretary Davis said. He closed his address with a tribute to Roger W. Straus, son of the late Oscar Straus, Ambassador to Turkey and Cabinet member, who, earlier in the day, was reelected president by the brotherhoods.

The third biennial convention of the brotherhoods ended last night.

At the closing business session, the delegates decided to sponsor good-will meetings between Jews and non-Jews throughout the United States. The proposal to erect a national temple in Washington was passed on to the parent organization, the Union of American Hebrew Congregations for action.

Arnold Schmidt, of Brooklyn, N. Y., was elected first vice president; Judge Joseph L. Kun, of Philadelphia, second vice president; Albert C. Weihl, of Cincinnati, treasurer; George Zepin, of Cincinnati, executive secretary, and Arnold L. Reinhart and Louis I. Egelson, both of Cincinnati, assistant executive secretaries. They were elected by the executive board of the federation.

The brotherhoods vote dto hold the next convention in 1931 at Philadelphia.

Allen V. De Ford, a Washington man, president of the Washington Hebrew Congregation Brotherhood, was among nineteen men elected to the executive board yesterday. Others elected, all for a term of four years, are Milton P. Altschul, of Cleveland; Sydney Devis, of Newark; Gustave D. Golding, of Chicago; Samuel Horwitz, of Cleveland; Judge Joseph L. Kun, of Philadelphia; Bernard L. Frankel, of Philadelphia; Louis L. Bloch, of Pittsburgh; Norris Garvet, of Detroit; Charle P. Kramer, of New York; Harry C. Markel, of Miami; Wilford M. Newman, of Chicago; Matthew Porosky, of Boston; Albert C. Weihl, of Cincinnati, and Dr. Jacques Zipser, of New York.

The following were elected for a term of two years: Charles Berg, of Portland, Oreg.; Jess Kaplan, of Toronto; Grover M. Muscowitz, of Brooklyn, and S. H. Kaufman, of Harrisburg, Pa.

Hugo Levy, leader of Jews in Brooklyn, at the closing session, appealed to the delegates for inauguration of a movement for the restoration of good will and better understanding among all citizens of the United States.

Police Plan to Bar Autos From Walks

Encroachment on Streets' Crosspaths Held to Be Increasing Menace.

A campaign to keep the crosswalks at street intersections clear of automobiles is being worked out by Traffic Director William H. Harland and Assistant Superintendent of Police E. W. Brown.

Motorists, Harland believes, are paying too little attention to the regulations requiring them to stop before they reach the crosswalk lines. Many hundreds of drivers, he says, run onto the crosswalks and stand while awaiting the signal to resume their courses.

This results in confusion to pedestrians and in general tends to carelessness in observance of safety regulations by both motorists and pedestrians, and the traffic authorities believe a stop should be put to the practice. It is not planned to launch a spectacular campaign with hundreds of arrests, but police probably will be instructed to force motorists either to back off the crosswalks or to turn into a side street to impress on them, through such an inconvenience, the necessity to leave free the space reserved for pedestrians. Efforts are to be made to get cooperation of drivers through the American Automobile Association and other motorists' clubs.

HEAT PROSTRATES 3; RELIEF IS PROMISED

MERCURY MOUNTS TO 92

Winds shifting into the northeast yesterday brought promise of relief at last from the torrid weather which has held Washington in its grip since Saturday morning.

Showers predicted for last night and this morning were to aid in beating off the heat; clouds which floated under the sky yesterday would continue, forecasters said, today and tomorrow.

The mercury again flirted with the April record yesterday, reaching a high point of 93 in midafternoon, only 2 degrees below the official record of 95 set April 27, 1915. In the kiosk at Pennsylvania avenue and E streets northwest 98 was the maximum.

In the shifting wind, forecasters pinned their hope for cooler weather. The scorching spell which has wilted the citizenry and visitors to Washington was caused, according to the Weather Bureau, by continued southwest winds bringing with them the heated air of the Gulf of Mexico. The winds, in turn, were attributed to an area of high pressure off the southeast coast.

As the day ended, three heat prostrations and one injury due indirectly to the sizzling weather had been recorded. The latter came when a colored woman was cut by a cooling bottle of beer which burst as she was opening it.

Richard Wilson, colored, 28 years old, 431 Third street southwest, was in serious condition at Emergency Hospital from heat prostration. He was working as a laborer at 815 Eighteenth street northwest when he collapsed. His condition was said to be improved last night.

Alice Taylor, 31 years old, a waitress, of 760 Seventh street southwest, collapsed from the effects of the heat at her place of employment at 704 Eleventh street northwest. Charles Quigley, 36, of Bradbury Heights, Md., was overcome by the heat at Twelfth and B streets northwest. Both were taken to Emergency Hospital, where it was said their condition was not serious.

As on Saturday and Sunday, Washingtonians and visitors yesterday sought to escape the heat in diverse ways. The parks were crowded, automobiles filled the streets and highways, boats and canoes dotted the waterways around the city.

Tennis players crowded public and private courts throughout the city. The golf courses had waiting lines at every tee.

And to add to the illusion that August had come, one straw hat was seen at Pennsylvania avenue and Fourteenth street northwest.

During the three days of unseasonable weather, the April record for the 58 years of the local bureau's history was thrice threatened. Each day brought temperatures near the high mark of 95. Sunday, in fact, it appeared that at any moment the record might be broken, when the mercury climbed past 93, reached 94, wavered a moment, and then halted, one degree below the hottest ever recorded here for the month of April. A record was set, however, for the hottest day in the year.

The official forecast issued late last night was "Mostly cloudy Tuesday and Wednesday, with occasional showers. Cooler Tuesday. Gentle to moderate northeast winds."

Double Cherry Blooms To be Out Next Sunday

The double blooms on the cheery trees around the Tidal Basin are expected to be in full flower next Sunday, it was said yesterday at the horticultural division of the office of Public Buildings and Public Parks.

The blossoms are already breaking forth. This is the earliest they have been in bloom in the last five years. Besides the cherry blossoms, the dogwood and other spring flowers are budding much earlier this year under the benign smile of the sun.

Bullet Hits Central High Girl In Target Drill at School

Eleanore Milburn, of Kensington, Struck in Leg, Refuses to Attempt Indentification of Student Firing Shot. Rifle Cleaning Accident, Theory Advanced.

While at target practice yesterday afternoon in the armory of Central High School, Eleanore Milburn, 18 years old, of 102 Connecticut avenue, Kensington, Md., a member of the girl's rifle team of the school, was shot accidentally in the right leg.

Miss Milburn refused to attempt to identify the person who shot her and told police, who investigated, that she did not know. The police also reported that other persons in the armory were unable to say who fired the shot. It was believed, though, that the shot was fired accidentally by some one who was cleaning a rifle.

Miss Milburn was taken to Garfield Hospital and treated by Dr. Bankhead, of the hospital staff, who said her injury was not serious.

The accident to Miss Milburn recalls the protest registered here several weeks ago at a meeting of a local citizens' association when speakers denounced the practice of teaching girls marksmanship.

ZIHLMAN PROPOSAL FOR 3 CENT GAS TAX MEETS OPPOSITION

Plan to Devote Extra Penny to Parks Given Cool Reception in District.

MIGHT LEAD TO ABUSE, IS STENGLE'S OPINION

Official Sees Scheme Born of Fuel Sellers Desire to Equalize Prices.

Proposal made by Representative Fred Zihlman, of Maryland, chairman of the House District committee, to increase the gasoline tax in the District from 2 to 3 cents and apply the added cent to development of public park lands is expected to meet with determined opposition among District officials and representatives of citizens' organizations.

Commissioner Proctor L. Dougherty yesterday refused to discuss the Zihlman proposal for publication, declaring that he may be called on later to express a formal opinion and wanted to study all sides of the question. None the less it was learned that Dougherty sees several things wrong with the scheme and believes that it will meet with wide disapproval among the people of the District.

Unsound, Stengle Says.

Charles I. Stengle, reelected member of the Citizens Advisory Council, declared that the Zihlman proposal was unsound taxation and should not be enacted.

"The average motorist does not object so much to the gasoline tax, because he knows that the money is coming directly back to him in the shape of better paved streets and roadways," Stengle declared. "But if we start making the gasoline tax pay for parks, the next thing you know it will be increased to help pay for something else, and there is no logical place to stop. The gasoline tax is a special tax and should be used and is justified only for the special and specific purpose for which it was imposed."

Several District officials feel the same way about the Zihlman proposal. One official said the scheme was partly born of the desire of gasoline selling concerns in nearby Maryland and Virginia who want to see the District gas tax boosted as high as the 4 cents in Virginia and the 3 cents in Maryland so that residents of nearby territories would buy their gasoline in their home territories rather than in Washington.

Called Special Problem.

Col. U. S. Grant 3d, concerned with the development of the program of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, also is being credited with having something to do with the initiation of the proposal, although there is none who questions Grant's sincerity of purpose. District officials feel, however, that the development of the park system of the National Capital is a distinct problem and should be treated as such and should not be forwarded through the imposition of a heavier special tax such as is the gasoline tax.

Mount Vernon Topic For D. A. R. Lecture

An illustrated lecture on "Mount Vernon and the Potomac" is to be given by Paul Wilstach, author and traveler, in the Memorial Continental Hall Saturday night, at 8 o'clock, for the delegates and members of the thirty-eighth Continental Congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Scenes will be shown of the vanished capital of St. Marys, Md., where Lord Baltimore's colonists came in the Ark and the Dove in 1634. There also will be shown scenes of modern Washington, one of them the Washington Monument through its chaplet of cherry blossoms.

Child, Alone in Home, Dies in Blazing Crib

Two-year-old Louis Wheeler, colored, of 2021 Flagler place northwest, was found burned to death in his crib by firemen who fought a small fire in his home yesterday afternoon.

Breaking in a bedroom door on the second floor, Private B. T. Harper, of No. 12 Engine Co., found the room and the baby's crib in flames. The boy was taken to Freedmen's Hospital where he was pronounced dead by Dr. J. N. Dodson. No one was home besides the baby at the time of the fire, which was of undetermined origin. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wheeler. Several hundred dollars' damage was done by the blaze.

Man Apprehended In Nude on Street

September Morn Imitation in Midcity Leads to Ward in Gallinger.

Physicians at Gallinger Hospital yesterday were asked to find out whether it was the heat, or whatnot, which prompted Herbert Alto, 38 years old, of 1319 West Virginia avenue northeast, to appear in the nude at Fifteenth and G streets yesterday afternoon.

M. F. Fry, of the Traffic Bureau, who was directing traffic at the intersection, took one look at Alto and then tried to get to him before too many others saw the man's plight. Alto, who was in the middle of Fifteenth street when he saw Fry coming toward him, ran into a nearby clothing store.

Without asking what the trouble was, Fry wrapped an overcoat around Alto and then took his prisoner to the Traffic Bureau. When Fry asked a superior what charge to place against him, it was suggested he be sent to Gallinger. He was, after explaining that he thought some one tampered with his locker in a Turkish bath establishment at Fifteenth and G streets northwest, and that he appeared on the street in an effort to apprehend the individual.

Woman Seeks $20,000 For Injuries by Truck

The Corby Baking Co., of 2301 Georgia avenue northwest, was named defendant in a suit for $20,000 damages filed yesterday in the District Supreme Court by Rachael Witt, of 2600 University place northwest, on charges of personal injuries.

The plaintiff declared she was crossing the street at New York avenue and H street northwest on last October 27, when she was struck by a truck owned by the defendant and seriously injured. She charged the driver of the truck was negligent. Attorneys Welch, Daily & Welch and Philip Wagshal appeared for the plaintiff.

BOTTLE'S RUM ODOR NOT GOOD EVIDENCE

Directed Verdict Frees Two Men; Warrant Based on Smell Brought Raid.

SERGEANT HELD 'FRAMED'

The odor of liquor in an empty bottle is insufficient grounds for obtaining a search warrant and conducting a raid, Judge Gus A. Schuldt ruled yesterday in directing a verdict acquitting Paul and Albert Schlossburg, of 1019 H street northeast, of possession of liquor charges yesterday in Police Court.

Motion for the directed verdict was made by Attorney Harry T. Whelan at the conclusion of the prosecution's presentation of the case before a jury. Ninth Precinct policemen testified that a detective entered the premises several months ago and discovered a soft drink bottle which smelled of liquor. On the strength of the odor, it was said a search warrant was obtained and a raid conducted a few days after the discovery. Judge Schuldt decided the case did not warrant going to the jury.

Sentence was pronounced on three men charged with liquor offenses, while charges against two others were dismissed.

Six other cases, two of which were covered by the Jones liquor felony law, were filed in the court.

Court records showed that 106 persons were arrested on intoxication charges over the week-end.

Army Sergeant Held "Framed."

Deciding some one had "framed" Sergt. John M. Horn U. S. A., 38 years old of Mount Rainier, Md., Judge Ralph Given dismissed a charge of possession against him. Detective S. F. Gravelly, of the Third Precinct, testified he received a telephone call from an unidentified person informing him that an automobile containing liquor could be found in front of the Black and White Taxi Co. garage on Twenty-fourth street northwest. An investigation disclosed the car and the liquor, it was said and resulted in the arrest of Horn when h returned to the car.

Capt. Robert A. Dixon, the defendant's commanding officer, and the Rev. J. Frederic Wenchel, pastor of his church, testified to Horn's good character.

Charges of second offense of sale and possession against Albert Simmons, colored, 42 years old, were nolle prossed by Assistant District Attorney R. F. Camalier. The prosecutor declared the informer in the case, Isaiah Earl, colored, could not be located and was not reliable.

Police Informer "Unreliable."

A $50 fine for possession was imposed on Frank Butler, colored, who pleaded guilty. Daniel V. Thomas, of 1631 S street northwest, was fined $100, and George J. Ciomei, of 1304 North Capitol street, was fined $300 on old charges of transporting and possession.

Jury trials on possession charges were asked by Gilbert Jervis, 45; Virgie Ford, 23; Alton Washington, 21, and James Tolson, 32, all colored, who were arrested over the week-end. Hearing of transporting and possession charges were waived by Edward Jackson and William A. Miles, both colored. They were bound over to the grand jury in $2,000 bail each.

Judge Isaac R. Hitt heard 49 cases of intoxication, and imposed average fines of $10 for each conviction. Fifty-seven other persons, charged with being drunk, forfeited collateral.

Mexican Education Topic at City Club

Official of Turbulent Republic Says Problems Are Social and Cultural.

Revolution has given Mexico "a new education," Senor Moises Saenz, of the Mexican Ministry of Education, declared at the City Club yesterday, at a luncheon given in his honor by the committee on cultural relations with Latin America.

Among the other speakers were Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur, William John Cooper, United States Commissioner of Education; Dr. Leo S. Rowe, director of the Pan-American Union, and Dr. Herbert Herring, director of the cultural relations committee. Education formed the topic for each speaker. The Mexican Ambassador, Senor Don Manuel C. Tellez, attended.

"The educational work in Mexico, in some of its most significant aspects, is no mere school work," Senor Saenz said, "but an all-around program of social improvement and rehabilitation; of civilization, in short. We have gone from pedagogics into the field of sociology. We are not interested in the pedagogical art as such. We face the urgent problem of incorporation of the masses into a Mexican culture."

CREDIT IN HOSPITALS ADVISED BY SPEAKER

Secretary of Association Supported in Contention by Dr. Ragsdale.

COOPERATION ALSO URGED

Benefits of cooperation and the advisability of extending the credit system in all hospitals to the "average citizen" occupied the attention of members of the Associated Retail Credit Men of Washington at a banquet in the Raleigh Hotel last night.

Stephen H. Talkes, secretary, advocated the establishment of the credit system in all hospitals, particularly those in Washington and nearby. He said that the average person that goes to the hospital is perfectly willing to pay, in fact, wants to pay for the services rendered, but has not always the money at the time. He inferred that many operations that should be performed are postponed because of the lack of cash. The credit system, he said, would eliminate this condition.

Dr. S. B. Ragsdale, superintendent of Columbia hospital, was a guest, and Mr. Talkes said he also advocates the credit system in hospitals. Dr. Ragsdale did not speak.

Chester Leasure, manager of the resolutions and referenda department of the United States Chamber of Commerce, spoke on the benefits of cooperation in business and commented upon the improved conditions in business as regards the public. He said that business men today want to have faults in their business pointed out by the public and that they are anxious to correct them. He declared that business is winning public confidence everywhere.

300 M. E. PASTORS SHIFTED AS ANNUAL CONFERENCE ENDS

SELF-PAYING CHURCHES HELD FUTURE OBJECTIVE

F. T. Benson, Editor, Is Dead; Next Meeting to Be Held in Cumberland, Md.

The Baltimore Annual Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church was brought to a close at Foundry Church yesterday afternoon with announcement of appointments of 300 ministers in the several districts comprising the conference and by reaffirmation of its stand for prohibition and wholehearted indorsement of "President Hoover and his administration of enforcement of the law."

Several changes were made in the Washington District. Other districts in which changes were made were the Baltimore, Baltimore East, Baltimore West and Frederick Districts.

Among recommendations in reports adopted at the final session of the six-day conference was the Lord's Day Alliance program for Sunday. Prayers were offered for success of President Hoover's administration. Resolutions of thanks expressing an appreciation to the press for publishing a record of the conference were adopted.

Word came to the session that Frank T. Benson, of Baltimore, editor of the Methodist Protestant, had died suddenly. A resolution of sympathy was adopted.

Churches to Be Self-Sustaining.

A report of the rural commission reaffirmed its recommendation for increase in ministerial salaries, urged that all churches be brought to a self-supporting basis and that new churches not be placed on the sustenance list. The report was adopted.

The conference will hold its next meeting on the first Wednesday in June of next year at the Center Street Church at Cumberland, Md., it was announced.

Several ministers in the Washington district will change pastorates, according to the appointments. More changes were made throughout the conference this year than in many years previously, it was said.

The Rev. Karl G. Newell, of the Rosedale pastorate, goes to Union Bridge, Md., in the Baltimore West district. The Rev. H. F. Downs will come to Rosedale.

The Rev. U. S. A. Heavener will retain his pastorate at Hyattsville and also take the pastorate at Dodge Park.

Lincoln Road Pastor Transferred.

The Rev. Roland Rice will come to Bruen and the Rev. W. F. Atkinson to the pastorate of Lincoln Road, while the Rev. C. H. Corkran, of Lincoln Road Church, will go to Catonsville, Md., in the Baltimore West district.

The Rev. C. S. Biggs will come to Ryland and the Rev. W. F. Carey, of Ryland, will go to Hiss, Md., in the Baltimore East district.

The Rev. A. F. Poore will come to Waugh, replacing the Rev. W. M. Heffman, who goes to Keyser, Md., in the Frederick district.
